Labor After Rocky on Short Crews

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller's forthcoming proposal to repeal the state's full-crew laws will produce heated and probably successful opposition from organized labor.

The laws, opposed by railroads as a source of featherbedding, specify the number of men who must be assigned to trains.

Railroad spokesmen say the laws force them to keep more than 2,000 unneeded workers at a cost of $17 million a year.

The governor's proposal for their repeal will be in his annual message to the opening session of the Legislature next Wednesday, informed sources reported.

Might Help Too

While labor opposition could pose a political problem for Rockfeller, a candidate for the Republican nomination for president, the recommendation might win him praise from conservatives.

The governor's immediate political concern in pursuing the nomination is winning the presidential-preference primary in New Hampshire, which has a large number of conservative Republican voters.

His reputation as a liberal has not helped him among those voters.

View of Conservatives

But a Rockefeller move that incurred the wrath of organized labor, such a avocating repeal of the full-crew laws, might win support from conservatives who feel that organized labor has gained much power in the councils of government.

The report Thursday that Rockefeller will propose repeal was among the increasing activity at the Capitol in preparation for the legislative session.

Other Angles

These were other developments:

Mahoney announced he would support legislation that would allow grand juries to resume the practice of publicizing reports that criticized public officials but contained no indictments. Assault Is Made on Viet Cong

Training Saves Rangers in Trap

BEN SUC, Viet Nam (AP)—A battalion of South Vietnamese rangers waded through brush and grass for a surprise assault on a heavy concentration of Communist guerrillas.

As the rangers crossed the Saigon River, 30 miles northwest of the capital, they encountered only small arms' fire. It looked like a sure government victory over the Viet Cong.

Instead, the Communists sprung a trap, and for six hours threatened the rangers with annihilation. Four rangers were killed, 17 were wounded, including a U.S. sergeant, and 30 still have not made it back to camp.

Saved by Training

Only the Rangers' superb fighting ability and training in the same tactics used by the Viet Cong averted a disaster, U.S. military advisers said after the action on New Year's Eve.

Target of the surprise attack was a Viet Cong battalion in Binh Duong Province.

The rangers crossed the Saigon River without incident. When the Communists put up heavier resistance, the rangers counterattacked, forcing the guerrillas back and swarming over their foxholes and entrenchments.

Rangers Lack Men

But the retreat obviously was meant to draw in the advancing rangers. From dug-in positions, the guerrillas opened a barrage of fire on the rangers, who were outnumbered 2-1.

The rangers tried to encircle the Viet Cong but lacked enough men.

As the rangers retreated, a dozen mortars opened fire from across the river. The Communists had taken over the foxholes and trenches between the rangers and the river.

The unit fought on, moving back from trench to trench. When they finally reached the river, they were bombarded for three more hours.

After darkness, the battalion pushed into the brush and waited for another Viet Cong attack.

The attack never came. The battalion finally recrossed the river but the battle showed the Communists were as formidable as ever as the jungle war entered its fifth year.

Rusk Calls For Close Analysis

Premier Urges All Renounce Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States today branded as "disappointing" Soviet Premier Khrushchev's global package proposal for renunciation of force in the settlement of territorial disputes.

In a statement the United States promised, however, to study carefully the Khrushchev message to President Johnson and other world leaders to find out whether "any constructive steps" for easing world tensions can be developed from it.

In effect, the statement issued by the State Department rejected the package as a whole but kept open the possibility of acceptance of some parts of it, perhaps in a counter proposal.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev grabbed a world wide propaganda initiative today with publication of his proposal for a global guarantee of international frontiers.

The first reaction in official Washington was cautious, cool, and skeptical.

Steals March on LJB

Diplomats said that Khrushchev, by moving swiftly, had clearly stolen a march on President Johnson in their parallel peace offensives. Administration officials questioned whether the proposal was put forth primarily as a peace gesture rather than for serious diplomatic negotiations.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk ordered a careful analysis of the lengthy document, which reached here Thursday as a personal note from Khrushchev to Johnson. It was forward to Johnson at his Texas ranch Thursday night.

No Johnson Comment

There was no immediate comment from the holiday White House at Johnson City, Tex.

Basically, Khrushchev's message proposed a four-point international agreement denouncing the use of force in settling territorial and frontier issues.

State Department officials said after a preliminary survey that the Khrushchev proposal contains many argumentative elements which the United States will, of course, have to reject. But they added that it would be studied for possible constructive provisions "on which we might be able to build something."

Could Freeze Cuba Stand

Khrushchev's round-robin proposition went to many leaders other than Johnson. The sweeping guarantee of all state frontiers which he proposed, for example, could freeze in treaty form U.S. acceptance of a Communist Cuba and give the Reds a new legal weapon to use (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Tax Bills Ready for Mailing

List Tax Rates for 20 Towns, All Are Higher

Tax rates for the 20 townships of Ulster County have been established for 1964, based on $1,000 of assessed valuation. Tax rates for the incorporated village's participation in the Highway Fund have also been fixed.

Tax bills for 1964 are expected to be in the mails in most townships during the weekend.

Figured Separately

In the townships the tax rate for the general fund and highway purposes are figured separately. Incorporated villages, as well as the City of Kingston, do not participate in Item I of the highway fund cost since they construct and maintain their own highways. Item I is the general construction and reconstruction of county highways.

Ellenville village, by action of the village trustees, is also exempt from the town snow removal charge to the amount of $50,000.

Is Sum of Two

The general tax rate in most townships includes the general cost of town government and the county charges prorated to each town. The highway tax reflects the total appropriation for town highway expenditures. The town tax rate is the sum of the two.

The village tax rate in several of the towns is composed of the general town tax plus the village portion of the town highway tax.

Johnson Is Hoping To Cut Red Ink Spending to Bone

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson's new budget will be in the neighborhood of a record $100 billion, but he hopes to cut red ink spending below the current level.

The budget estimate for fiscal 1965, disclosed Thursday night by a White House source, is less than anticipated. Still, it will be a new peak for government spending.

Unavoidable Hikes

Soon after taking office Johnson suggested he would have difficulty keeping the spending total below $102.5 billion or $103 billion. He blamed unavoidable increases already authorized by Congress.

The reduced figure is in keeping with the economy drive he has called for since then.

Balanced against the $100 billion spending total for the government year that begins July 1 will be forecast revenues of more than $90 billion. Johnson will tell Congress that revenues on this scale are dependent on early enactment of an $11 billion tax cut retroactive to Jan. 1.

The combination of Johnson's spending and revenue predictions would yield an indicated deficit of less than $10 billion.

Kennedy Forecast

A year ago, the late President John F. Kennedy recommended fiscal 1964 spending of $98.8 billion,a new high. Kennedy forecast revenues of $86.9 billion and a deficit of $11.9 billion.

Johnson kept his economy campaign rolling Thursday. Postmaster General John A. Gronouski was called to the LBJ Ranch to confer with the President and then told a news conference his department planned some savings.

The postal payroll will be trimmed by 5,000 workers in the next six months, Gronouski said, and fund requests for expansion and modernization of facilities will be reduced from (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Upstate Expansion $79 Million

Phone Co. Will Spend $621,000 in Locality

A $621,000 expansion program in Kingston and the surrounding area, part of $79 million to be expended this year in upstate New York was announced today by the New York Telephone Company.

G. Alan Johnson, local manager said the $621,000 expenditure in this area will be used to expand, improve and replace telephone facilities. This will include expansion of facilities on Albany Avenue and in the Woodstock-Bearsville area.

27,708 in Kingston

Johnson said the number of telephones in Kingston reached a total of 27,708, while the area total passed the 45,000 mark. This increase helped to bring the number of telephones in upstate New York to more than 2.2 million, he said.

The story of telephone growth can also be measured by the fact that on an average day last year, customers in Kingston made 110,040 local and long distance calls.

The company payroll for 1963 totaled $1,734,984 for the 269 telephone company employes serving Kingston.

In 1963 the company introduced a number of new products:

Lists New Items

The 20-40 Dial Pak—a small economic system tailored to the external and internal communication needs of businesses with 40 phone lines or less.

The Single-line Card Dialer—a phone that dials calls automaticaly and stores phone numbers on punched plastic cards.

Whisperphone Handset — for people with weak voices. This amplifies the caller's voice.

Innovations for the coming year were also announced. Visitors to the communications exhibit at the World's Fair will be abe to see and use the Touch-Tone or push button telephones of the future. There will be 1,400 of them throughout the fair grounds for public use.

New Recessed Unit

Mahoney Strong For Jury Reports About Officials

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A campaign to restore the practice of grand jury presentments received highly significant support today from Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney.

Presentments are public reports on the conduct of government officials found to merit censure but not indictments.

They were a traditional part of the grand jury system until 1961, when the Court of Appeals held in a 4-3 decision there was no legislative authority for issuing such reports and the practice must be stopped.

Efforts to draft a law providing the authority bogged down in the Legislature in disputes over details.

In a major breakthrough for those seeking the return of presentments, Mahoney announced today he would vote for the necessary legislation in the session opening Jan. 8. His support increased substantially the chances for passage.

Mahoney's comments were in a letter to Sen. MacNeil Mitchell, R-Manhattan, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and sponsor in the past two years of presentment bills.

Mitchell's bills would have limited presentments to conduct of public officials or persons employed on government business.

They also would have specified that grand juries held authority to exonerate persons who had been accused publicly of criminal acts.

The Mitchell bills have conflicted with legislation under which grand juries would have been allowed to report on "any matter of public interest," as was the case before the 1961 decision. Most prsentments dealt with public officials, bowver.

Gregory was out of the vehicle, and with Garrey Sutton, 13, of 475 Abeel Street, was attempting to get the car free when one driven by Frank Genther, 55, of Route 5 Kingston, headed around a turn, struck the station wagon. Kiwanis Is Told Kingston Future Looks Favorable

There are many more favorable than unfavorable factors involved in the future of Kingston, according to Sam Pepper, chairman of the Job Expansion Committee of the local Chamber of Commerce. He spoke to the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Pepper, a past president of the C of C, pointed out that if an individual was not happy with his neighborhood, he certainly did not qualify as a good salesman for the territory. This would have an adverse effect upon any new industry contemplating coming into a territory. Therefore it was essential that local citizens evaluate Kingston so that the city could be advertised successfully and thus insure a bright future.

Factors to be evaluated, according to Pepper, included historic background, citizenship, economic and business factors, education, community organizations, and other facilities available.

Figures compiled by the Chamber of Commerce on a national level, showed that for every one hundred new jobs in a community, 359 people come to the area who need products, one hundred or more houses are (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Johnson Is Hoping To Cut Red Ink Spending to Bone

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson's new budget will be in the neighborhood of a record $100 billion, but he hopes to cut red ink spending below the current level.

The budget estimate for fiscal 1965, disclosed Thursday night by a White House source, is less than anticipated. Still, it will be a new peak for government spending.

Unavoidable Hikes

Soon after taking office Johnson suggested he would have difficulty keeping the spending total below $102.5 billion or $103 billion. He blamed unavoidable increases already authorized by Congress.

The reduced figure is in keeping with the economy drive he has called for since then.

Balanced against the $100 billion spending total for the government year that begins July 1 will be forecast revenues of more than $90 billion. Johnson will tell Congress that revenues on this scale are dependent on early enactment of an $11 billion tax cut retroactive to Jan. 1.

The combination of Johnson's spending and revenue predictions would yield an indicated deficit of less than $10 billion.

Kennedy Forecast

A year ago, the late President John F. Kennedy recommended fiscal 1964 spending of $98.8 billion,a new high. Kennedy forecast revenues of $86.9 billion and a deficit of $11.9 billion.

Johnson kept his economy campaign rolling Thursday. Postmaster General John A. Gronouski was called to the LBJ Ranch to confer with the President and then told a news conference his department planned some savings.

The postal payroll will be trimmed by 5,000 workers in the next six months, Gronouski said, and fund requests for expansion and modernization of facilities will be reduced from (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

Upstate Expansion $79 Million

Phone Co. Will Spend $621,000 in Locality

A $621,000 expansion program in Kingston and the surrounding area, part of $79 million to be expended this year in upstate New York was announced today by the New York Telephone Company.

G. Alan Johnson, local manager said the $621,000 expenditure in this area will be used to expand, improve and replace telephone facilities. This will include expansion of facilities on Albany Avenue and in the Woodstock-Bearsville area.

27,708 in Kingston

Johnson said the number of telephones in Kingston reached a total of 27,708, while the area total passed the 45,000 mark. This increase helped to bring the number of telephones in upstate New York to more than 2.2 million, he said.

The story of telephone growth can also be measured by the fact that on an average day last year, customers in Kingston made 110,040 local and long distance calls.

The company payroll for 1963 totaled $1,734,984 for the 269 telephone company employes serving Kingston.

In 1963 the company introduced a number of new products:

Lists New Items

The 20-40 Dial Pak—a small economic system tailored to the external and internal communication needs of businesses with 40 phone lines or less.

The Single-line Card Dialer—a phone that dials calls automaticaly and stores phone numbers on punched plastic cards.

Whisperphone Handset — for people with weak voices. This amplifies the caller's voice.

Innovations for the coming year were also announced. Visitors to the communications exhibit at the World's Fair will be abe to see and use the Touch-Tone or push button telephones of the future. There will be 1,400 of them throughout the fair grounds for public use.

New Recessed Unit

Kiwanis Is Told Kingston Future Looks Favorable

There are many more favorable than unfavorable factors involved in the future of Kingston, according to Sam Pepper, chairman of the Job Expansion Committee of the local Chamber of Commerce. He spoke to the Kingston Kiwanis Club Thursday.

Pepper, a past president of the C of C, pointed out that if an individual was not happy with his neighborhood, he certainly did not qualify as a good salesman for the territory. This would have an adverse effect upon any new industry contemplating coming into a territory. Therefore it was essential that local citizens evaluate Kingston so that the city could be advertised successfully and thus insure a bright future.

Factors to be evaluated, according to Pepper, included historic background, citizenship, economic and business factors, education, community organizations, and other facilities available.

Figures compiled by the Chamber of Commerce on a national level, showed that for every one hundred new jobs in a community, 359 people come to the area who need products, one hundred or more houses are (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

Mahoney Strong For Jury Reports About Officials

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A campaign to restore the practice of grand jury presentments received highly significant support today from Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney.

Presentments are public reports on the conduct of government officials found to merit censure but not indictments.

They were a traditional part of the grand jury system until 1961, when the Court of Appeals held in a 4-3 decision there was no legislative authority for issuing such reports and the practice must be stopped.

Efforts to draft a law providing the authority bogged down in the Legislature in disputes over details.

In a major breakthrough for those seeking the return of presentments, Mahoney announced today he would vote for the necessary legislation in the session opening Jan. 8. His support increased substantially the chances for passage.

Mahoney's comments were in a letter to Sen. MacNeil Mitchell, R-Manhattan, chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee and sponsor in the past two years of presentment bills.

Mitchell's bills would have limited presentments to conduct of public officials or persons employed on government business.

They also would have specified that grand juries held authority to exonerate persons who had been accused publicly of criminal acts.

The Mitchell bills have conflicted with legislation under which grand juries would have been allowed to report on "any matter of public interest," as was the case before the 1961 decision. Most prsentments dealt with public officials, however.

Pope Paul Begins His Pilgrimage to Holy Land Jan. 4

By GERALD I. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI came today to the eve of his history-making pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

Throughout the Vatican, last-minute details of the papal trip were being attended to.

At Rome's Fiumicino Airport, the new four-engine DC8 that will carry the Pope to Amman, Jordan, Saturday was readied for its final test flight.

The Jordanians hung the ancient walls of Jerusalem's Old City with flags. Jordan's government called out a fourth of its security forces, including two brigades of tough desert troops, to patrol the papal routes.

Mingling of Flags

In the Israeli sector of Jerusalem, yellow and white Vatican flags were mingled along main streets with Israel's blue and white Star of David flag. Police Minister Bechor Shitrit toured the Pope's itinerary in Israel inspecting security and traffic arrangements.

The government press office announced about 800 foreign journalists had arrived in Israel to report the pilgrimage.

The Pope's two Holy Land hosts swapped critical words in connection with the pilgrimage.

Hussein's Answer

King Hussein of Jordan was asked at a news conference if he would accept papal mediation between Jordan and Israel if the Pope offered it. The king said the question had not arisen but the Israelis must "remedy the wrongs they've committed."

In the Israeli sector of Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Golda Meir accused the king of trying to exploit the Pope's visit for "purposes of political propaganda." But both Hussein and Mrs. Meir emphasized the Pope's avowal that his pilgrimage was entirely of a religious nature.

Several Firsts

It will be the first papal trip to the Holy Land, the first papal plane ride, the first papal trip outside Italy in 150 years and possibly the longest papal journey in history.

The trip also will bring about the first meeting of a Pope and a patriarch of the Orthodox Church since 1438. In Jerusalem Pope Paul will meet Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople (Istanbul), spiritual leader of the 150 million Orthodox.

Phone Co. Will

phone, a unit mounted flush with the wall for extra space saving. Also available will be the new Magicall telephone which remembers up to 950 telephone numbers on a magnetic tape. The phone lets you select the number you want and then dials the call.

For businessmen, there will be the Business Interphone, a new intercom arrangement combined with regular telephone service.

There will also be a new phone that will make it possible for the customer to control the volume of voices on both ends, a great help in locations where background noise is a problem.

Johnson said the New York Telephone Company worked closely with American Telephone and Telegraph Company on plans for the Bell System exhibit at the New York World's Fair. Visitors to the fair may follow the story of communications through an exciting ride, animated displays and demonstrations in which the public may participate, he said.

Paid $242,761 in Taxes

In further statistics announced, Johnson said the company paid $242,761 in local taxes. This was in addition to federal and state taxes and excise taxes on service collected directly from customers.

Out of every dollar the telephone user pays for services, 32 cents goes for taxes, Johnson said. "The tax burden on telephone service in New York State is high — actually 54 per cent higher per telephone than the average for the other 47 states from Maine to California. New York Telephone Company pays almost six per cent of all state business taxes.

conservative followers across the nation.

A Goldwater associate also said the senator plans to file for his third Senate term but that he will withdraw from that race if he wins the GOP presidential nomination.

Goldwater's declaration today put him into the race with New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller, the only other announced GOP candidate, who already has been campaigning in New Hampshire where voters will ballot March 10 in the nation's first presidential primary.

The Goldwater camp said the senator also will launch a campaign in New Hampshire soon.

City Court Cases

Harry Valk, 40, of Route 1, Saugerties, was charged Thursday with leaving the scene of an accident dating back to Dec. 7. It is charged that the station wagon he drove struck a parked car near 496 Albany Avenue. Attorney Thomas F. Saccoman appeared with him in city court today and hearing was put over to Jan. 22. Harold W. Downs, 26, of Glenford, charged with a traffic violation, pleaded guilty Thursday and was fined $10. He pleaded innocent to a charge of driving with inadequate lights, and trial was set down for Jan. 8.

Radio Devotes Most Of Time to Bible

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The entire Bible is being read nearly nonstop over Newark radio station WFME-FM.

It started at 6 a.m. Jan. 1. It will continue for 18 hours each day, with time out for a Sunday morning church service, until about 6 p.m. Monday. Everything else was canceled, including the news.

The reading was recorded on tapes by 1,376 volunteers from 20 states, each of whom reads about 25 verses.

Many of the readers were stopped in book stores or churches, and recorded without rehearsal.

The readers include a quavery-voiced grandmother, a piping 8-year-old boy, a precise college dean, a twangy sawmill worker, a telephone operator.

Jack French, manager of the station, said the idea was to capture the voices of America and keep professionals out.

Kiwanis Is Told

necessary, facilities are needed for these new people, 97 additional cars can be expected, 65 additional jobs may be created, $229,000 in bank deposits can be expected, $300,000 in additional sales are probable, three more stores will be needed, 91 school children will be added to the area, and in general the 100 new jobs will create progress for all.

Growth Starts in 1950

In 1910, said Sam Pepper, the population of the area stood at 92,000, which suffered an 18 per cent decrease through 1920. This drop was caused mostly by changes in industry said the speaker. From 1920 until 1950 the population was static, but in 1950 and from that time forward the area has enjoyed a tremendous population growth.

Pepper touched briefly on the factors involved in the future of Kingston—most of which were favorable, according to him. The historic background spoke for itself favorably, but he listed the matter of citizenship on the loss-side of the ledger and supported his assertion with the lack of interest shown by citizens in public hearings and participation in municipal offices and affairs.

Economic and business factors indicated a profitable existence with current investments in refurbishing buildings, the expansion of present industries, and the possibility of new industry locating in the area.

Praises School System

Pepper praised the local school system "as the finest in the state," and pointed to the large percentage of graduates and the establishment of the Community College, as indicating the bright future education-wise for the community.

The matter of taxes, according to the speaker, showed Kingston by comparison as being in a favorable position. He compared the city with Albany, Poughkeepsie, and Newburgh, and indicated that Kingston was much better situated taxwise than the neighboring cities. This condition, said Pepper, was partially due to wise financing by local legislators.

Covers Health, Welfare

Health and welfare was a favorable factor, with the presence of "fine hospitals, nursing schools, and a well-staffed health and welfare department." He indicated that the volunteer health agencies were well-supported too.

The religious aspects of the area showed "excellent possibilities," and would be able to take care of expansion, said the speaker.

Community organizations, recreational facilities, and cultural opportunities were also mentioned in the "plus" category for the area—all indicating an attractive condition. Pepper did emphasize that better support of the Community Chest would increase the favorable factors of the area.

Promote Home, His Request

Parking and traffic facilities within the city did present a problem, but Pepper indicated that action on these unfavorable items was underway. He pointed ou that the highway facilities surrounding Kingston were fast becoming quite adequate and that this would help entrance and exit into the city.

In conclusion, Pepper asked the Kiwanians to "promote your own home," indicating that "it pays to advertise," and "it is to your own benefit to help make Kingston's future an excellent one."

Capital Is Cool

against hit-run attacks with any kind of U.S. connection.

Yet in respect to Formosa Khrushchev made an exception, treating it in accord with the Red Chinese line that Formosa is not international territory but an area which belongs to China. The United States, taking an opposite view, has demanded for years that Red China renounce the use of force in its claim on Formosa.

A Tass digest of the message said Khrushchev had told world leaders in messages delivered Thursday:

"At the present time such a situation has arisen when it is possible to practically pose and solve the problem of excluding from international life the use of force in territorial disputes between states."

The message says the international agreement should contain four main provisions:

by the parties not to resort to force to alter existing state frontiers;

Other Points

Second, acknowledgment that the territories of states should not, even temporarily, be the object of any invasion, attack, military occupation or any other forcible measure directly or indirectly undertaken by other states for whatever political, economic, strategic, frontier, or any other considerations;

Third, a firm statement to the effect that neither differences in social and state systems, nor refusal to grant recognition or absence of diplomatic relations or any other pretexts may serve as a basis for the violation by one state of the territorial integrity of another;

Fourth, a committment to solve all territorial disputes solely by peaceful means such as negotiations, mediation, conciliatory procedures, and also other peaceful means chosen by the parties concerned, in conformity with the United Nations Charter.

The Tass summary of the message added:

"The Soviet government is deeply convinced that an undertaking by states to settle territorial disputes by peaceful means only would go a long way toward putting international relations in order.

Could Lead to Solutions

"It can be said with confidence that in the new situation created by the conclusion of an agreement on the renunciation by states of the use of force to settle territorial disputes it would be much easier to find a solution to other fundamental international problems. This applies above all to the problem of disarmament.

"The Soviet government has arrived at the conclusion that while continuing to work tirelessly for the solution of the problem of general and complete disarmament it would be useful simultaneously to redouble our efforts in eliminating acute frictions in relations between states and centers of tension."

Tass said Premier Khrushchev pointed to Formosa:

"This island since ancient times is a component part of the Chinese state. The unlawful occupation of Taiwan (Formosa) by American troops must be terminated. The island is an inalienable part of the People's Republic of China and would have been reunified with it long since were it not for the external interference of another state." (meaning the United States.)

Khrushchev also singled out Korea, Viet Nam and Germany as areas where the use of force in settling frontier disputes should be renounced.

The territorial claims of "revenge-seeking states which were the aggressors in the second World War must be resolutely rejected as incompatible with the interests of peace, because nothing but a new world war may grow out of these claims."

May Sink Junk Cars

NEW YORK (AP) — The problem: What to do with old automobiles abandoned in city streets. There were 13,600 last year.

One solution: Dump them in the Atlantic Ocean off Long Island where they'd make homes for fish — as wrecks do — and perhaps improve the fishing.

Commissioner Frank J. Lucia of the Department of Sanitation said Thursday his idea may get serious consideration unless the price of scrap increases. Junk cars bring $5 each, C.O.D.

Red's Manager Has Malignancy, Brother Reports

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cincinnati Reds, who has been ailing recently, has a malignancy, it was announced Friday.

The extent and position of the malignancy were not disclosed.

The announcement came from Bill DeWitt, president and general manager of the Reds, and confirmed by Hutchinson's physician brother, at whose home in Seattle the Cincinnati manager is staying.

Dr. William Hutchinson declined to give details of his brother's illness.

"I think that covers it for now," Dr. Hutchinson said after confirming the malignancy and saying his brother would remain in Seattle for two months for treatment. "It's something of a shocker, of course, and a personal matter besides."

DeWitt said he hoped the treatments would "prepare Hutchinson for the spring training and the 1964 season."

Reds pitchers and catchers are scheduled to begin spring training at Tampa, Fla. on Feb. 29, with other players reporting March 5.

DeWitt said Hutchinson went to Seattle last Sunday after having been treated in Florida, where he lives.

"We don't know how it will come out," DeWitt said, "but we are going ahead with spring training plans on the premise he will be there. Of course, you never know how those things will come out."

Hutchinson, 44, has managed the Reds since July 8, 1959 and guided them to their first National League pennant in 21 years in 1961. He previously managed the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals after a long career as a pitcher for the Tigers.

Johnson Is Hoping

$43 million to $10 million.

Confers on Housing

The President also conferred with Robert C. Weaver, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, who later told newsmen the administration will send Congress a comprehensive housing bill calling for a significant stepup in the public housing program and expansion of Federal Housing Administration activities.

There also will be some brand new proposals, such as easy credit to help big subdivision developers put in water and sewer lines, and aid for low income families ousted by slum clearance activities.

Weaver indicated these would require relatively small spending hikes. Some can be financed out of existing programs, he said.

Summoned to Texas

Summoned to the LBJ Ranch today were Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Asst. Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson, the highest ranking woman in government. It was learned she will be given an additional assignment as presidential assistant on consumer matters—a new post.

Thursday, Johnson signed a personal letter to be delivered to Pope Paul VI during the pontiff's Holy Land pilgrimage by Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps. The message will be made public at a later date.

Translators are working on a 21-page message to the President from Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Delivered at the State Department Thursday, it reportedly proposes that Johnson and other world leaders join in a pledge to avoid force in settling international disputes.

Labor After

course of the session on his hopes for providing low-income families with housing that would be free of the social problems now found in many public housing projects. The governor is said to be awaiting a report from his housing committee before drafting the regulations.

Rockefeller's recommendation for repeal of the ful-crew laws will contain no political references.

He will cite the findings of a national arbitration panel that many jobs deemed excess be eliminated from freight trains.

Those findings, now being challenged in the courts by national railroad unions, would guarantee existing jobs of railway workers with more than two years service. But those jobs designated unnecessary would not be filled when they became vacant.

Spokesmen for railway labor in New York said they would wage an all-out fight to induce members of the Legislature to reject the governor's proposal.

Rockefeller Is Ready to Take On Goldwater

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York returns to New Hampshire today, convinced that Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona will be his chief opponent for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller is reopening his campaign on the day that Goldwater is to announce in Phoenix, Ariz., whether he, too, will seek the nomination and enter New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary on March 10.

A source close to Goldwater said in Phoenix Thursday night the senator will make the race.

There was little, if any, doubt of it in the Rockefeller camp. Ex-Gov. Hugh Gregg, campaign chairman for Rockefeller in New Hampshire, renewed a challenge Thursday for Goldwater to meet the governor in a series of public debates.

Gregg said he was doing so "on the eve of Sen. Goldwater's long-delayed decision to announce his candidacy."

Rockefeller flies to Portsmouth for a major speech at a public meeting of the Portsmouth Young Republican Club tonight.

After the speech, Rockefeller will go to Concord, the capital, and spend the night. Saturday morning he will make a brief handshaking tour, hold a news conference and then fly to New York City.

Most New Hampshire politicians say they see no evidence that Rockefeller has been the beneficiary of any loss in political strength Goldwater may have suffered after President Kennedy's assassination.

Goldwater, despite a slip in the polls, is still considered the front runner in this state.

Quits Niagara GOP

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—Edmund H. Brown resigned Thursday night as chairman of the Niagara County Republican Committee, and Henry Smith III was immediately elected to succeed him.

The Republican Party lost ground in Niagara County in elections during the last two years. Brown, a member of the State Power Authority, had headed the county committee for more than seven years.

Smith was defeated last November in a bid for re-election as county judge. He was mayor of North Tonawanda at one time.

Aristarchus, Greek astronomer, was first to state that the earth revolves around the sun.

Raichle Assails Schwenk's Taxes

Supervisor Clarence C. Raichle (R), 12th Ward, proponent of a county sales tax, today called "discriminatory in its present form" the suggestion of Mayor John J. Schwenk that a sewer rental tax and consumer utility tax might be imposed to relieve the tax burden on property owners.

In a statement issued Supervisor Raichle said:

"The recent suggested tax on various necessities which are the basic essential to everyday life would be unfair and discriminatory in their present form."

"As a proponent of the county sales tax I am against any form of taxation for 'real property owners.' To my way of thinking, this is double jeopardy (tax on tax). With a county sales tax, we could alleviate a number of ills. The revenue derived from this type tax would be approximately $1,500,000, on a county level.

"It would be allocated thus:—50 per cent toward school tax and 50 per cent toward real property tax. Hence other financial demands in county and city could be met equitably by all residents."

Gift Shop Burglary

Local police were notified late this morning of an overnight burglary at the K-Ray gift shop, 362 Broadway. Some $5 in change was reported taken from a cash drawer. Entrance was gained through the breaking of a glass on a rear door.

Pope Paul Begins His Pilgrimage to Holy Land Jan. 4

By GERALD I. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI came today to the eve of his history-making pilgrimage to the Holy Land.

Throughout the Vatican, last-minute details of the papal trip were being attended to.

At Rome's Fiumicino Airport, the new four-engine DC8 that will carry the Pope to Amman, Jordan, Saturday was readied for its final test flight.

The Jordanians hung the ancient walls of Jerusalem's Old City with flags. Jordan's government called out a fourth of its security forces, including two brigades of tough desert troops, to patrol the papal routes.

Mingling of Flags

In the Israeli sector of Jerusalem, yellow and white Vatican flags were mingled along main streets with Israel's blue and white Star of David flag. Police Minister Bechor Shitrit toured the Pope's itinerary in Israel inspecting security and traffic arrangements.

The government press office announced about 800 foreign journalists had arrived in Israel to report the pilgrimage.

The Pope's two Holy Land hosts swapped critical words in connection with the pilgrimage.

Hussein's Answer

King Hussein of Jordan was asked at a news conference if he would accept papal mediation between Jordan and Israel if the Pope offered it. The king said the question had not arisen but the Israelis must "remedy the wrongs they've committed."

In the Israeli sector of Jerusalem, Foreign Minister Golda Meir accused the king of trying to exploit the Pope's visit for "purposes of political propaganda." But both Hussein and Mrs. Meir emphasized the Pope's avowal that his pilgrimage was entirely of a religious nature.

Several Firsts

It will be the first papal trip to the Holy Land, the first papal plane ride, the first papal trip outside Italy in 150 years and possibly the longest papal journey in history.

The trip also will bring about the first meeting of a Pope and a patriarch of the Orthodox Church since 1438. In Jerusalem Pope Paul will meet Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople (Istanbul), spiritual leader of the 150 million Orthodox.

Radio Devotes Most Of Time to Bible

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — The entire Bible is being read nearly nonstop over Newark radio station WFME-FM.

It started at 6 a.m. Jan. 1. It will continue for 18 hours each day, with time out for a Sunday morning church service, until about 6 p.m. Monday. Everything else was canceled, including the news.

The reading was recorded on tapes by 1,376 volunteers from 20 states, each of whom reads about 25 verses.

Many of the readers were stopped in book stores or churches, and recorded without rehearsal.

The readers include a quavery-voiced grandmother, a piping 8-year-old boy, a precise college dean, a twangy sawmill worker, a telephone operator.

Jack French, manager of the station, said the idea was to capture the voices of America and keep professionals out.

Kiwanis Is Told

Growth Starts in 1950

In 1910, said Sam Pepper, the population of the area stood at 92,000, which suffered an 18 per cent decrease through 1920. This drop was caused mostly by changes in industry said the speaker. From 1920 until 1950 the population was static, but in 1950 and from that time forward the area has enjoyed a tremendous population growth.

Pepper touched briefly on the factors involved in the future of Kingston—most of which were favorable, according to him. The historic background spoke for itself favorably, but he listed the matter of citizenship on the loss-side of the ledger and supported his assertion with the lack of interest shown by citizens in public hearings and participation in municipal offices and affairs.

Economic and business factors indicated a profitable existence with current investments in refurbishing buildings, the expansion of present industries, and the possibility of new industry locating in the area.

Praises School System

Pepper praised the local school system "as the finest in the state," and pointed to the large percentage of graduates and the establishment of the Community College, as indicating the bright future education-wise for the community.

The matter of taxes, according to the speaker, showed Kingston by comparison as being in a favorable position. He compared the city with Albany, Poughkeepsie, and Newburgh, and indicated that Kingston was much better situated taxwise than the neighboring cities. This condition, said Pepper, was partially due to wise financing by local legislators.

Covers Health, Welfare

Health and welfare was a favorable factor, with the presence of "fine hospitals, nursing schools, and a well-staffed health and welfare department." He indicated that the volunteer health agencies were well-supported too.

The religious aspects of the area showed "excellent possibilities," and would be able to take care of expansion, said the speaker.

Community organizations, recreational facilities, and cultural opportunities were also mentioned in the "plus" category for the area—all indicating an attractive condition. Pepper did emphasize that better support of the Community Chest would increase the favorable factors of the area.

Promote Home, His Request

Parking and traffic facilities within the city did present a problem, but Pepper indicated that action on these unfavorable items was underway. He pointed ou that the highway facilities surrounding Kingston were fast becoming quite adequate and that this would help entrance and exit into the city.

In conclusion, Pepper asked the Kiwanians to "promote your own home," indicating that "it pays to advertise," and "it is to your own benefit to help make Kingston's future an excellent one."

Capital Is Cool

against hit-run attacks with any kind of U.S. connection.

Yet in respect to Formosa Khrushchev made an exception, treating it in accord with the Red Chinese line that Formosa is not international territory but an area which belongs to China. The United States, taking an opposite view, has demanded for years that Red China renounce the use of force in its claim on Formosa.

A Tass digest of the message said Khrushchev had told world leaders in messages delivered Thursday:

"At the present time such a situation has arisen when it is possible to practically pose and solve the problem of excluding from international life the use of force in territorial disputes between states."

The message says the international agreement should contain four main provisions:
by the parties not to resort to force to alter existing state frontiers;

Other Points

Second, acknowledgment that the territories of states should not, even temporarily, be the object of any invasion, attack, military occupation or any other forcible measure directly or indirectly undertaken by other states for whatever political, economic, strategic, frontier, or any other considerations;

Third, a firm statement to the effect that neither differences in social and state systems, nor refusal to grant recognition or absence of diplomatic relations or any other pretexts may serve as a basis for the violation by one state of the territorial integrity of another;

Fourth, a committment to solve all territorial disputes solely by peaceful means such as negotiations, mediation, conciliatory procedures, and also other peaceful means chosen by the parties concerned, in conformity with the United Nations Charter.

The Tass summary of the message added:

"The Soviet government is deeply convinced that an undertaking by states to settle territorial disputes by peaceful means only would go a long way toward putting international relations in order.

Could Lead to Solutions

"It can be said with confidence that in the new situation created by the conclusion of an agreement on the renunciation by states of the use of force to settle territorial disputes it would be much easier to find a solution to other fundamental international problems. This applies above all to the problem of disarmament.

"The Soviet government has arrived at the conclusion that while continuing to work tirelessly for the solution of the problem of general and complete disarmament it would be useful simultaneously to redouble our efforts in eliminating acute frictions in relations between states and centers of tension."

Tass said Premier Khrushchev pointed to Formosa:

"This island since ancient times is a component part of the Chinese state. The unlawful occupation of Taiwan (Formosa) by American troops must be terminated. The island is an inalienable part of the People's Republic of China and would have been reunified with it long since were it not for the external interference of another state." (meaning the United States.)

Khrushchev also singled out Korea, Viet Nam and Germany as areas where the use of force in settling frontier disputes should be renounced.

The territorial claims of "revenge-seeking states which were the aggressors in the second World War must be resolutely rejected as incompatible with the interests of peace, because nothing but a new world war may grow out of these claims."

May Sink Junk Cars

NEW YORK (AP) — The problem: What to do with old automobiles abandoned in city streets. There were 13,600 last year.

One solution: Dump them in the Atlantic Ocean off Long Island where they'd make homes for fish — as wrecks do — and perhaps improve the fishing.

Commissioner Frank J. Lucia of the Department of Sanitation said Thursday his idea may get serious consideration unless the price of scrap increases. Junk cars bring $5 each, C.O.D.

Red's Manager Has Malignancy, Brother Reports

CINCINNATI (AP) — Manager Fred Hutchinson of the Cincinnati Reds, who has been ailing recently, has a malignancy, it was announced Friday.

The extent and position of the malignancy were not disclosed.

The announcement came from Bill DeWitt, president and general manager of the Reds, and confirmed by Hutchinson's physician brother, at whose home in Seattle the Cincinnati manager is staying.

Dr. William Hutchinson declined to give details of his brother's illness.

"I think that covers it for now," Dr. Hutchinson said after confirming the malignancy and saying his brother would remain in Seattle for two months for treatment. "It's something of a shocker, of course, and a personal matter besides."

DeWitt said he hoped the treatments would "prepare Hutchinson for the spring training and the 1964 season."

Reds pitchers and catchers are scheduled to begin spring training at Tampa, Fla. on Feb. 29, with other players reporting March 5.

DeWitt said Hutchinson went to Seattle last Sunday after having been treated in Florida, where he lives.

"We don't know how it will come out," DeWitt said, "but we are going ahead with spring training plans on the premise he will be there. Of course, you never know how those things will come out."

Hutchinson, 44, has managed the Reds since July 8, 1959 and guided them to their first National League pennant in 21 years in 1961. He previously managed the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals after a long career as a pitcher for the Tigers.

Johnson Is Hoping

$43 million to $10 million.

Confers on Housing

The President also conferred with Robert C. Weaver, administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, who later told newsmen the administration will send Congress a comprehensive housing bill calling for a significant stepup in the public housing program and expansion of Federal Housing Administration activities.

There also will be some brand new proposals, such as easy credit to help big subdivision developers put in water and sewer lines, and aid for low income families ousted by slum clearance activities.

Weaver indicated these would require relatively small spending hikes. Some can be financed out of existing programs, he said.

Summoned to Texas

Summoned to the LBJ Ranch today were Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Asst. Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson, the highest ranking woman in government. It was learned she will be given an additional assignment as presidential assistant on consumer matters—a new post.

Thursday, Johnson signed a personal letter to be delivered to Pope Paul VI during the pontiff's Holy Land pilgrimage by Sargent Shriver, director of the Peace Corps. The message will be made public at a later date.

Translators are working on a 21-page message to the President from Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Delivered at the State Department Thursday, it reportedly proposes that Johnson and other world leaders join in a pledge to avoid force in settling international disputes.

Labor After

course of the session on his hopes for providing low-income families with housing that would be free of the social problems now found in many public housing projects. The governor is said to be awaiting a report from his housing committee before drafting the regulations.

Rockefeller's recommendation for repeal of the ful-crew laws will contain no political references.

He will cite the findings of a national arbitration panel that many jobs deemed excess be eliminated from freight trains.

Those findings, now being challenged in the courts by national railroad unions, would guarantee existing jobs of railway workers with more than two years service. But those jobs designated unnecessary would not be filled when they became vacant.

Spokesmen for railway labor in New York said they would wage an all-out fight to induce members of the Legislature to reject the governor's proposal.

4 Persons Hurt

ory, 13, both of Eddyville. They suffered head contusions. The Gregory boy is not related to the driver of the station wagon. He and Gromoll rode in the other car.

All were taken to Kingston Hospital by Doctors Ambulance Service. Lee Gregory, admitted, was reported in satisfactory condition this afternoon.

Officers Louis Sapp and James Amato investigated.

Traffic was detoured away from the area until a wrecker cleared the road at the scene.

Color television, in a crude state, was demonstrated as early as 1930, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Rockefeller Is Ready to Take On Goldwater

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York returns to New Hampshire today, convinced that Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona will be his chief opponent for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller is reopening his campaign on the day that Goldwater is to announce in Phoenix, Ariz., whether he, too, will seek the nomination and enter New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary on March 10.

A source close to Goldwater said in Phoenix Thursday night the senator will make the race.

There was little, if any, doubt of it in the Rockefeller camp. Ex-Gov. Hugh Gregg, campaign chairman for Rockefeller in New Hampshire, renewed a challenge Thursday for Goldwater to meet the governor in a series of public debates.

Gregg said he was doing so "on the eve of Sen. Goldwater's long-delayed decision to announce his candidacy."

Rockefeller flies to Portsmouth for a major speech at a public meeting of the Portsmouth Young Republican Club tonight.

After the speech, Rockefeller will go to Concord, the capital, and spend the night. Saturday morning he will make a brief handshaking tour, hold a news conference and then fly to New York City.

Most New Hampshire politicians say they see no evidence that Rockefeller has been the beneficiary of any loss in political strength Goldwater may have suffered after President Kennedy's assassination.

Goldwater, despite a slip in the polls, is still considered the front runner in this state.

Quits Niagara GOP

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP)—Edmund H. Brown resigned Thursday night as chairman of the Niagara County Republican Committee, and Henry Smith III was immediately elected to succeed him.

The Republican Party lost ground in Niagara County in elections during the last two years. Brown, a member of the State Power Authority, had headed the county committee for more than seven years.

Smith was defeated last November in a bid for re-election as county judge. He was mayor of North Tonawanda at one time.

Raichle Assails Schwenk's Taxes

Supervisor Clarence C. Raichle (R), 12th Ward, proponent of a county sales tax, today called "discriminatory in its present form" the suggestion of Mayor John J. Schwenk that a sewer rental tax and consumer utility tax might be imposed to relieve the tax burden on property owners.

In a statement issued Supervisor Raichle said:

"The recent suggested tax on various necessities which are the basic essential to everyday life would be unfair and discriminatory in their present form."

"As a proponent of the county sales tax I am against any form of taxation for 'real property owners.' To my way of thinking, this is double jeopardy (tax on tax). With a county sales tax, we could alleviate a number of ills. The revenue derived from this type tax would be approximately $1,500,000, on a county level.

"It would be allocated thus:—50 per cent toward school tax and 50 per cent toward real property tax. Hence other financial demands in county and city could be met equitably by all residents."

Gift Shop Burglary

To Continue Searching Lake for Body of Boy

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — A Coast Guard search was to resume today on Lake Ontario for the body of a 14-year-old youth, son of an Oswego County supervisor, who was swept from a narrow breakwater by a wave.

Police said Daniel Vincent of Oswego was swept into the icy water Thursday as he and two friends made their way along the breakwater 700 feet from shore.

Patrick J. Woods, 12, jumped into the water in an effort to help his friend, police said, and had to be pulled to safety by the third boy, Robert Waver, 13, who used a jacket as a life rope.

The Weaver and Woods boys were admitted to Oswego Hospital, where they were reported in good condition.

Waves in the lake were running 8 to 15 feet high as the boys picked their way along the eight-inch-wide breakwater.

Vincent was the son of Arthur Vincent, a member of the Oswego County Board of Supervisors.

Rocky's Backers Plan Opening of Western Action

SEATTLE (AP) — Supporters of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York prepared today to open the western front in the governor's declared campaign for the GOP presidential nomination.

Representatives of 12 western states, headed by R. Mort Frayn of Seattle, opened a two-day meeting here to lay the groundwork for the Rockefeller drive. They met as the governor opened a two-day campaign in New Hampshire, scene of the nation's first presidential primary March 10.

Frayn, Rockefeller chairman for western states, said backers of the governor would atend from Alaska, Hawaii, California, Idaho, Colorado, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Wyoming and Washington.

George Hinman, Republican national committeeman from New York, was to address the meeting tonight.

Rockefeller has said he will enter the May 15 primary in Oregon.

He was named acting majority leader of the lower house briefly in 1943 when the regular majority leader temporarily took the position of assembly speaker.

Schulman was born in Russia and was brought to this country by his parents at the age of 3. He attended the New York University Law School and came to Rochester in 1919.

A defenctive wood burning stove caused the blaze, officials said.

Electrical Mixup

KANSAS CITY (AP)—If you believed the weather beacon atop an office building Thursday night, the forecast was for clear, stormy, snowy, clear, stormy, snowy.

The beacon, which indicates those conditions with green, red and white lights—in that order —was flashing them in sequence.

It was an electrical mixup—but not as bad as the one a few years ago when on a hot summer night the light indicated snow.

Dems Favor Humphrey But Results Suggest Shriver as Johnson Mate

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) —Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey topped the balloting, but results of a nation poll of Democratic county chairmen heightened speculation that President Johnson's running mate may be someone closely identified with John F. Kennedy.

More specifically, several Johnson aides suggested today that the results added up to a plus for the potential candidacy of Sargent Shriver, Peace Corps director and brother-in-law of the assassinated president.

Support for Bobby

The poll, conducted by The Associated Press, turned up notable support for both Shriver and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as among the party's best choices for the November vice presidential nomination.

Humphrey, a Minnesotan who is assistant Senate Democratic leader, paced the balloting with 185 votes.

He said "I am honored and flattered by the national poll. It is always gratifying to have friendly consideration by your fellow Americans. The decision for vice president, however, will be made by the Democratic convention, which I am confident will respect the wishes in this matter of President Johnson."

Robert Kennedy, a close second with 166 votes, declined comment.

Shriver Ranks Fifth

Shriver ranked fifth with 43 votes, trailing Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York —both regarded as dark horse possibilities.

Some politically oriented Johnson associates said they were struck by the combined strength of Robert Kennedy and Shriver, as well as the scattering of votes for Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts, youngest brother of the late president, and for Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

Shriver Ranks Fifth

Shriver ranked fifth with 43 votes, trailing Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York —both regarded as dark horse possibilities.

Some politically oriented Johnson associates said they were struck by the combined strength of Robert Kennedy and Shriver, as well as the scattering of votes for Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy of Massachusetts, youngest brother of the late president, and for Mrs. John F. Kennedy.

SOME DRIVE THIS WAY

The Navy is looking into the possibility of controlling weapons and other mechanical devices by "thinking about them."

Office of Naval Research has signed a research contract, reports Missiles and Rockets magazine, "to investigate the feasibility of utilizing electrical potentials on the surface of the skin for the control of functions."

The study is based on the theory that the electrical signals which activate human muscles can be tapped into and hooked up with mechanical systems. Possible uses include:

Astronauts under heavy G loads could do things otherwise impossible.

Weapons could be aimed by the movements of a man's eyes.

Highly flexible artificial limbs could be made. (The nerves leading to missing limbs are often not damaged and still transmit signals.)

A major problem now is separating the right signals from all the other electrical activity on the skin; also, the signals may vary if a person is tired or under stress.

Wishing still won't make it so—yet.

CAUSE FOR CONSERVATION

The past year and the one just beginning may well be remembered as the time when conservation ceased to be mere conversation and turned into a popular cause.

That controversial foray against the misuse of chemicals, "Silent Spring," is still anything but silent. A new book has joined the lists—"The Quiet Crisis," by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, dealing with the threat posed to our natural resources and remaining wilderness areas by a burgeoning, consuming population.

A constant theme runs through all such writing: Man's squandering of nature's bounty as if it had no limit.

The scientist would prefer the word "ecology"—the study of living things in relation to their environment and to each other. The layman says simply, "nature," and his use of the word illustrates the traditional attitude toward conservation.

"Nature" is something that happens to other animals; it is the world outside of human affairs, a world sharply excluded by the walls of our buildings, the sheet metal of our conveyances or the fabric of our clothing.

An article in John Strohm's National Wildlife magazine examines this view:

"Man is the only creature that seemingly stands aloof from the web of living things," writes natural history author Peter Farb, "since he is able to make a home for himself almost anywhere in the world.

"He jets from hemisphere to hemisphere, his bathyscaphes have decended nearly seven miles into the sea, and he mans satellites that whirl around the planet.

"But impressive as these accomplishments are, man in reality has never left his ecological home. He still needs air to breathe, water to drink and suitable food."

We speak of the need for a rule of law in international affairs today. The tragic truth is that in relation to his physical environment, man has been a lawbreaker ever since he left the cave and became a farmer instead of a hunter—misusing land and forests and water, shaping the development of certain animals, exterminating others. Today he has no serious rival for dominion over the contients and oceans.

"Man's present predicament," says Farb, "is being a ruler over the earth without knowing the rules."

So far man has gotten away with it. But ignorance of the law is no excuse and we must soon make a decision: Either we continue to put our faith in technology and build a man-centered planet in which we are increasingly alienated from several billion years of biological history, or we will work in harmony with the ecological laws that govern all life.

On the other hand, it is a matter of sheer survival in a world that sees a population equal to the city of Chicago added each month (and witnesses a population equal to Binghamton, N. Y., die of starvation or malnutrition every week.)

On the other hand, it is a question of whether men want to pass on to their posterity a world where such proud individualists like the grizzly or bald eagle still roam free in areas of scenic grandeur or whether such things are only memories and pictures on calendars.

The latest Tyros satellite will tell us more about the weather. But many a citizen with a frost-bitten nose figures he knows too much about it already.

GALBRAITH AND BOB TAFT'S CLOTHES

President Lyndon Johnson's indication that there will be a few increases in his upcoming budget for certain "pilot" projects in welfarism is another victory for that most supple of advisers, Professor John Kenneth Galbraith. For it is Galbraith who, on trips down from Cambridge, Mass., has been suggesting around Washington that the way to promote Welfare in an era of frugality is to put on inexpensive showcase demonstrations in carefully chosen areas.

Ken Galbraith is always a delight to this columnist because of his unhibited approach to things. In India, which needs free enterprise, Galbraith, as our Ambassador, talked to Indian professors as if he were an economist from the era of Calvin Coolidge. Now he is busy giving President Johnson some advice which he has taken from the book of no less a person than "Mr. Republican" himself, the late Senator Robert Taft. It was Bob Taft who, to the consternation of some of his Republican colleagues who resented any spending at all, first proposed that such things as federal aid to education should be channeled to the neediest counties in the nation, on a demonstration basis that would show local communities everywhere the value in trying to satisfy a few crying needs.

This was the Bob Taft who was called a "socialist" by a few head-shaking friends. But, to the extent that a frugal "demonstration" type of State Welfarism is preferable to blanket, or blunderbuss, federal outlays, Bob Taft is to be commended for conquering the Democratic Party through the medium of his new disciple, Ken Galbraith.

I am not trying to kid Professor Galbraith. He enchants me precisely because he is no hard-and-fast stick-in-the-mud as a Leftist. He is amenable to compromise. He can see that federal pilot spending might result in local emulation at local expense. As an economist he is willing, on occasion, to forget John Maynard Keynes. Nobody has yet caught him hobnobbing in New York City with the dean of free enterprise economists, Professor Ludwig von Mises, but that might even come to pass some day.

The nice thing about Galbraith is that he can kid his own professional kind. He is, so I am told on the good authority of internal evidence, the author of a recent spoof called "The McLandress Dimension," written under the pseudonym of Mark Epernay. Professor McLandress is a Whiz Kid to End All Whiz Kids, who has managed to carry statistical methods to every logical absurdity that can be conceived by the mind of man. Galbraith-Epernay has denied that he invented McLandress one morning while busy shaving in front of a mirror.

The McLandress test of objectivity in statesmen is beautiful to behold. It consists of calculating, on the basis of the number of self-references in a speech, a co-efficient which is "the arithmetic mean or average of the intervals of time during which a subject's thoughts remain centered on some substantive phenomenon other than his own personality." According to the McLandress Co-Efficient, Professor J. K. Galbraith himself has a low rating of "one minute fifteen seconds." Richard Nixon's rating is a bit worse; he checks out at "only three seconds." The late President Kennedy had an excellent co-efficient of twenty-nine minutes, which is exceedingly good for a public figure.

Armed with a McLandress calculator, the general public might think it had something dependable to go on in this business of rating the objectivity of public servants. But alas, like all our learned Herr Doktors who substitute statistical analysis for critical insight, McLandress has missed the point. The number of self-references in any speech by a modern public figure depends not on the public figure's own self-importance but is entirely due to the Flattery-Co-efficient of the chosen ghost writer. For example, the late Franklin Roosevelt's McLandress Co-efficient, as judged from his collected speeches, would measure the self-importance, not of himself, but of an average composite of Judge Roseman, Archibald MacLeish, Raymond Moley, Tommy Corcoran, Adolf Berle, and Rexford Tugwell. So where do we go from there? Isn't it up to Galbraith-Epernay to write a spoof of his own spoof? He hasn't kidded the statistics manipulators half enough.

Motion Sickness in Mind? It Does Play Its Part

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Do you get seasick in a rowboat, or airsick in a plane? Do you get carsick on long trips? Since all of these sicknesses are caused by stimulation of your organ of equilibrium—the semicircular canals in your inner ear—they are now considered to be forms of a single illness: motion sickness.

A controversy has long raged as to whether this disease is all in your mind or whether the mind has nothing at all to do with it. I think that the fact that it occurs in babies less than 6 months old, who have no preconceived ideas about it proves that it is not all in your mind. Furthermore, in violent storms at sea even the hardiest sailors often succumb. On the other hand, there is no doubt that the mind may play a part in some instances. Nervousness or anxiety seem to aggravate the attack.

Studies to determine just what factors produce motion sickness indicate that regular vertical movements associated with horseback riding are well tolerated. But rotating movement, especially when the speed is varied, often leads to sickness.

The motion of all vehicles is felt least at points nearest their center of gravity. In an automobile, persons who tend to be carsick should sit in the front seat if possible.

Although stimulation of the inner ear is the chief cause of sickness, the eyes also play a part. On a train, try sitting in the observation coach and looking straight ahead or straight back. If you ride near a side window, you should concentrate on distant objects as this decreases eye movements. Give the child who gets carsick an interesting toy to play with. It also helps to tilt your seat back if you can and relax with your eyes closed.

Other aids to a comfortable journey include the availability of fresh air. Avoid the smoker, or open a window. You should not start a trip on an empty stomach. Eat lightly and avoid alcohol. Relax and avoid rapid deep breaths as this can cause lightheadedness.

Drugs may be used as a last resort. These include antihistamines and tranquilizers. Use whichever works best for you but not both. For best results they should be taken 30 to 60 minutes before starting a journey and repeated every four hours if necessary.

"It's a Great Idea But Don't Clip MY Baby!"

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Back on the LBJ Ranch in Texas, President Lydon Baines Johnson can ride herd over the 4,500 acres of grazing lands he has now turned over to the trusteeship of his co-owner A. W. Mourland, and contemplate.

For the white-faced Herefords that have not already been sold off, rancher Johnson can contemplate that cattle prices have dropped steadily for the past two months, to the lowest levels since 1961.

When Johnson met with a score of farm organization leaders at the White House the week before Christmas, he turned to Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman at one point and facetiously accused him of causing meat prices to drop. Freeman quickly assured him it wasn't his fault, but the defeat of his programs that caused it.

Depressed cattle prices are not the only cause for contemplation by rancher Johnson and other Texas farmers.

A MAJOR WORRY is that wheat growers' income may be off by one-third next year. Defeat of the Kennedy administration control plan in the wheat growers' referendum last May makes mandatory a drop in support prices from $2 to $1.25 a bushel.

The third worry is cotton, a major agricultural product of Texas and the rest of the politically important South.

The House recently passed a bill sponsored by its Agriculture Committee chairman Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C. At a cost of $250 million to the government it would subsidize the sale of cotton to U. S. mills at world market prices. The Senate failed to act on this proposal.

It is opposed by Freeman, who prefers the plan of Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., for a direct subsidy payment to cotton growers, above the world market price.

Johnson told the farm organization leaders that he had approved House action on the Cooley bill because President Kennedy had previously favored it. But Johnson did not endorse either the Cooley or Talmadge plans. And this leaves the way open for compromise.

SO WHAT'S AHEAD for the new Congress is fast action on wheat, cotton, and maybe the dairy and meat situations. For candidate Johnson, like President Johnson and rancher Johnson, knows that if farm income drops by the $1 billion now forecast for 1964, the outcome of the election could be affected.

In the White House farm conference, Johnson did all the talking and the others listened. He gave no impression that he had any fixed ideas or program of his own.

He issued no ultimatum. He did not demand unity from the farm leaders. No plans were made for a second conference.

The President previously had asked Freeman to work out a new farm program, take it up to Capitol Hill and get it passed. The President also asked farm leaders for their suggestions. Freeman and his chief advisers met with the farm leaders in a two-hour luncheon conference after they left the White House.

THEY KICKED THE PUMPKIN AROUND considerably, but no [illegible] scored. There were some areas of agreement. And two major areas of disagreement. On the matter of government certificates and government payments—government controls instead of a free market—American Farm Bureau Federation President Charles B. Shuman said flatly he would not go along.

Shuman later told reporters he has the impression Freeman is walking on eggs, fearing that he won't be able to deliver new farm legislation from a Congres that has rejected many of his recommendations in the last three years. But Johnson told Freeman earlier that if he tried to resign, he'd be put in jail to prevent it.

The biggest problem in drafting new farm legislation is not Congress but the inability of the farm organizations to agree among themselves.

Shuman was asked if he had been invited to an earlier conference of farm leaders called by National Grange Master Herschel Newsom.

"Yes and no," replied Shuman. "Newsome wrote me a leter inviting me, but he added that unless the Farm Bureau position had changed, there would be no use in my coming. So I wrote him back, 'I agree with your recommendation.'"

Commissioners Go Ahead With Law on Housing Sale

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe the news ought to be hushed up, though Moscow would soon learn the truth anyhow—namely, that within the last three days a form of "police state" has been established in the District of Columbia.

The capital is supposed to be governed by laws passed by Congress. The three Commissioners are appointed by the President, but they have no authority to write laws. They nevertheless have just promulgated a "law" which imposes fines and jail sentences on any citizen—whether he be a property-owner or a real-estate salesman or in the real estate business—who refuses or fails to sell or rent "housing accommodations" to "any person because of the race, color, religion or national origin of such person."

Almost all of the states have not gone that far. Indeed, the Supreme Court in 1948 upheld the right of citizens not only collectively but individually to dispose of their property to whomever they pleased and to select a purchaser by any process of choice they cared to exercise.

The Supreme Court, in this case—known as Hurd vs. Hodge—declared that, while a group of citizens in Washington, D. C., might enter into an agreement not to sell their property to certain purchases, such an agreement could not be enforced in the courts on any dissenting signatory. But nowhere in the case is there any prohibition against the right of an individual to sell to whomever he wishes.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are local officials, but they rarely do anything of great importance without the guidance of the White House. The late President Kennedy favored the issuance of an order forbidding any racial discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing in the District, but the order was held in abeyance. Congressional committees expressed their disapproval and warned against action by the Commissioners. There is no information available as to whether President Johnson was consulted by the Commissioners before they announced that on Jan. 20 the new "law" will become effective.

The net effect of this development is to give support to the argument that "the end justifies the means." In the absence of action by Congress, the District Commissioners went ahead anyhow. President Johnson will soon have to disclose whether he is in favor of the step taken by the District officials.

The text of the order issued by the Commissioners says that "the police regulations of the District of Columbia" are to be considered as amended and that the action has been rendered necessary because, among other things, there is a "clear relationship between poor housing conditions and the health and comfort of the occupants and the effects of such conditions also constitute a danger to the property of both whites and Negroes." Congress 72 years ago gave the Commissioners here the right to make "police regulations" primarily to preserve order but nothing was said about the right of individuals under the Constitution to dispose of their property in any way they wish.

The Washington Star says editorially:

"Finally, the mere existence of the District ordinance is bound to affect thinking in the suburbs to some extent. And in the final analysis, this may be the most important effect of all. For despite the injustices which no doubt exist within the District, the goal of providing more and better housing for Negroes will not be fully realized until the barriers also are relaxed to a greater degree beyond the city limits."

But the nearby states of Maryland and Virginia have not passed any law interfering with the right of citizens to use their own discretion in whatever sales of their property they may wish to make, nor is there any statute before Congress which goes that far.

The Washington Post in an editorial says:

"No one can expect this new law to have a sudden and radical effect upon Washington's overpriced housing market for Negroes. The uniformly white neighborhoods in the city are usually the expensive ones, and the ordinance cannot reach economic segregation."

But such a prediction now is surrounded by doubt. For if the District Commissioners can pass a "law" as an amendment to "police regulations" demanding that citizens dispose of their property in accordance with the dictates of the Commissioners, then there is no reason why economic help cannot be demanded by citizens who cannot afford "adequate" housing and who would be assisted through taxpayers' money made available for that purpose.

The District Commissioners cannot, of course, disburse public funds on their own initiative. They must have a law of Congress behind them, and it seems unlikely that Congress would appropriate money to subsidize residents of the District so that individuals with low incomes may enjoy more adequate housing in the better sections of the city, where most of the government officials reside.

A majority of the residents in Washington now are Negroes, and there are demands for "home rule." If this comes, the District officials would then have control of the disbursement of all tax receipts and would be in a position to bring about "economic integration"—which, theoretically at least, it might be argued, would be just another form of "equal rights."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

I remember this child . . .

She sits on the edge of the iron bed. She smooths the skirt down absent-mindedly. She folds the chubby hands on her lap and looks at you expectantly. The smile is small and pursed and permanent. She keeps it on to show you that she is not afraid.

She is. Her name is Little Miss Nobody. She is afraid that you have come to take her away. Or take Jerry away. He is her brother. They live at the Lt. Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Home for Children, in the Bronx, New York.

Her hair is black and curly. Her green jumper dress is clean. So are the sox and play shoes. She sleeps in this room with three little girls. The beds have dolls sitting on the pillows. Except Little Miss Nobody's. She has a 49 cent teddy bear.

She is seven. Behind the smile, she is an old lady. In the secrecy of the chapel next door, she asks God to please do nothing that will separate her from Jerry. Her prayer will be answered because nobody wants her. She has an older sister. Sonia is 10. Little Miss Nobody does not love her as much as she dose Jerry, because Sonia is deaf and dumb and it is difficult to get to love people who cannot laugh or cry.

Jerry is 8. He is dark and shy and he obeys Little Miss Nobody when he meets her in the big play yard. "Tomorrow the sisters will take the boys skating," she says. "Go skating, Jerry. Don't go too fast." He nods down to his little mother.

She does not remind him not to steal the lunches of other boys, because she does not want to hurt Jerry. Sometimes, when the sisters give out lunches, Jerry steals two or three and hides them. He never knows why. The sisters know. For the first five years of life, he was hardly fed.

Little Miss Nobody makes happy talk. She seldom stops. She wants to help everybody. She will run errands, sit and talk, charm you, give you her teddy bear. She will even lie, if it will please you.

"Have you cried lately?" "Oh yes. Today." "Why?" " The sister told us a puzzle about a clock. I didn't know the answer." "Who is the smartest one in your family?" "Jerry." "What are you going to be when you grow up?" "Nurse." "How is Sonia?" "The doctor is going to make her all better." "When you say your prayers, what do you pray for?" She looks shy, and whispers the answer: "My own dolly."

There is much that Little Miss Nobody does not know. She was two when her mother ran away. Jerry was 3. Sonia was 5. It was the week before Christmas. The police said her mother was "promiscuous." The father was a tense and quiet man who talked to himself.

At night, the babies heard the taunts of the mother and the roars of the father. When their mother left, she dressed nice and stooped and kissed them one by one. She was going to have another baby. It would not be Little Miss Nobody's true sister.

After, their father became more quiet. Little Miss Nobody prattled to him cheerfully, but he said nothing. Sonia stared at him mutely. Jerry stuck his thumb in his mouth. He worked all day and he made oatmeal for dinner and he watched the children eat and the palms of his hands pounded the kitchen sink in monotonuous rhythm.

One night he started screaming and he ran back and forth through the railroad flat shouting that he was going to kill his children. Little Miss Nobody huddled the others in a corner of the bedroom and ordered them to keep quiet. "Daddy," she said, "is mad at us."

Some men came and took the father away. He was insane. He spent a long time in a place with wire screens. Then he came out, chastened and humble. Today, he works hard at forgetting. There is another lady in his house and a new little baby. He never visits Little Miss Nobody. And Jerry. And Sonia. He is busy saving himself.

At the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Home, the children have lots of mothers. In the corridors, they look like silent swans. All of them are Missionary Sisters of the Third Order of Saint Francis. Little Miss Nobody stands in the hall so that she will have lots of people to say hello to.

Most of the other little girls have visitors. So the little girl gets even by making friends with all visitors. Sometimes, when she sees them coming in—strange ladies in nice fur coats and gentlemen who frown and keep looking at their watches—Little Miss Nobody puts on her richest smile and reaches out and takes the lady by the hand. They always say "Well, well, little girl. What's your name?" Then they move on, because they too are busy.

I haven't seen Little Miss Nobody in a couple of years. But I remember. I remember. . . .

SOME DRIVE THIS WAY

The Navy is looking into the possibility of controlling weapons and other mechanical devices by "thinking about them."

Office of Naval Research has signed a research contract, reports Missiles and Rockets magazine, "to investigate the feasibility of utilizing electrical potentials on the surface of the skin for the control of functions."

The study is based on the theory that the electrical signals which activate human muscles can be tapped into and hooked up with mechanical systems. Possible uses include:

Astronauts under heavy G loads could do things otherwise impossible.

Weapons could be aimed by the movements of a man's eyes.

Highly flexible artificial limbs could be made. (The nerves leading to missing limbs are often not damaged and still transmit signals.)

A major problem now is separating the right signals from all the other electrical activity on the skin; also, the signals may vary if a person is tired or under stress.

Wishing still won't make it so—yet.

CAUSE FOR CONSERVATION

The past year and the one just beginning may well be remembered as the time when conservation ceased to be mere conversation and turned into a popular cause.

That controversial foray against the misuse of chemicals, "Silent Spring," is still anything but silent. A new book has joined the lists—"The Quiet Crisis," by Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall, dealing with the threat posed to our natural resources and remaining wilderness areas by a burgeoning, consuming population.

A constant theme runs through all such writing: Man's squandering of nature's bounty as if it had no limit.

The scientist would prefer the word "ecology"—the study of living things in relation to their environment and to each other. The layman says simply, "nature," and his use of the word illustrates the traditional attitude toward conservation.

"Nature" is something that happens to other animals; it is the world outside of human affairs, a world sharply excluded by the walls of our buildings, the sheet metal of our conveyances or the fabric of our clothing.

An article in John Strohm's National Wildlife magazine examines this view:

"Man is the only creature that seemingly stands aloof from the web of living things," writes natural history author Peter Farb, "since he is able to make a home for himself almost anywhere in the world.

"He jets from hemisphere to hemisphere, his bathyscaphes have decended nearly seven miles into the sea, and he mans satellites that whirl around the planet.

"But impressive as these accomplishments are, man in reality has never left his ecological home. He still needs air to breathe, water to drink and suitable food."

We speak of the need for a rule of law in international affairs today. The tragic truth is that in relation to his physical environment, man has been a lawbreaker ever since he left the cave and became a farmer instead of a hunter—misusing land and forests and water, shaping the development of certain animals, exterminating others. Today he has no serious rival for dominion over the contients and oceans.

"Man's present predicament," says Farb, "is being a ruler over the earth without knowing the rules."

So far man has gotten away with it. But ignorance of the law is no excuse and we must soon make a decision: Either we continue to put our faith in technology and build a man-centered planet in which we are increasingly alienated from several billion years of biological history, or we will work in harmony with the ecological laws that govern all life.

On the other hand, it is a matter of sheer survival in a world that sees a population equal to the city of Chicago added each month (and witnesses a population equal to Binghamton, N. Y., die of starvation or malnutrition every week.)

On the other hand, it is a question of whether men want to pass on to their posterity a world where such proud individualists like the grizzly or bald eagle still roam free in areas of scenic grandeur or whether such things are only memories and pictures on calendars.

The latest Tyros satellite will tell us more about the weather. But many a citizen with a frost-bitten nose figures he knows too much about it already.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

GALBRAITH AND BOB TAFT'S CLOTHES

President Lyndon Johnson's indication that there will be a few increases in his upcoming budget for certain "pilot" projects in welfarism is another victory for that most supple of advisers, Professor John Kenneth Galbraith. For it is Galbraith who, on trips down from Cambridge, Mass., has been suggesting around Washington that the way to promote Welfare in an era of frugality is to put on inexpensive showcase demonstrations in carefully chosen areas.

Ken Galbraith is always a delight to this columnist because of his unhibited approach to things. In India, which needs free enterprise, Galbraith, as our Ambassador, talked to Indian professors as if he were an economist from the era of Calvin Coolidge. Now he is busy giving President Johnson some advice which he has taken from the book of no less a person than "Mr. Republican" himself, the late Senator Robert Taft. It was Bob Taft who, to the consternation of some of his Republican colleagues who resented any spending at all, first proposed that such things as federal aid to education should be channeled to the neediest counties in the nation, on a demonstration basis that would show local communities everywhere the value in trying to satisfy a few crying needs.

This was the Bob Taft who was called a "socialist" by a few head-shaking friends. But, to the extent that a frugal "demonstration" type of State Welfarism is preferable to blanket, or blunderbuss, federal outlays, Bob Taft is to be commended for conquering the Democratic Party through the medium of his new disciple, Ken Galbraith.

I am not trying to kid Professor Galbraith. He enchants me precisely because he is no hard-and-fast stick-in-the-mud as a Leftist. He is amenable to compromise. He can see that federal pilot spending might result in local emulation at local expense. As an economist he is willing, on occasion, to forget John Maynard Keynes. Nobody has yet caught him hobnobbing in New York City with the dean of free enterprise economists, Professor Ludwig von Mises, but that might even come to pass some day.

The nice thing about Galbraith is that he can kid his own professional kind. He is, so I am told on the good authority of internal evidence, the author of a recent spoof called "The McLandress Dimension," written under the pseudonym of Mark Epernay. Professor McLandress is a Whiz Kid to End All Whiz Kids, who has managed to carry statistical methods to every logical absurdity that can be conceived by the mind of man. Galbraith-Epernay has denied that he invented McLandress one morning while busy shaving in front of a mirror.

The McLandress test of objectivity in statesmen is beautiful to behold. It consists of calculating, on the basis of the number of self-references in a speech, a co-efficient which is "the arithmetic mean or average of the intervals of time during which a subject's thoughts remain centered on some substantive phenomenon other than his own personality." According to the McLandress Co-Efficient, Professor J. K. Galbraith himself has a low rating of "one minute fifteen seconds." Richard Nixon's rating is a bit worse; he checks out at "only three seconds." The late President Kennedy had an excellent co-efficient of twenty-nine minutes, which is exceedingly good for a public figure.

Armed with a McLandress calculator, the general public might think it had something dependable to go on in this business of rating the objectivity of public servants. But alas, like all our learned Herr Doktors who substitute statistical analysis for critical insight, McLandress has missed the point. The number of self-references in any speech by a modern public figure depends not on the public figure's own self-importance but is entirely due to the Flattery-Co-efficient of the chosen ghost writer. For example, the late Franklin Roosevelt's McLandress Co-efficient, as judged from his collected speeches, would measure the self-importance, not of himself, but of an average composite of Judge Roseman, Archibald MacLeish, Raymond Moley, Tommy Corcoran, Adolf Berle, and Rexford Tugwell. So where do we go from there? Isn't it up to Galbraith-Epernay to write a spoof of his own spoof? He hasn't kidded the statistics manipulators half enough.

Motion Sickness in Mind? It Does Play Its Part

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Do you get seasick in a rowboat, or airsick in a plane? Do you get carsick on long trips? Since all of these sicknesses are caused by stimulation of your organ of equilibrium—the semicircular canals in your inner ear—they are now considered to be forms of a single illness: motion sickness.

A controversy has long raged as to whether this disease is all in your mind or whether the mind has nothing at all to do with it. I think that the fact that it occurs in babies less than 6 months old, who have no preconceived ideas about it proves that it is not all in your mind. Furthermore, in violent storms at sea even the hardiest sailors often succumb. On the other hand, there is no doubt that the mind may play a part in some instances. Nervousness or anxiety seem to aggravate the attack.

Studies to determine just what factors produce motion sickness indicate that regular vertical movements associated with horseback riding are well tolerated. But rotating movement, especially when the speed is varied, often leads to sickness.

The motion of all vehicles is felt least at points nearest their center of gravity. In an automobile, persons who tend to be carsick should sit in the front seat if possible.

Although stimulation of the inner ear is the chief cause of sickness, the eyes also play a part. On a train, try sitting in the observation coach and looking straight ahead or straight back. If you ride near a side window, you should concentrate on distant objects as this decreases eye movements. Give the child who gets carsick an interesting toy to play with. It also helps to tilt your seat back if you can and relax with your eyes closed.

Other aids to a comfortable journey include the availability of fresh air. Avoid the smoker, or open a window. You should not start a trip on an empty stomach. Eat lightly and avoid alcohol. Relax and avoid rapid deep breaths as this can cause lightheadedness.

Drugs may be used as a last resort. These include antihistamines and tranquilizers. Use whichever works best for you but not both. For best results they should be taken 30 to 60 minutes before starting a journey and repeated every four hours if necessary.

"It's a Great Idea But Don't Clip MY Baby!"

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Back on the LBJ Ranch in Texas, President Lydon Baines Johnson can ride herd over the 4,500 acres of grazing lands he has now turned over to the trusteeship of his co-owner A. W. Mourland, and contemplate.

For the white-faced Herefords that have not already been sold off, rancher Johnson can contemplate that cattle prices have dropped steadily for the past two months, to the lowest levels since 1961.

When Johnson met with a score of farm organization leaders at the White House the week before Christmas, he turned to Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman at one point and facetiously accused him of causing meat prices to drop. Freeman quickly assured him it wasn't his fault, but the defeat of his programs that caused it.

Depressed cattle prices are not the only cause for contemplation by rancher Johnson and other Texas farmers.

A MAJOR WORRY is that wheat growers' income may be off by one-third next year. Defeat of the Kennedy administration control plan in the wheat growers' referendum last May makes mandatory a drop in support prices from $2 to $1.25 a bushel.

The third worry is cotton, a major agricultural product of Texas and the rest of the politically important South.

The House recently passed a bill sponsored by its Agriculture Committee chairman Harold D. Cooley, D-N.C. At a cost of $250 million to the government it would subsidize the sale of cotton to U. S. mills at world market prices. The Senate failed to act on this proposal.

It is opposed by Freeman, who prefers the plan of Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., for a direct subsidy payment to cotton growers, above the world market price.

Johnson told the farm organization leaders that he had approved House action on the Cooley bill because President Kennedy had previously favored it. But Johnson did not endorse either the Cooley or Talmadge plans. And this leaves the way open for compromise.

SO WHAT'S AHEAD for the new Congress is fast action on wheat, cotton, and maybe the dairy and meat situations. For candidate Johnson, like President Johnson and rancher Johnson, knows that if farm income drops by the $1 billion now forecast for 1964, the outcome of the election could be affected.

In the White House farm conference, Johnson did all the talking and the others listened. He gave no impression that he had any fixed ideas or prograr of his own.

He issued no ultimatum. He did not demand unity from the farm leaders. No plans were made for a second conference.

The President previously had asked Freeman to work out a new farm program, take it up to Capitol Hill and get it passed. The President also asked farm leaders for their suggestions. Freeman and his chief advisers met with the farm leaders in a two-hour luncheon conference after they left the White House.

THEY KICKED THE PUMPKIN AROUND considerably, but no[illegible] scored. There were some areas of agreement. And two ma[illegible] areas of disagreement. On the matter of government certificates and government payments—government controls instead of a free market—American Farm Bureau Federation President Charles B. Shuman said flatly he would not go along.

Shuman later told reporters he has the impression Freeman is walking on eggs, fearing that he won't be able to deliver new farm legislation from a Congres that has rejected many of his recommendations in the l st three years. But Johnson told Freeman earlier that if he tried to resign, he'd be put in jail to prevent it.

The biggest problem in drafting new farm legislation is not Congress but the inability of the farm organizations to agree among themselves.

Shuman was asked if he had been invited to an earlier conference of farm leaders called by National Grange Master Herschel Newsom.

"Yes and no," replied Shuman. "Newsome wrote me a leter inviting me, but he added that unless the Farm Bureau position had changed, there would be no use in my coming. So I wrote him back, 'I agree with your recommendation.'"

Commissioners Go Ahead With Law on Housing Sale

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe the news ought to be hushed up, though Moscow would soon learn the truth anyhow—namely, that within the last three days a form of "police state" has been established in the District of Columbia.

The capital is supposed to be governed by laws passed by Congress. The three Commissioners are appointed by the President, but they have no authority to write laws. They nevertheless have just promulgated a "law" which imposes fines and jail sentences on any citizen—whether he be a property-owner or a real-estate salesman or in the real estate business—who refuses or fails to sell or rent "housing accommodations" to "any person because of the race, color, religion or national origin of such person."

Almost all of the states have not gone that far. Indeed, the Supreme Court in 1948 upheld the right of citizens not only collectively but individually to dispose of their property to whomever they pleased and to select a purchaser by any process of choice they cared to exercise.

The Supreme Court, in this case—known as Hurd vs. Hodge—declared that, while a group of citizens in Washington, D. C., might enter into an agreement not to sell their property to certain purchases, such an agreement could not be enforced in the courts on any dissenting signatory. But nowhere in the case is there any prohibition against the right of an individual to sell to whomever he wishes.

The Commissioners of the District of Columbia are local officials, but they rarely do anything of great importance without the guidance of the White House. The late President Kennedy favored the issuance of an order forbidding any racial discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing in the District, but the order was held in abeyance. Congressional committees expressed their disapproval and warned against action by the Commissioners. There is no information available as to whether President Johnson was consulted by the Commissioners before they announced that on Jan. 20 the new "law" will become effective.

The net effect of this development is to give support to the argument that "the end justifies the means." In the absence of action by Congress, the District Commissioners went ahead anyhow. President Johnson will soon have to disclose whether he is in favor of the step taken by the District officials.

The text of the order issued by the Commissioners says that "the police regulations of the District of Columbia" are to be considered as amended and that the action has been rendered necessary because, among other things, there is a "clear relationship between poor housing conditions and the health and comfort of the occupants and the effects of such conditions also constitute a danger to the property of both whites and Negroes." Congress 72 years ago gave the Commissioners here the right to make "police regulations" primarily to preserve order but nothing was said about the right of individuals under the Constitution to dispose of their property in any way they wish.

The Washington Star says editorially:

"Finally, the mere existence of the District ordinance is bound to affect thinking in the suburbs to some extent. And in the final analysis, this may be the most important effect of all. For despite the injustices which no doubt exist within the District, the goal of providing more and better housing for Negroes will not be fully realized until the barriers also are relaxed to a greater degree beyond the city limits."

But the nearby states of Maryland and Virginia have not passed any law interfering with the right of citizens to use their own discretion in whatever sales of their property they may wish to make, nor is there any statute before Congress which goes that far.

The Washington Post in an editorial says:

"No one can expect this new law to have a sudden and radical effect upon Washington's overpriced housing market for Negroes. The uniformly white neighborhoods in the city are usually the expensive ones, and the ordinance cannot reach economic segregation."

But such a prediction now is surrounded by doubt. For if the District Commissioners can pass a "law" as an amendment to "police regulations" demanding that citizens dispose of their property in accordance with the dictates of the Commissioners, then there is no reason why economic help cannot be demanded by citizens who cannot afford "adequate" housing and who would be assisted through taxpayers' money made available for that purpose.

The District Commissioners cannot, of course, disburse public funds on their own initiative. They must have a law of Congress behind them, and it seems unlikely that Congress would appropriate money to subsidize residents of the District so that individuals with low incomes may enjoy more adequate housing in the better sections of the city, where most of the government officials reside.

A majority of the residents in Washington now are Negroes, and there are demands for "home rule." If this comes, the District officials would then have control of the disbursement of all tax receipts and would be in a position to bring about "economic integration"—which, theoretically at least, it might be argued, would be just another form of "equal rights."

Jim Bishop: Reporter

I remember this child . . .

She sits on the edge of the iron bed. She smooths the skirt down absent-mindedly. She folds the chubby hands on her lap and looks at you expectantly. The smile is small and pursed and permanent. She keeps it on to show you that she is not afraid.

She is. Her name is Little Miss Nobody. She is afraid that you have come to take her away. Or take Jerry away. He is her brother. They live at the Lt. Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Home for Children, in the Bronx, New York.

Her hair is black and curly. Her green jumper dress is clean. So are the sox and play shoes. She sleeps in this room with three little girls. The beds have dolls sitting on the pillows. Except Little Miss Nobody's. She has a 49 cent teddy bear.

She is seven. Behind the smile, she is an old lady. In the secrecy of the chapel next door, she asks God to please do nothing that will separate her from Jerry. Her prayer will be answered because nobody wants her. She has an older sister. Sonia is 10. Little Miss Nobody does not love her as much as she dose Jerry, because Sonia is deaf and dumb and it is difficult to get to love people who cannot laugh or cry.

Jerry is 8. He is dark and shy and he obeys Little Miss Nobody when he meets her in the big play yard. "Tomorrow the sisters will take the boys skating," she says. "Go skating, Jerry. Don't go too fast." He nods down to his little mother.

She does not remind him not to steal the lunches of other boys, because she does not want to hurt Jerry. Sometimes, when the sisters give out lunches, Jerry steals two or three and hides them. He never knows why. The sisters know. For the first five years of life, he was hardly fed.

Little Miss Nobody makes happy talk. She seldom stops. She wants to help everybody. She will run errands, sit and talk, charm you, give you her teddy bear. She will even lie, if it will please you.

"Have you cried lately?" "Oh yes. Today." "Why?" " The sister told us a puzzle about a clock. I didn't know the answer." "Who is the smartest one in your family?" "Jerry." "What are you going to be when you grow up?" "Nurse." "How is Sonia?" "The doctor is going to make her all better." "When you say your prayers, what do you pray for?" She looks shy, and whispers the answer: "My own dolly."

There is much that Little Miss Nobody does not know. She was two when her mother ran away. Jerry was 3. Sonia was 5. It was the week before Christmas. The police said her mother was "promiscuous." The father was a tense and quiet man who talked to himself.

At night, the babies heard the taunts of the mother and the roars of the father. When their mother left, she dressed nice and stooped and kissed them one by one. She was going to have another baby. It would not be Little Miss Nobody's true sister.

After, their father became more quiet. Little Miss Nobody prattled to him cheerfully, but he said nothing. Sonia stared at him mutely. Jerry stuck his thumb in his mouth. He worked all day and he made oatmeal for dinner and he watched the children eat and the palms of his hands pounded the kitchen sink in monotonuous rhythm.

One night he started screaming and he ran back and forth through the railroad flat shouting that he was going to kill his children. Little Miss Nobody huddled the others in a corner of the bedroom and ordered them to keep quiet. "Daddy," she said, "is mad at us."

Some men came and took the father away. He was insane. He spent a long time in a place with wire screens. Then he came out, chastened and humble. Today, he works hard at forgetting. There is another lady in his house and a new little baby. He never visits Little Miss Nobody. And Jerry. And Sonia. He is busy saving himself.

At the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Home, the children have lots of mothers. In the corridors, they look like silent swans. All of them are Missionary Sisters of the Third Order of Saint Francis. Little Miss Nobody stands in the hall so that she will have lots of people to say hello to.

Most of the other little girls have visitors. So the little girl gets even by making friends with all visitors. Sometimes, when she sees them coming in—strange ladies in nice fur coats and gentlemen who frown and keep looking at their watches—Little Miss Nobody puts on her richest smile and reaches out and takes the lady by the hand. They always say "Well, well, little girl. What's your name?" Then they move on, because they too are busy.

I haven't seen Little Miss Nobody in a couple of years. But I remember. I remember. . . .

Proposes Solons Take Time for JFK Memorial

WASHINGTON (AP)—It took 57 years for the United States to honor Abraham Lincoln with the majestic Lincoln Memorial, and some congressmen consider this proof there's no need to rush with a memorial to John F. Kennedy.

The long, frustrating, and finally triumphant story of the Lincoln Memorial will figure prominently in the first debate to face Congress after it returns on Tuesday.

First order of legislative business for the House will be a bill that would rename the national cultural center in memory of Kennedy and would provide $31 million in grants and loans for its construction. A similar bill has passed the Senate.

Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, president of the Capitol Historical Society and a Lincoln buff, will lead opposition to the bill.

"As a historian," Schwengel says, "I am interested in having adequate and appropriate memorials to our great leaders." In the case of the Lincoln Memorial, he continues, the nation, by waiting and not rushing, finally got "one of the greatest memorials in the world."

Schwengel proposes that Congress establish a presidential commission to study proposals for a Kennedy memorial and recommend one. This was the procedure that, after several tries, led to the Lincoln Memorial.

New Town Tax Rate $52.83 Shows Hike Over '63 of $4.04

The Saugerties Town tax rate of $52.83 for 1964, an increase of $4.04 over last year, was announced today.

The rate for the Village of Saugerties is $41.05, an increase of $3.67 over last year.

The new increased rates reflect a large increase in county expenditures which are charged back to the towns and villages.

The town rate breakdown includes $29.88, all for county charges, and $22.95 for town highway expenditures. Saugerties raises no general tax for the local cost of government. Estimated revenues of $99,433.40 are more than enough to cover the cost listed in the budget of $98.848. All rates are figured on $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Compared with last year county charges reflected a rate of $26.994. The increase in the rate for county charges is $2.886.

Town highway listed last year as $21.797 shows a slight increase of $1.155.

Proposes Solons Take Time for JFK Memorial

WASHINGTON (AP)—It took 57 years for the United States to honor Abraham Lincoln with the majestic Lincoln Memorial, and some congressmen consider this proof there's no need to rush with a memorial to John F. Kennedy.

The long, frustrating, and finally triumphant story of the Lincoln Memorial will figure prominently in the first debate to face Congress after it returns on Tuesday.

First order of legislative business for the House will be a bill that would rename the national cultural center in memory of Kennedy and would provide $31 million in grants and loans for its construction. A similar bill has passed the Senate.

Rep. Fred Schwengel, R-Iowa, president of the Capitol Historical Society and a Lincoln buff, will lead opposition to the bill.

"As a historian," Schwengel says, "I am interested in having adequate and appropriate memorials to our great leaders." In the case of the Lincoln Memorial, he continues, the nation, by waiting and not rushing, finally got "one of the greatest memorials in the world."

Schwengel proposes that Congress establish a presidential commission to study proposals for a Kennedy memorial and recommend one. This was the procedure that, after several tries, led to the Lincoln Memorial.

Fidel Celebrates Batista Toppling With U. S. Attacks

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro celebrated the fifth anniversary of his revolution Thursday with new attacks on the United States and the usual claims of eventual success for his Communist-backed government.

Blames Johnson, CIA

The Cuban prime minister charged President Johnson was responsible for a Christmas Eve sabotage operation off the Isle of Pines in which Castro said a Soviet-built torpedo boat was damaged and several Cuban crewmen killed.

He said the operation was handled by U.S. Central Intelligence agents from Florida.

(A Cuban anti-Castro group claimed through a spokesman in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, a few hours after the attack that it was responsible. The spokesman said the group suffered no casualties.)

Castro, speaking after a parade of his Communist-supplied military hardware, claimed the U.S. Peace Corps and the multi-billion-dollar Alliance for Progress program are doomed to failure while "the Cuban revolution progresses."

Flexes Muscles

He boasted that with Cuba's present military equipment "we can fight against the best and best-equipped forces of the imperialist army of the United States."

Castro again held out the possibility of improving U.S.-Cuban relations. But he said the United States would have to "respect our sovereignty" and stop what he called economic aggression.

The celebrations marked the overthrow of dictator Fulgencio Batista, who fled from Cuba on New Year's Day 1959.

Thousands of Cubans crowded into the Plaza de la Revolucion to hear Castro and watch the hour-long military parade. Nothing specifically new was shown.

Angry Chimp Killed

DENVER (AP) — An angry 87 - pound male chimpanzee broke open the gate of his cage at Denver Zoo Thursday and headed for a group of spectators including women and children.

Trainer Clyde L. Smith, 51, wrestled with the ape and was bitten severely on the arm.

Then Christie, 5-year-old female cage-mate of the male chimp, rushed out the gate and leaped onto the other ape.

"She started chewing on his back end, and he had to turn away from me to get at her," said Smith.

Confused, the male chimp fled to a storage shed. An attendant killed him with a shotgun blast.

NEW YORK (AP)—A rash of profit taking on the new year rally cut back stock market gains early this afternoon. Trading was active.

The list remained higher on balance. Traders began selling to realize quick profits just as the Dow Jones industrial average and The Associated Press average were moving into historic high ground.

A parade of big blocks marked the start of 1964's second day of trading. First-hour volume was a big 1.59 million shares compared with 1.16 million Thursday.

Most important stock groups advanced at the start but motors, aerospace issues and airlines turned mixed. Selected issues such as G.D. Searle and Dymo Industries converted big early gains to fractional net losses.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 287.8, with industrials up 1.5, rails up .5 and utilities up .6. The record closing peak, reached Dec. 18, was 286.8.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 1.30 at 767.38 after climbing to 768.38 at the end of the first hour. The record closing high, also reached Dec. 18, was 767.21.

Newly admitted to Big Board trading Thursday, G.D. Searle rose 1¾ on an 18,000-share block at the opening but erased the gain and eased later. Dymo was up 2 on 10,000 shares at the start but later showed a net loss of about a point.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange worked irregularly higher in moderate trading.

Corporate and U.S. government bonds were mixed.

London Parley Is Set Up to Halt Cyprus Bloodshed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Feuding Greek and Turkish Cypriots will join in a conference with Britain, Greece and Turkey in London late this month in an effort to end the bloodshed on Cyprus and preserve the island republic.

Intensive Activity

Archbishop Makarios, Greek Cypriot president of Cyprus, and Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, Turkish Cypriot vice president, agreed Thursday night to send representatives. Their decisions came after a day of intensive diplomatic activity by Britain's on-the-spot mediator, Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys.

Sandys flew back to London for personal report to Prime Minster Sir Alec Douglas-Home and the British Cabinet.

"There will be problems and things may go wrong," Sandys told newsmen in London, "but I think the situation is under control."

More Fighting Possible

He warned of the possibility of more fighting, saying, "there is a large number of irregulars who are not controlled by any of the people who will be sitting around the table.

Exact date of the conference has not beeen announced. After the opening session, a committee of Greek and Turkish Cypriot representatives will be formed to work with a British chairman on proposals for revising the Cypriot constitution and the treaties linking Britain, Greece and Turkey to the Mediterranean island.

Acceptance of the British proposal for a peace conference came 12 days after the outbreak of renewed fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots, who long have regarded each other with enmity.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Fat Inheritance Helps While Husband Is Ill

Q) "We are a family in our early fifties with a daughter in college. We own our own home, have $5,000 in savings, and about $3,000 each in Consumers Power, Long Island Lighting and American Telephone. Last year my husband became ill and cannot work, so we are forced to live off our savings. We have just inherited $50,000 and wish to invest it in stocks. How would you do this?" G.L.

A) I am sorry to hear about your husband, but you are fortunate to have such a fine inheritance during a very trying period.

Current income seems to be your prime investment objective and, of course, the preservation of capital is also very necessary. You already have three top stocks in Consumers Power, Long Island Lighting and Telephone. To be on the safe side, I recommend that your new money be put into issues which are also of good quality.

With this in mind, I advise you to spread your inheritance equally among five stocks; namely, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Edison, Libby-Owens-Ford Glass, and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Rwy. At present price levels, these stocks will provide you with an average yield of 4.5 per cent and combined with your present holdings should create a strong portfolio.

Q) "Am I obligated to do business with the same broker? And is a broker allowed to keep my stocks and not release them to me?" J.D.

A) You are under no obligation to do business with any one broker. There are many good investment firms ready to serve you, and if you are dissatisfied you should move your account elsewhere.

Secondly, a broker must order your stock certificates sent out to you on your request. If your securities are fully paid for, a simple call to your broker should be all that is necessary to release them. If this request is refused. I suggest you take the matter up with your attorney.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Fidel Celebrates Batista Toppling With U. S. Attacks

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro celebrated the fifth anniversary of his revolution Thursday with new attacks on the United States and the usual claims of eventual success for his Communist-backed government.

Blames Johnson, CIA

The Cuban prime minister charged President Johnson was responsible for a Christmas Eve sabotage operation off the Isle of Pines in which Castro said a Soviet-built torpedo boat was damaged and several Cuban crewmen killed.

He said the operation was handled by U.S. Central Intelligence agents from Florida.

(A Cuban anti-Castro group claimed through a spokesman in Tegucigalpa, Honduras, a few hours after the attack that it was responsible. The spokesman said the group suffered no casualties.)

Castro, speaking after a parade of his Communist-supplied military hardware, claimed the U.S. Peace Corps and the multi-billion-dollar Alliance for Progress program are doomed to failure while "the Cuban revolution progresses."

Flexes Muscles

He boasted that with Cuba's present military equipment "we can fight against the best and best-equipped forces of the imperialist army of the United States."

Castro again held out the possibility of improving U.S.-Cuban relations. But he said the United States would have to "respect our sovereignty" and stop what he called economic aggression.

The celebrations marked the overthrow of dictator Fulgencio Batista, who fled from Cuba on New Year's Day 1959.

Thousands of Cubans crowded into the Plaza de la Revolucion to hear Castro and watch the hour-long military parade. Nothing specifically new was shown.

Angry Chimp Killed

DENVER (AP) — An angry 87 - pound male chimpanzee broke open the gate of his cage at Denver Zoo Thursday and headed for a group of spectators including women and children.

Trainer Clyde L. Smith, 51, wrestled with the ape and was bitten severely on the arm.

Then Christie, 5-year-old female cage-mate of the male chimp, rushed out the gate and leaped onto the other ape.

"She started chewing on his back end, and he had to turn away from me to get at her," said Smith.

Confused, the male chimp fled to a storage shed. An attendant killed him with a shotgun blast.

London Parley Is Set Up to Halt Cyprus Bloodshed

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Feuding Greek and Turkish Cypriots will join in a conference with Britain, Greece and Turkey in London late this month in an effort to end the bloodshed on Cyprus and preserve the island republic.

Intensive Activity

Archbishop Makarios, Greek Cypriot president of Cyprus, and Dr. Fazil Kutchuk, Turkish Cypriot vice president, agreed Thursday night to send representatives. Their decisions came after a day of intensive diplomatic activity by Britain's on-the-spot mediator, Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys.

Sandys flew back to London for personal report to Prime Minster Sir Alec Douglas-Home and the British Cabinet.

"There will be problems and things may go wrong," Sandys told newsmen in London, "but I think the situation is under control."

More Fighting Possible

He warned of the possibility of more fighting, saying, "there is a large number of irregulars who are not controlled by any of the people who will be sitting around the table.

Exact date of the conference has not beeen announced. After the opening session, a committee of Greek and Turkish Cypriot representatives will be formed to work with a British chairman on proposals for revising the Cypriot constitution and the treaties linking Britain, Greece and Turkey to the Mediterranean island.

Acceptance of the British proposal for a peace conference came 12 days after the outbreak of renewed fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots, who long have regarded each other with enmity.

The Pope and Patriarch Athenagoras of Istanbul will stay on the Mount of Olives while in Jerusalem.

They are expected to meet for the second time Monday morning.

Informants here have declined comment on the nature of the meetings.

A veteran of World War 1, he had served overseas and also was in the Regular Army. Mr. Myers and his wife, May C. Myers, who was well known in art circles, were summer residents of Woodstock for more than 15 years. They have a large circle of friends in the area.

Fat Inheritance Helps While Husband Is Ill

Q) "We are a family in our early fifties with a daughter in college. We own our own home, have $5,000 in savings, and about $3,000 each in Consumers Power, Long Island Lighting and American Telephone. Last year my husband became ill and cannot work, so we are forced to live off our savings. We have just inherited $50,000 and wish to invest it in stocks. How would you do this?" G.L.

A) I am sorry to hear about your husband, but you are fortunate to have such a fine inheritance during a very trying period.

Current income seems to be your prime investment objective and, of course, the preservation of capital is also very necessary. You already have three top stocks in Consumers Power, Long Island Lighting and Telephone. To be on the safe side, I recommend that your new money be put into issues which are also of good quality.

With this in mind, I advise you to spread your inheritance equally among five stocks; namely, General Motors, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Edison, Libby-Owens-Ford Glass, and Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Rwy. At present price levels, these stocks will provide you with an average yield of 4.5 per cent and combined with your present holdings should create a strong portfolio.

Q) "Am I obligated to do business with the same broker? And is a broker allowed to keep my stocks and not release them to me?" J.D.

A) You are under no obligation to do business with any one broker. There are many good investment firms ready to serve you, and if you are dissatisfied you should move your account elsewhere.

Secondly, a broker must order your stock certificates sent out to you on your request. If your securities are fully paid for, a simple call to your broker should be all that is necessary to release them. If this request is refused. I suggest you take the matter up with your attorney.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Renounces Citizenship

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—John Huston, American-born film producer, became an Irish citizen today. By so doing he renounced his U.S. citizenship.

The son of Walter Huston, who has carved a name in the film world as important as that of his famous father, signed the official document that made him an Irish citizen in the office of Justice Minister Charles Haughey.

"I've been playing around with this idea for a long time; Huston told a news conference, "For I believe that a person should be a citizen of the country in which he lives."

Huston, 57, has been living in Ireland for 12 years, presently on his estate in County Galway.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "That Was The Week That Was" makes its NBC network debut as weekly half-hour topical revue next Friday and it may prove to be television's most daring experiment of the year.

Marshall Jamison, Broadway play director who has charge of the series, admits the show, which will base its humor and satire on the news of the day, will not have the mass appeal of a program such as the "Beverly Hillbillies."

"That Was The Week That Was" is an adaptation of a brash English program. The original was so irreverent that it has been discontinued until after the British election at least.

The American program will be live and Jamison expects much of its material will be found in the world of politics.

"Things change so fast you never can be sure what will be usable," Jamison said. "When we did the hourlong show in November, we had a whole section on the Bobby Baker thing that went out.

"We were planning to do a song called 'Nobody's Mad at LBJ' in our opening show next week but now it seems to me a lot of people are furious at him for one thing or another. Maybe we can change the lyrics a little.

"Of course, to do this sort of thing our opinion has to be slanted one way or another — and I don't mean politically slanted, necessarily, just off-beat. The whole purpose of topical humor and satire is to have a point of view that surprises and stimulates. I think that if we were guilty of anything in the first show, it was hitting the reactionaries too strongly. There's just as much funny material about the left-wingers that we will be getting at."

NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

One of the famous old houses to be destroyed for an uptown black top parking lot was the old Abraham Masten Home, located two doors from the old Senate House at 317 Clinton Avenue. I remember the home well when it was owned by Miss Alice M. Scardefield, who was talked into selling her home, which also included several apartments for part of the uptown parking area. She later bought a home at 272 West Chestnut Street. I remember how convenient her Clinton Avenue home was, with its spacious gardens, and its nearness to the uptown shopping area, and its driveway so easy to drive into. She was also near to the Masonic Temple as she was grand treasurer of the State of New York for the Eastern Stars, and not only traveled through the state in her capacity as treasurer but attended so many local meetings near her home.

This home had thick walls, was warm in the winter and cool in the summer. Alfred Ronder has some excellent photographs of this famous old home which, it is written was standing at the time the Colonials under General Washington were engaging the armies of King George III in the War for Independence. The Masten home was fired by the British under General Vaughan, October 16, 1777, and it was rebuilt on the same foundation by Abraham Masten.

Perhaps Peter Stuyvesant could be the first planner of Kingston when he designed the stockade in 1658. Before the Revolutionary War, the Masten home and the Senate House served as the northwest corner of the village stockade, and the street which is now known as Clinton Avenue was then called East Front Street.

I am glad that Mr. Ronder loaned me these precious pictures at this time, and it makes me realize how many of our famous old stone houses have fallen into the hands of the destroyers. One by one, they are leveled, and only their pictures remain and whatever history is written down somewhere. The item from an old Freeman states that "Just prior to the beginning of the 19th century the records of the old First Reformed Church contain the notation of the sale of a part of the lowlands, below what is now Clinton Avenue, to Abraham Masten for 80 pounds in gold, or the equivalent of $200 an acre. This annexation of property greatly added to the holdings of Abraham Masten and brought him into prominence as one of the influential citizens of the colonial community. This old Dutch residence in the year 1820 was the residence of Abraham Masten Jr., later it was divided into apartments.

Mr. Ronder also has a large excellent photograph of the Henry V. Masten House opposite the Ulster Foundry, where the old trolley car switch used to be. This old stone house, also I am afraid, was taken down for a parking convenience. In 1820 Henry V. Masten lived here, and according to the late Everett Fowler, they found no charred timbers to show that the dwelling was burned by the British so perhaps it was built sometime after the Revolutionary War. At one time it was the property of Mrs. William R. Kraft, and had four rented apartments. The walls were of the usual limestone, about 20 inches thick. It is written that Mrs. Kraft bought it around 1908 from the Van Keuren estate. The date of construction nor the name of the builder is given in my records.

All Looked Fine Except Cards

BY OSWALD JACOBY

On looking back at my bad hands of 1963, some seem so bad that I just can't believe anyone could have actually played them. I also find quite a few in which the results were bad, but I can blame bad luck and not myself.

With 18 high card points and a fine fit for clubs I decided on a two diamond response to my partner's opening club bid. His two spade rebid did not discourage me in any way, shape or form, but I marked time with a three club call.

Then he went to three spades and I knew that he was showing a five-card spade suit besides at least five clubs. With five spades and only four clubs he would have opened with a spade.

I was tempted to try either a Blackwood for no-trump or a jump right to six clubs, but I was looking right at two potential heart losers and my partner had certainly not shown any evidence that he held either a singleton heart or the ace or king.

I considered a jump to five clubs. This would certainly have begged my partner to go on to the club slam, but the game was duplicated and I decided to try out the possibility of playing the hand in spades. I went to four spades!

My partner thought a while and came to the conclusion that we were going to lose two heart tricks at a club slam. He also noted that if we played and made a spade game we would score either 650 or 620 and beat all the club bidders.

He passed and we were in the right contract except that our opponents cashed two heart tricks and West held five of the six missing spades so we also had to lose two spade tricks.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Park, Mass., Jan. 3—Whenever there is a new upsurge in technological efficiency, there is an immediate outcry that this will mean less employment and reduced earnings. It has long been my opinion that technical improvements—even in the radical form of modern automation—do not mean fewer jobs or lower wages.

What Actually Happens

On the contrary, more rapid and cheaper methods of doing work mean more jobs in the long run. I believe this is proved by the statistics that chart the progress of employment and earnings over the more than 50 years that I have been forcasting economic changes in the U.S.A. Unions and workers are naturally upset when they see jobs taken away from men and women and given to machines. But they are looking at the short-range problems, not the long-range benefits.

It would be foolish to deny that there are serious immediate difficulties posed by automation. Retraining, replacement, and other programs are necessary to cushion the initial impact. Management, union, municipal, state, and federal authorities well recognize the temporary confusion that must be alleviated. For one thing, there is more need for workers of high skills, less for those with no training.

Always The Same Alarm

When Henry Ford, long years ago, started his fantastic belt-line going, many economic observers and the working groups generally were positive that the result would be wholesale unemployment and lower pay. Mr. Ford answered the last part of the charge by immediately paying his employees the biggest hourly wage in history; and the prediction of wholesale unemployment was proved wrong by history itself. At each step during the "Industrial revolution" when new ways of speeding production were undertaken, the same alarm was sounded. But, each time, there turned out to be more jobs in the long run rather than fewer—better pay instead of "sweatshop" rates.

It is often forgotten that when new labor-saving machines are brought out, these products themselves have to be manufactured, serviced, and repaired. This opens up a whole new web of jobs. Even a casual examination of fundamental statistics will reveal the vast increases in employment that have paralled history-making technological advances and greater efficiency in all lines.

20 Million Jobs Once Visionary Goal

Many of you will remember the dark time in the 1930s when unemployment constituted about 25 per cent of the labor force. Even after the pump-priming and business aids of the New Deal, the jobless in 1940 still mad. up about 15 per cent of the work force. Vice President Henry Wallace wrote a book called "Sixty Million Jobs," a hopeful work which many economist considered unrealistic and visionary. But—and this is my point—even though the ambitious efforts to meet competition during the recovery years brought about ever-greater technological changes, jobs actually became more and more plentiful.

So with the spectacular influx of automation in recent years, the number of jobs has steadily increased. Total civilian employment stands now at better than 69 million, a figure that nobody would have believed if it had been predicted only 15 or 20 years ago. A gradual but definite change in the pattern of employment has helped the situation: Not only have new industries sprung up—such as electronics, instruments and controls, and aerospace—but more workers have been absorbed by trade, finance, service, and government.

Wages Have Also Skyrocketed

Moving up with employment have been earnings. Back in 1909, manufacturing workers were making less than 20 cents an hour, on average; but ow they are making $2.47. The trend is still upward and will be as far ahead as we can see. The weekly take of such employes amounted to $9.74 in 1909; it has now passed the $100 mark. So those who expected that fewer jobs and lower pay would result from belt-line processes and automation have been wrong thus far. It is my feeling that they will continue to be proven wrong over the years ahead.

New Hearing Aid Combats Nerve Deafness

CANONSBURG, PA.—A new hearing aid, designed to help persons who suffer from nerve deafness, has been unveiled by Radioear Corporation.

L. M. Myers, president of the 40-year-old organization, announced that a new instrument named the Radioear 900 will make many hearing aids obsolete.

Myers, who himself has a severe hearing loss, said the Radioear 900 has amazed every hearing aid man and woman who has examined it.

"This precision instrument costs no more than ordinary hearing aids," Myers stated. "Yet, it provides better and more comfortable hearing than any other tiny hearing aid I have ever seen."

Radioear will send a non-working model of the Radioear 900, plus full details, to all interested hard-of-hearing persons. Write to Radioear Corporation, Valley Brook Road, Canonsburg, Pa.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "That Was The Week That Was" makes its NBC network debut as weekly half-hour topical revue next Friday and it may prove to be television's most daring experiment of the year.

Marshall Jamison, Broadway play director who has charge of the series, admits the show, which will base its humor and satire on the news of the day, will not have the mass appeal of a program such as the "Beverly Hillbillies."

"That Was The Week That Was" is an adaptation of a brash English program. The original was so irreverent that it has been discontinued until after the British election at least.

The American program will be live and Jamison expects much of its material will be found in the world of politics.

"Things change so fast you never can be sure what will be usable," Jamison said. "When we did the hourlong show in November, we had a whole section on the Bobby Baker thing that went out.

"We were planning to do a song called 'Nobody's Mad at LBJ' in our opening show next week but now it seems to me a lot of people are furious at him for one thing or another. Maybe we can change the lyrics a little.

"Of course, to do this sort of thing our opinion has to be slanted one way or another — and I don't mean politically slanted, necessarily, just off-beat. The whole purpose of topical humor and satire is to have a point of view that surprises and stimulates. I think that if we were guilty of anything in the first show, it was hitting the reactionaries too strongly. There's just as much funny material about the left-wingers that we will be getting at."

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

One of the famous old houses to be destroyed for an uptown black top parking lot was the old Abraham Masten Home, located two doors from the old Senate House at 317 Clinton Avenue. I remember the home well when it was owned by Miss Alice M. Scardefield, who was talked into selling her home, which also included several apartments for part of the uptown parking area. She later bought a home at 272 West Chestnut Street. I remember how convenient her Clinton Avenue home was, with its spacious gardens, and its nearness to the uptown shopping area, and its driveway so easy to drive into. She was also near to the Masonic Temple as she was grand treasurer of the State of New York for the Eastern Stars, and not only traveled through the state in her capacity as treasurer but attended so many local meetings near her home.

This home had thick walls, was warm in the winter and cool in the summer. Alfred Ronder has some excellent photographs of this famous old home which, it is written was standing at the time the Colonials under General Washington were engaging the armies of King George III in the War for Independence. The Masten home was fired by the British under General Vaughan, October 16, 1777, and it was rebuilt on the same foundation by Abraham Masten.

Perhaps Peter Stuyvesant could be the first planner of Kingston when he designed the stockade in 1658. Before the Revolutionary War, the Masten home and the Senate House served as the northwest corner of the village stockade, and the street which is now known as Clinton Avenue was then called East Front Street.

I am glad that Mr. Ronder loaned me these precious pictures at this time, and it makes me realize how many of our famous old stone houses have fallen into the hands of the destroyers. One by one, they are leveled, and only their pictures remain and whatever history is written down somewhere. The item from an old Freeman states that "Just prior to the beginning of the 19th century the records of the old First Reformed Church contain the notation of the sale of a part of the lowlands, below what is now Clinton Avenue, to Abraham Masten for 80 pounds in gold, or the equivalent of $200 an acre. This annexation of property greatly added to the holdings of Abraham Masten and brought him into prominence as one of the influential citizens of the colonial community. This old Dutch residence in the year 1820 was the residence of Abraham Masten Jr., later it was divided into apartments.

Mr. Ronder also has a large excellent photograph of the Henry V. Masten House opposite the Ulster Foundry, where the old trolley car switch used to be. This old stone house, also I am afraid, was taken down for a parking convenience. In 1820 Henry V. Masten lived here, and according to the late Everett Fowler, they found no charred timbers to show that the dwelling was burned by the British so perhaps it was built sometime after the Revolutionary War. At one time it was the property of Mrs. William R. Kraft, and had four rented apartments. The walls were of the usual limestone, about 20 inches thick. It is written that Mrs. Kraft bought it around 1908 from the Van Keuren estate. The date of construction nor the name of the builder is given in my records.

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson's announced peace drive and his ambition to clip a billion dollars from the next military budget could crimp some business plans as well as those of the Pentagon.

Would Be First Since '55

If the sum for military spending is trimmed in the fiscal year starting July 1, it would mark the first drop from a preceding year since 1955 — although 1960 outlays held about level with 1959.

Individual companies looking for military hardware orders thus could be more competitive than ever. And some communities housing defense plants or those of suppliers to the various defense industries could find unemployment a rising problem if first the economy drive and later the peace offensive cut demand for military hardware and closes defense installations.

At $51 billion, the proposed military spending would still be about half of the expected federal administrative budget for the next fiscal year. It has ranged from 59 per cent to 52 per cent in each year since the Korean War.

Rises Every Year

And at $51 billion the military spending would be about 8.5 per cent of Gross National Product, unless this measure of the nation's output of goods and services rises well above the current rate. The range since the Korean War has been 12 per cent in the 1953 fiscal year to 8.3 per cent in 1960. The GNP has risen each year, but almost always at a faster rate than the increase in military spending.

Since the end of World War II, spending under the defense budgets has totaled $600 billion.

If the economy trend catches on, and Congress approves, and if the aim of a peace offensive leads to less world tension, some now see a chance of military spending dropping to $45 billion by fiscal 1969.

Some businesses and some communities are bound to feel the effects. But at the same time there is evidence that savings in military outlays will furnish funds for more government spending in other lines, perhaps furnishing orders and employment for some civilian product makers or services.

New Pentagon thinking already has led to order cancellations to the dismay of companies and communities. It has led to new orders to the joy of rival companies and other communities.

The already risky business of defense production may get tougher with economy drives and any easing of world tensions.

Nkrumah Escapes Assassin's Shot, Guard Is Killed

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—President Kwame Nkrumah escaped a fifth attempt on his life when a gunman fired five shots at close range as Ghanas leader was walking to his car Thursday.

Nkrumah was not hurt but a security guard was fatally wounded. The Ghana government said the gunman was arrested immediately but did not identify him.

The government said the shooting occurred as the 54-year-old strongman was leaving Flagstaff House, his official residence.

The brief announcement did not explain how the assassin gained access to the sprawling, walled grounds of Flagstaff House or eluded the constant patrol of hand-picked guards, most of them from the President's Nzima tribe.

The security guard died in a nearby military hospital.

Nkrumah, who already possesses virtual dictatorial powers over his nation of 7 million, on Monday announced plans to have his Convention Peoples Party made the only legal political organization in Ghana. On Wednesday he announced plans for a referendum to increase his powers, particularly over the courts.

Factory Evacuated By Threat of Bomb

SENECA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Two anonymous bomb threats by telephone forced the evacuation and closing of Sylvania Electric's television picture tube factory in this Seneca County community Thursday.

Police received the first call in the morning when a male voice said a bomb was planted in the factory. Approximately 500 workers were evacuated and a thorough search was conducted by demolition experts from nearby Seneca Army Depot. No bomb was found and work resumed two hours later.

Four hours after the first call, police received another call saying a bomb was set to go off in the plant within half an hour. Again the plant was evacuated and searched. It was closed for the day after the second hunt revealed nothing.

Those Messages From Moscow

Notable Gaps Between K's Good Wishes, Performance

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Premier Khrushchev makes a habit of sending best wishes for the New Year and hopes for peace to American presidents although there have been some notable gaps between his wishes and performance.

He did it with Presidents Eisenhower and Kennedy. Now he has done it with President Johnson. He gave Kennedy some miserable days. He seems to have quieted down a bit since then. But that's only maybe.

If Johnson takes his cue from Kennedy he will have a summit conference with the Russian before the 1964 presidential race next fall. Whether or not it relieved international tensions, it would be good American politics.

Khrushchev sent two New Year's messages in 1961, one to Eisenhower, the retiring president, and one to Kennedy, who was then still only president-elect. Then the Russsian sent congratulations when Kennedy was sworn in Jan. 20.

Kennedy responded. The two men expressed a desire for a fresh attempt at negotiations on East-West problems. For extra measure, Khrushchev threw in a goodwill gesture.

Five days after Kennedy's inauguration Khrushchev released two surviving crewmen of a U.S. Air Force RB47 jet shot down in the Barents Sea off northern Russia the previous July 1.

Even though Kennedy and Khrushchev may have doubted they would accomplish anything if they met, they probably wanted to take each other's measure close up. So they had a summit meeting in Vienna June 3-4, 1961.

Nothing tangible, at least nothing that could be put in writing, came of it. The two men issued one of those typical diplomatic communiques expressing good intentions. As it turned out, Khrushchev's intentions weren't very good.

Khrushchev, after meeting Kennedy face-to-face, must have figured he had a soft touch because he didn't lose any time trying to break the President's back. He began putting on pressure to drive the Allies out of Berlin.

Then, on Aug. 15, 1961, Khrushchev's Communists began building their famous—or infamous — wall between East and West Berlin. If Kennedy had ordered it battered down, there might have been war.

He did the next best thing. He assured the West Berliners this country would stand by them.

Kennedy made a nationwide television address that probably gave the Russian second thoughts. And he asked Congress for authority to call up 250,000 reserves. Congress gave it to him in a hurry.

While all this was keeping the world edgy, Khrushchev hit Kennedy from another direction. He announced Aug. 31, 1961, Russia would resume nuclear testing. And it did. So did the United States. That got everybody upset.

Nevertheless, on Jan. 1, 1962, Khrushchev sent Kennedy another one of his New Year's greetings. And it was that same year he tried to slip his missiles into Cuba. That was in the fall of 1962. Kennedy backed him down.

And on Jan. 1, 1963—just as if getting caught with his missiles in Cuba was hardly more than getting caught with his hand in the jam pot, which is what it may have seemed like to him—Khrushchev sent Kennedy New Year's greetings.

By this time Kennedy had about given up hope, it seems, that Khrushchev would ever agree to a nuclear test ban treaty. But Khrushchev did, and a treaty was wrapped and delivered by Oct. 7, 1963. It banned tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under the sea.

Khrushchev did more, too. He agreed with Kennedy to set up a "hot line"—a direct teletype communication — between the White House and the Kremlin so the two men could get in touch fast in case of crisis. That was in 1963, too.

By this time some other forces, with which Kennedy had nothing to do, were working on Khrushchev. His economy was in trouble — for instance, he needed a lot of wheat—and the split with his Red Chinese allies was wide open.

Khrushchev, who often appeared to be causing trouble just for the sake of it, began to look a little more reasonable. If Kennedy had lived, the two men might have made more progress. But Johnson is a new man.

He and Khrushchev probably want a close-up of each other, too, even if nothing comes of it soon. Johnson, a comparative unknown because of his vice presidency, is now a world leader. And he wants to act like one, as he has demonstrated in less than two months in office.

One good way to demonstrate it, as Kennedy decided early, is to have a summit meeting. That would attract the world's attention in a way Johnson's hammering on domestic economy never could.

And the summit—provided it didn't turn into a disaster—would give Johnson at home a stature none of his Republican competitors for the presidency could match if only because they're not in a position to.

It wouldn't cost Johnson anything to meet the Russian and, if they didn't settle anything, issue a joint communique expressing good intentions.

Stratton Desires Research Center Put in Syracuse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., wants the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to build its proposed electronics research center at Syracuse, N. Y.

Stratton said in a telegram Thursday to James E. Webb, NASA administrator, that Syracuse was the appropriate site for the center because of the disproportionate share of military base closings in New York State.

Stratton also said the concentration of electronics industries in the Syracuse area made it "ideally suited."

NASA originally had selected Boston as the site for its center, but Congress ordered a review of that decision in approving funds for the agency last year.

A REUNION OF COUSINS

Q: We have a cousins group. We are 25 altogether and are all first cousins. Twice a year we get together for a reunion. Just recently one of the cousins was engaged. We would like to know if his fiancee should be asked to come to our next reunion which will be next month. Some feel she should and others think that as she is not yet in the family she should not be included in the group. Will you please give us your opinion?

A: If your reunion is not for the discussion of personal family matters but is merely a social gathering, she should be invited to it just as she would be to any party to which her fiance is invited.

Replying To Formal Wedding Invitation

Q: Is it, or is it not, proper to write a personal note when replying to a formal third person wedding invitation from a close relative? A friend and I have been arguing this point for some time. She says that a third person invitation always requires a third person answer no matter how well you know the hosts; whereas I feel such a note is much too formal from close relatives. Will you please settle this point for us?

A: If the wedding is to be a large one, the answers should all be in the third person because whoever is keeping track of the replies need look no further than the name and "accepts" which is indeed a help when there are many invitations to open, read and record.

Seating Bride's Relatives

Q: In regard to seating the guests at a church wedding, who takes precedence over whom? By that I mean, are the members of the bride's mother's family, sisters and brothers, seated in the pews directly in back of the bride's immediate family and the members of the bride's father's family seated in back of them, or vice versa, or doesn't it matter?

A: It doesn't matter.

Miss Gloria Jean Smith, Cleveland Man Exchange Vows in Candlelight Ceremonies

The candlelight wedding ceremony of Miss Gloria Jean Smith and Terry J. Clark took place 4:30 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 22 at the Reformed Church of the Comforter.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Edith B. Smith of Port Ewen, was given in marriage by her uncle, Roland Bell of Massapequa, L. I. She wore a modified sheath gown of satin brocade fashioned with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. The skirt terminated in a chapel length train. She wore a headpiece of white fur securing the pure silk illusion veil. She carried a white prayer book with white roses and a cascade of ivy.

Mrs. Sandra Robinson of Kingston was matron of honor, wearing a floor length sheath gown of crimson velvet with a cummerbund and large back bow. She had a matching pillbox hat and carried a white fur muff with holly trim. Miss Joanne Beaver of Kingston, bridesmaid, was attired in an identical costume.

The flower girl was Sara Lou Zucherman, a cousin of the bride. She wore a crimson velvet floor length gown with round neckline trimmed with white fur. She wore a white fur band in her hair and carried a miniature basket of assorted flowers.

Gerry Peppard of Kingston was best man with Paul Smith of Port Ewen, brother of the bride, and David Peppard of Kingston as ushers.

Approximately 100 guests attended a reception in the church hall after the ceremony.

For a wedding trip to Cleveland, Ohio, where they will make their home, the bride wore a black velvet suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mr. Clark, son of Mrs. Harry Diamond and the late Harold Clark, was educated in Cleveland schools. He recently completed duty as sergeant with the 46th Army Surgical Corps.

The former Miss Smith is a graduate of Kingston High School. She studied music at the Juilliard School of Music and was organist at the Comforter Reformed Church. She was employed as a secretary for Walter Davenport Sons.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

After Childbirth, What?

That we American mothers use our children as "status sybols" is the charge hurled at us in "The Child Worshipers," a just-published book by Martha Weinman Lear.

According to Miss Lear, we go in for impassioned PTA memberships, buy children fashion-plated clothes, $600 canopied beds and "charm" courses, not because we care about the kids but because they must reflect credit on us as our communities' best-dressed, best-socialized, best everything-else young ones.

I'm getting weary of these attacking books. Of course we make a Big Deal of motherhood in this country. What else do we have to make a Big Deal of?

Isn't "unfeminine" the new curse word applied to any one of us today who presumes to extend her energies beyond her bedroom, the kids, her sleek kitchen? Of course it is. Well, if it's anything, motherhood is feminine. By overelaborating care of our kids, you and I have discovered a way to exhauset our energies which otherwise used might expose us to scorn as "unfeminine"—of being one of those awful, "aggressive," masculinized creatures of Dr. Freud's who has become the favorite butt of American contempt.

America's overelaborated motherhood is the old, old problem of female energy.

The Japanese divert it into rituals like the tea ceremony, the arrangement of flowers and complicated female bowings and scrapings. Africans still harness it to the cultivation of corn, the hauling of water and hewing of wood. Arab countries used to try to tranquilize it by feeding their harem inmates sweetmeats until they were too fat to move. In our grandmothers' time it was expended in ceaseless childbearing.

For a time in the early decades of this century American women hoped to be allowed to use their surplus female energy in behalf of the world beyond the home. But Dr. Freud's insistence that this hope equalled competition with men has pretty well washed it up. Denied our hope of cooperating with men in the work of the world, we now exhauset our energy by taking it out on the kids.

We American women need more understanding than we're getting.

No, Miss Lear. The Big Deal we make out of motherhood is not made out of craving for "status." It's made out of frustrated energies, frustrated by many things, including popularized Freudian psychology and our economic machinery.

We The Women

Guests Share Responsibility

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We all too often feel that the hostess is the only one who is responsible for the success of a party.

But a thoughtful guest realizes that she, too, can contribute to the evening's enjoyment.

A good guest thinks about more than what she will wear and what will be offered in the way of entertainment.

The guest a hostess knows she can "count on" is the one who can relax while she helps to keep the conversational ball rolling.

She has enough gay small talk to get her easily and comfortably settled as a member of the group when she arrives.

She falls in with the hostess' plans instead of holding back.

She manages to talk to a number of different people and yet never gives the impression that she is jumping from person to person in order to make an impression. Each person she talks to feels she has something special to say just to him.

Her manner makes it quite plain that she is having a good time, and is glad that she was included in the invitation.

She notices when a guest who is less at ease seems to be excluded from a conversation and finds a way to draw him into the circle, without letting her motive show.

She isn't usually the one to break up a party, but neither is she the guest who stays too long.

She is aware that a successful party depends on the company involved as well as on the hostess herself.

A REUNION OF COUSINS

Q: We have a cousins group. We are 25 altogether and are all first cousins. Twice a year we get together for a reunion. Just recently one of the cousins was engaged. We would like to know if his fiancee should be asked to come to our next reunion which will be next month. Some feel she should and others think that as she is not yet in the family she should not be included in the group. Will you please give us your opinion?

A: If your reunion is not for the discussion of personal family matters but is merely a social gathering, she should be invited to it just as she would be to any party to which her fiance is invited.

Replying To Formal Wedding Invitation

Q: Is it, or is it not, proper to write a personal note when replying to a formal third person wedding invitation from a close relative? A friend and I have been arguing this point for some time. She says that a third person invitation always requires a third person answer no matter how well you know the hosts; whereas I feel such a note is much too formal from close relatives. Will you please settle this point for us?

A: If the wedding is to be a large one, the answers should all be in the third person because whoever is keeping track of the replies need look no further than the name and "accepts" which is indeed a help when there are many invitations to open, read and record.

Seating Bride's Relatives

Q: In regard to seating the guests at a church wedding, who takes precedence over whom? By that I mean, are the members of the bride's mother's family, sisters and brothers, seated in the pews directly in back of the bride's immediate family and the members of the bride's father's family seated in back of them, or vice versa, or doesn't it matter?

A: It doesn't matter.

Miss Gloria Jean Smith, Cleveland Man Exchange Vows in Candlelight Ceremonies

The candlelight wedding ceremony of Miss Gloria Jean Smith and Terry J. Clark took place 4:30 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 22 at the Reformed Church of the Comforter.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Edith B. Smith of Port Ewen, was given in marriage by her uncle, Roland Bell of Massapequa, L. I. She wore a modified sheath gown of satin brocade fashioned with a fitted bodice, scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. The skirt terminated in a chapel length train. She wore a headpiece of white fur securing the pure silk illusion veil. She carried a white prayer book with white roses and a cascade of ivy.

Mrs. Sandra Robinson of Kingston was matron of honor, wearing a floor length sheath gown of crimson velvet with a cummerbund and large back bow. She had a matching pillbox hat and carried a white fur muff with holly trim. Miss Joanne Beaver of Kingston, bridesmaid, was attired in an identical costume.

The flower girl was Sara Lou Zucherman, a cousin of the bride. She wore a crimson velvet floor length gown with round neckline trimmed with white fur. She wore a white fur band in her hair and carried a miniature basket of assorted flowers.

Gerry Peppard of Kingston was best man with Paul Smith of Port Ewen, brother of the bride, and David Peppard of Kingston as ushers.

Approximately 100 guests attended a reception in the church hall after the ceremony.

For a wedding trip to Cleveland, Ohio, where they will make their home, the bride wore a black velvet suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mr. Clark, son of Mrs. Harry Diamond and the late Harold Clark, was educated in Cleveland schools. He recently completed duty as sergeant with the 46th Army Surgical Corps.

The former Miss Smith is a graduate of Kingston High School. She studied music at the Juilliard School of Music and was organist at the Comforter Reformed Church. She was employed as a secretary for Walter Davenport Sons.

We The Women

Guests Share Responsibility

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

We all too often feel that the hostess is the only one who is responsible for the success of a party.

But a thoughtful guest realizes that she, too, can contribute to the evening's enjoyment.

A good guest thinks about more than what she will wear and what will be offered in the way of entertainment.

The guest a hostess knows she can "count on" is the one who can relax while she helps to keep the conversational ball rolling.

She has enough gay small talk to get her easily and comfortably settled as a member of the group when she arrives.

She falls in with the hostess' plans instead of holding back.

She manages to talk to a number of different people and yet never gives the impression that she is jumping from person to person in order to make an impression. Each person she talks to feels she has something special to say just to him.

Her manner makes it quite plain that she is having a good time, and is glad that she was included in the invitation.

She notices when a guest who is less at ease seems to be excluded from a conversation and finds a way to draw him into the circle, without letting her motive show.

She isn't usually the one to break up a party, but neither is she the guest who stays too long.

She is aware that a successful party depends on the company involved as well as on the hostess herself.

The Mature Parent

BY MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

After Childbirth, What?

That we American mothers use our children as "status sybols" is the charge hurled at us in "The Child Worshipers," a just-published book by Martha Weinman Lear.

According to Miss Lear, we go in for impassioned PTA memberships, buy children fashion-plated clothes, $600 canopied beds and "charm" courses, not because we care about the kids but because they must reflect credit on us as our communities' best-dressed, best-socialized, best everything-else young ones.

I'm getting weary of these attacking books. Of course we make a Big Deal of motherhood in this country. What else do we have to make a Big Deal of?

Isn't "unfeminine" the new curse word applied to any one of us today who presumes to extend her energies beyond her bedroom, the kids, her sleek kitchen? Of course it is. Well, if it's anything, motherhood is feminine. By overelaborating care of our kids, you and I have discovered a way to exhauset our energies which otherwise used might expose us to scorn as "unfeminine"—of being one of those awful, "aggressive," masculinized creatures of Dr. Freud's who has become the favorite butt of American contempt.

America's overelaborated motherhood is the old, old problem of female energy.

The Japanese divert it into rituals like the tea ceremony, the arrangement of flowers and complicated female bowings and scrapings. Africans still harness it to the cultivation of corn, the hauling of water and hewing of wood. Arab countries used to try to tranquilize it by feeding their harem inmates sweetmeats until they were too fat to move. In our grandmothers' time it was expended in ceaseless childbearing.

For a time in the early decades of this century American women hoped to be allowed to use their surplus female energy in behalf of the world beyond the home. But Dr. Freud's insistence that this hope equalled competition with men has pretty well washed it up. Denied our hope of cooperating with men in the work of the world, we now exhauset our energy by taking it out on the kids.

We American women need more understanding than we're getting.

No, Miss Lear. The Big Deal we make out of motherhood is not made out of craving for "status." It's made out of frustrated energies, frustrated by many things, including popularized Freudian psychology and our economic machinery.

6 Person Hurt In Area Crashes

Six persons were injured and several others escaped unhurt as the result of highway collisions investigated Thursday by Kingston State Police.

Four members of a Town of Catskill family were injured at 7:30 p. m. yesterday in a two-car crash which occurred on Route 32, Town of Saugerties. Troopers said the cars were driven by Ross Melville, 31, of Hensonville, and Dawn Moser, 19, of RD 1, Catskill.

Miss Mosher suffered a possible cerebral concussion. Her mother, Dorothy, 45, received chest injuries, and her father, William, 54, sustained lacerations of the head. Dorothy Ann Mosher, 19, a sister of the operator of one vehicle, suffered lacerations of the forehead. The injured were taken to Greene County Memorial Hospital for treatment.

According to an investigation by Trooper John Kohland, Melville was driving his car south on Route 32 and Miss Mosher was traveling north when the crash occurred.

Charles Estus, 31, of Andes, was injured at about 10 p. m. Thursday, when his car failed to negotiate a right curve on Route 28 near Route 214, Town of Shandaken. Associated Press Poll Tabs Koufax Athlete of the Year

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Sandy Koufax, a Brooklyn boy who didn't really make good until the Dodgers moved west, was named Male Athlete of the Year for 1963 today in The Associated Press year-end poll, capping a long list of honors he has received for his amazing pitching feats.

Koufax, a left-hander reputed to throw a baseball faster than anyone in the major leagues, led the Los Angeles Dodgers to the National League pennant, winning 25 games and then won two more in their four-game sweep of the World Series against the New York Yankees. Previously he had been selected as the National League's Most Valuable Player and had been awarded the Cy Young Award as the top major league pitcher.

In recognition of his selection as Male Athlete of the Year, Koufax will be presented The Associated Press Eagles Trophy at the Chicago Baseball Writers Dinner Jan. 12.

Another Dodger, speedster Maury Wills, won the trophy last year.

Beat Footballers

In the voting by sports writers and broadcasters in the AP poll, Koufax outdistanced two of the top quarterbacks of the 1963 football season, Y. A. Tittle of the pro New York Giants and Roger Staubach of Navy.

Sandy's name was first on 93 of 147 ballots. Tittle, who passed the Giants to the National Football League's Eastern Conference championship, received 22 first place votes. In point scoring on a 3-2-1 basis, Koufax was an easy winner with 341 points to Tittle's 170. Staubach was a distant third with 84 points.

Others in the top 10 in the voting were Jack Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and PGA golf championships, with 40 points; heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston, 27; pole vault record breaker John Pennell, 23; U.S. Open golf champion Julius Boros, 22; Milwaukee Braves pitcher Warren Spahn, 19, and golfer Arnold Palmer and Cleveland Browns fullback Jimmy Brown, 17 each.

Pulling Teeth Part of Signing Football Talent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Football League is starting to pull teeth for a share of this season's collegiate talent package.

Kansas City literally paid a dentist's bill Thursday to land a draft choice as AFL clubs made some headway in their uphill signature struggle with the rival National Football League.

The Chiefs shelled out $42,300 to Pittsburgh tackle Ernie Borghetti, a 1962 "future" selection, but the big lineman cost them more than the announced figure. Borghetti's two-year, no-cut contract also stipulated that the club would pay his three-year tuition at dental school.

The Oakland Raiders signed another 1962 "future," 270-pound tackle Rex Mirich of Arizona State College at Flagstaff, and the Houston Oilers bagged Alabama halfback Benny Nelson, their No. 5 pick in last year's draft and the No. 13 choice of the NFL Detroit Lions.

Fracchia to NFL

Fullback Mike Fracchia, another member of Alabama's Sugar Bowl champions, took the NFL road, agreeing to a St. Louis Cardinals' pact. Fracchia, who was hobbled with injuries the past two seasons after an outstanding sophomore showing, was another 1962 "future."

The NFL also collared Nebraska's Dave Theisen. The Cornhuskers' defensive specialist, whose pair of field goals provided his team's victory margin over Auburn in the Orange Bowl, signed with the Los Angeles Rams. Theisen was the Rams' 11th 1963 draft choice.

Canada lured Memphis State fullback Dave Casinelli, the nation's major college rushing leader in 1963, from both U.S. professional leagues. Casinelli okayed an Edmonton Eskimos' contract.

Highly Regarded

Arnie Palmer Is Man to Beat In $50,000 Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Golf's rich winter tournament circuit opened today as the professional tribe, headed by Arnold Palmer, stroked away in the first round of the $50,000 Los Angeles Open.

Palmer, heavier, rested and a little rusty after a vacation from the sport since Nov. 12, occupied a familiar role in this 38th annual fixture—the man to beat for the winner's purse of $9,000.

Palmer won it last year with a 72-hole score of 234, 10 strokes under par.

Ready for the challenge again were National Open champion Julius Boros and 41 others of the top 50 money winners in 1963.

Bobby Hull Leads AP Selections For NHL All-Star

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Hull, the goal-scoring leader, and three other members of the first place Chicago Black Hawks have been named to The Associated Press' National Hockey League All-Star team for the opening half of the 1963-64 campaign.

Center Jean Beliveau of Montreal was selected as the most valuable player and Jacques Laperriere, the Canadiens' young defenseman, was picked the outstanding rookie.

Goalie Glenn Hall, defenseman Pierre Pilote and right winger Ken Wharram were the other Chicago players chosen for the All-Stars Thursday. Tim and the veteran Beliveau rounded out the six-man team selected on performances through games of Jan. 1.

Back for Another Shot

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — A neighborhood prowler is hard to discourage in the city's East Brainerd area.

He pried the window from one house, withdrew when an occupant fired a shotgun, returned to a neighboring house and pried off a window screen, only to withdraw before another shotgun blast fired by the same man.

Two nights later, police said, the same prowler was scared off again.

Kingston Cagers Idle, to Resume Next Tuesday

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Kingston High cagers take the weekend off but there is plenty of scholastic action as teams resume their schedule after a Christmas recess.

Saugerties hopes to rebound from its surprising loss at Arlington by meeting winnless Roosevelt in a DCSL game at the Sawyer gym.

The big game in the UCAL sends Wallkill to New Paltz in a battle of top contenders. Other league contests find Rondout's league leading Ganders at Onteora and Highland at Pine Bush.

In the DCSL, Arlington is at Wappingers Falls and Lourdes at Beacon. The lone DUSO clash has Newburgh visiting Liberty. Chester is at Marlboro for a non-league contest.

DUSO

Team	Won	Lost
Poughkeepsie	3	0
Newburgh	1	0
Port Jervis	1	0
Kingston	1	1
Monticello	1	2
Liberty	0	2
Middletown	0	2

NEWBURGH AT LIBERTY—This one should be easy for coach Joe Gaspard's boys. Newburgh looks like the only real challenger to Poughkeepsie. The Goldies have a 3-1 mark, having lost only to Beacon.

Team	W	L
Rondout	3	0
New Paltz	2	1
Wallkill	2	1
Pine Bush	2	2
Highland	1	2
Marlboro	1	3
Onteora	0	2

WALLKILL AT NEW PALTZ—Both clubs figured high in the pre-season ratings and this could be a make or break game for both of them. New Paltz has an outstanding performer in Bruce McKinnney. Wallkill is better balanced.

RONDOUT AT ONTEORA—The Ganders of Coach Chick Meehan have been a pleasant surprise and are favorites to win this one. However, Onteora has improved and with some good all-around play, could surprise.

HIGHLAND AT PINE BUSH—The home side looked great in winning its first two and then stubbed its feet twice. It should beat the visitors, who have only won once, an upset against Wallkill.

DCSL

Wappingers	1	0
Arlington	1	1
Lourdes	1	1
Saugerties	0	1
Roosevelt	0	2

ROOSEVELT AT SAUGERTIES—The Sawyers can finish as high as second and they must win this one to stand a chance. Roosevelt is winless in five starts but is dangerous. The Sawyers have been hot and cold. Their lost game was a real bad one.

LOURDES AT BEACON—There's not a club in the league which can touch the masterful Beaconites. Lourdes is good but Beacon is great. Look for a 26th straight victory for coach Tom Winterbottom and his boys.

ARLINGTON AT WAPPINGERS—The home side has been a big winner to date, bowing only to Poughkeepsie. Arlington hasn't shown much in the way of offense and should have a lot of trouble in this one.

Serving on the policy committee for the event are Robert Selbst, administrator of Monticello Hospital; Arthur Thomas, administrator of the Liberty Maimonides Hospital; Sidney Sussman, a director of Monticello Hospital and chairman of the Board of Directors of Monticello Raceway; Charles Hughes, administrator of the Liberty Loomis Hospital, and Paul Killian a director of the Loomis Hospital and Monticello Raceway. Four Hospitals Will Share in Feb. 9 Program

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Racing on ice, a popular sport in the Cats'kill Mountains many years ago, will be brought back—at least for one day.

Announcement of a mid-winter exhibition of harness racing on the ice was made yesterday by officials of the newly formed "Hospital Chest of Voluntary Non-Profit Hospitals" and co-sponsors of the affair — the Sullivan County Harness Racing Assn., Inc., operators of Monticello Raceway, and the Times-Herald Record, a daily newspaper from Middletown.

Sunday, Feb. 9 has been set as the date for the return of the once popular sport. This one day stand will bring harness racing back to the state well ahead of any other track for 1964.

Leon Greenberg, administrative vice-president of Monticello Raceway, volunteered details of the event at a press luncheon, held Thursday at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake.

In attendance were directors of the Monticello Hospital, Loomis and Maimonides Hospitals of Liberty and the Ellenville Veterans Hospital. They will share in the proceeds of the extravaganza.

All revenues, which will be derived by three different means, will be divided equally among the four hospitals. An admission charge, a souvenir program and food and beverage concessions will provide the revenue.

Assume Obligations

Greenberg emphasized that the Raceway will assume all obligations and will use its entire staff in an effort to promote this fund raising event.

"We are hoping for some national coverage, especially from television," Greenberg said.

Edward T. Parker of Sugar Loaf, Monticello's racing secretary, will handle the program, which will be held on Sackett Lake, located on the premises of the Laurels Country Club, about five minutes from Monticello Raceway.

Parker said that races will be held over a half-mile course, with each race covering about a quarter mile. Dashes will get under way from a near standing start as opposed to the conventional mobile starting gate system employed in the sport. Standard sulkies will also be the order of the day.

"The heats will not differ in many other ways," Parker added. "We'll employ the standard starting judges, timers and finish line judges. All in all we expect the program to be of top quality," he concluded.

Quarter-Mile Races

"Due to lack of proper facilities for warming up the horses, the heats will be contested at the quarter-mile distance Parker explained. "However, if we can come up with four or five horses in top condition we will attempt to schedule a feature dash at a longer distance, possibly a half mile."

Horses will wear a special winterized racing shoe.

Monticello regulars, who are putting their pacers and trotters through cold weather training within a short distance of the track, are expected to participate. They include Jim Grundy, Art Koch, Wayne Burris and the Manzi brothers. In addition, many others will probably take part.

Plan Six Races

It is hoped that six races will be run with five horses competing in each race. In order for the track to be considered safe, a minimum of 20 inches of thickness will have to be allowed for the ice.

Sidney Sussman, chairman of the board of directors of the Raceway, told of early winter harness racing in the area. He said it thrived many years ago.

In addition to the racing, it is planned to feature several popular winter exhibitions, including ice boat racing, skating, barrel jumping, etc. Several guest stars are also expected to attend, making it an entertaining afternoon.

It is hoped that this first annual event will raise about $10,000 for the four hospitals. In case of inclement weather, the program will be postponed until the following Sunday.

Sonny-Cassius Bout May Have Name Undercard

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Middleweight champion Joey Giardello's attorney and heavyweight champion Sonny Liston's adviser are discussing the possibility of matching Giardello in a nontitle semiwindup to the Liston-Cassius Clay title bout in Miami Feb. 25, it was learned today.

An unimpeachable source said Giardello's attorney, Mike Delcollo, met with Liston's adviser, Jack Nilon, Thursday in a preliminary discussion. No firm offer was made. Several opponents for Giardello were mentioned, including Florentino Fernandez.

Komives Loses, Regains Scoring Lead in College

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Komives hasn't had a thing to say about it, but in the space of two weeks the Bowling Green star has lost his major college basketball scoring lead and regained it.

Komives, a 6-foot-1 back court man, has scored 35.5 points per game, good enough to lead the point race through games of Dec. 28, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau said today.

NCAA Parley to Tackle Truce, Recruiting Code

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association heads into its 52th annual convention facing its biggest challenge ever and shackled by an agreed-to dictum that says "thou shalt not."

Affiliates of the mammoth, complex organization started their meetings today with the parent organization very much in evidence—unofficially — but standing by until the group starts its official convention next Monday.

The challenge and the dictum both involve the temporary truce with the Amateur Athletic Union over their struggle concerning the sanctioning and accreditation of amateur meets and athletes throughout the country.

The squabble threatened to wreck the United States' team for the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo until Gen. Douglas MacArthur, at the request of former President Kennedy, stepped in and forged an agreement between the warring parties to cease fire until after the Olympics.

Will Observe Truce

Both groups agreed to abide by the agreement and the NCAA through Executive Director Walters Byers, says it will observe the truce in its convention.

"A number of organizations plan reports and we may have some action," Byers said, "but nothing to disturb the truce."

Aside from the in-fighting involving the AAU, the major developments were expected to concern reports and recommendations by the NCAA Council and the Football Rules Committee.

The Council, executive ruling body of the organization, is expected to consider and rule on a number of alleged violations of the recruiting code. It has the power, among other things, to suspend from membership a school found to be violating the code.

The Football Rules Committee has circulated a questionaire concerning the controversial substitution rule used this year for the first time. Results of the questionaire may be made public, but the Committee recommendation may be withheld for some tim.

Bullets in TV'd Win Over Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Terry Dischinger and the Baltimore Bullets scored a coast-to-coast bullseye Thursday night at the expense of the re-run New York Knickerbockers as the National Basketball Association tapped off its series of nationally-televised games.

The NBA's return to national television after a two-year layoff might have been staged more dramatically at Dayton, Ohio, where the Cincinnati Royals squeezed by the Detroit Pistons 112-111, or at San Francisco where Bob Pettit led the St. Louis Hawks to a 111-106 verdict over the Warriors. But Dischinger's near-perfect marksmanship in Baltimore's 124-109 video romp over the Knickerbockers was a living room smash in its own right.

The Bullets' nifty forward scored 25 of his game - high 36 points in the second half and personally nipped New York's repeated comeback bids. Dischinger hit 7-for-7 in the third period, 9-for-11 in the half and 13-for-18 in the game. The Knicks, who trailed by 14 at intermission, four times closed the gap to six points in the final quarter.

In Dayton, Detroit's Bob Ferry wasn't complaining about the lack of television exposure. Ferry, star of the Pistons' overtime victory against San Francisco Monday, wore the goat's horns this time. Detroit led the Royals, 111-110, with 14 seconds to play and had possession when Ferry's in - bounds pass was picked off by Cincinnati's Tom Hawkins, who fed Wayne Embry for the winning basket.

Ferraro Invited To Instructional School by Yanks

Mike Ferraro has been invited to attend the early instructional school of the New York Yankees, slated to begin Feb. 17 at Hollywood, Florida. The invitation was made by Yankees manager Yogi Berra through the office of farm director John H. Johnson.

Though voluntary attendance is optional, Ferraro said he will attend the school. The players will stay at the Midtown Hotel and will have their own meal service.

The school is designed to accelerate the progress of Yankee farmhands. Ferraro, signed as a bonus player in 1962, spent a full season in the Yankee farm system last year and led his club in several departments.

He's a graduate of Kingston High and was an All-DUSO performer in basketball and baseball.

NBA East, West All Star Teams Meet on Jan. 14

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association coaches completed the East and West teams which meet in the NBA's 14th annual All-Star game at Boston Jan. 14 by selecting two Detroit players and one each from New York and Philadelphia to the squads Thursday.

The coaches' poll tabbed Bailey Howell and Don Ohl of the Pistons, the Knickerbockers' Tom Gola and the 76ers' Chet Walker. They join 16 players selected last week by NBA writers and broadcasters.

Red Auerbach of Boston will coach the East, which holds an 8-5 edge in All-Star victories. Los Angeles Coach Freddy Schaus will lead the West.

The Celtics' Bill Russell and Baltimore's Walt Bellamy were the only unanimous picks in last week's poll. Bob Pettit of St. Louis was named for the 10th straight year while Walker, New York's Len Chappell and Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas will be appearing for the first time.

In the voting by sports writers and broadcasters in the AP poll, Koufax outdistanced two of the top quarterbacks of the 1963 football season, Y. A. Tittle of the pro New York Giants and Roger Staubach of Navy.

Sandy's name was first on 93 of 147 ballots. Tittle, who passed the Giants to the National Football League's Eastern Conference championship, received 22 first place votes. In point scoring on a 3-2-1 basis, Koufax was an easy winner with 341 points to Tittle's 170. Staubach was a distant third with 84 points.

Others in the top 10 in the voting were Jack Nicklaus, winner of the Masters and PGA golf championships, with 40 points; heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston, 27; pole vault record breaker John Pennell, 23; U.S. Open golf champion Julius Boros, 22; Milwaukee Braves pitcher Warren Spahn, 19, and golfer Arnold Palmer and Cleveland Browns fullback Jimmy Brown, 17 each.

Pulling Teeth Part of Signing Football Talent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The American Football League is starting to pull teeth for a share of this season's collegiate talent package.

Kansas City literally paid a dentist's bill Thursday to land a draft choice as AFL clubs made some headway in their uphill signature struggle with the rival National Football League.

The Chiefs shelled out $42,300 to Pittsburgh tackle Ernie Borghetti, a 1962 "future" selection, but the big lineman cost them more than the announced figure. Borghetti's two-year, no-cut contract also stipulated that the club would pay his three-year tuition at dental school.

The Oakland Raiders signed another 1962 "future," 270-pound tackle Rex Mirich of Arizona State College at Flagstaff, and the Houston Oilers bagged Alabama halfback Benny Nelson, their No. 5 pick in last year's draft and the No. 13 choice of the NFL Detroit Lions.

Fracchia to NFL

Fullback Mike Fracchia, another member of Alabama's Sugar Bowl champions, took the NFL road, agreeing to a St. Louis Cardinals' pact. Fracchia, who was hobbled with injuries the past two seasons after an outstanding sophomore showing, was another 1962 "future."

The NFL also collared Nebraska's Dave Theisen. The Cornhuskers' defensive specialist, whose pair of field goals provided his team's victory margin over Auburn in the Orange Bowl, signed with the Los Angeles Rams. Theisen was the Rams' 11th 1963 draft choice.

Canada lured Memphis State fullback Dave Casinelli, the nation's major college rushing leader in 1963, from both U.S. professional leagues. Casinelli okayed an Edmonton Eskimos' contract.

Highly Regarded

SYRACUSE, N. Y.—(NEA)—Pittsburgh placed five men on Syracuse's All-Opponent team. They are backs Fred Mazurek and Paul Martha and linemen Ernie Barghetti, John Maczuzak and Ed Adamchik.

Accidental poisonings claim the lives of 500 children each year, according to the U. S. Public Health Service.

Arnie Palmer Is Man to Beat In $50,000 Open

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Golf's rich winter tournament circuit opened today as the professional tribe, headed by Arnold Palmer, stroked away in the first round of the $50,000 Los Angeles Open.

Palmer, heavier, rested and a little rusty after a vacation from the sport since Nov. 12, occupied a familiar role in this 38th annual fixture—the man to beat for the winner's purse of $9,000.

Palmer won it last year with a 72-hole score of 234, 10 strokes under par.

Ready for the challenge again were National Open champion Julius Boros and 41 others of the top 50 money winners in 1963.

Bobby Hull Leads AP Selections For NHL All-Star

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Hull, the goal-scoring leader, and three other members of the first place Chicago Black Hawks have been named to The Associated Press' National Hockey League All-Star team for the opening half of the 1963-64 campaign.

Center Jean Beliveau of Montreal was selected as the most valuable player and Jacques Laperriere, the Canadiens' young defenseman, was picked the outstanding rookie.

Goalie Glenn Hall, defenseman Pierre Pilote and right winger Ken Wharram were the other Chicago players chosen for the All-Stars Thursday. Tim and the veteran Beliveau rounded out the six-man team selected on performances through games of Jan. 1.

Back for Another Shot

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — A neighborhood prowler is hard to discourage in the city's East Brainerd area.

He pried the window from one house, withdrew when an occupant fired a shotgun, returned to a neighboring house and pried off a window screen, only to withdraw before another shotgun blast fired by the same man.

Two nights later, police said, the same prowler was scared off again.

Kingston Cagers Idle, to Resume Next Tuesday

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Kingston High cagers take the weekend off but there is plenty of scholastic action as teams resume their schedule after a Christmas recess.

Saugerties hopes to rebound from its surprising loss at Arlington by meeting winnless Roosevelt in a DCSL game at the Sawyer gym.

The big game in the UCAL sends Wallkill to New Paltz in a battle of top contenders. Other league contests find Rondout's league leading Ganders at Onteora and Highland at Pine Bush.

In the DCSL, Arlington is at Wappingers Falls and Lourdes at Beacon. The lone DUSO clash has Newburgh visiting Liberty. Chester is at Marlboro for a non-league contest.

DUSO

Team	Won	Lost
Newburgh	1	0
Port Jervis	1	0
Kingston	1	1
Monticello	1	2
Liberty	0	2
Middletown	0	2

NEWBURGH AT LIBERTY—This one should be easy for coach Joe Gaspard's boys. Newburgh looks like the only real challenger to Poughkeepsie. The Goldies have a 3-1 mark, having lost only to Beacon.

Team	W	L
New Paltz	2	1
Wallkill	2	1
Pine Bush	2	2
Highland	1	2
Marlboro	1	3
Onteora	0	2

WALLKILL AT NEW PALTZ—Both clubs figured high in the pre-season ratings and this could be a make or break game for both of them. New Paltz has an outstanding performer in Bruce McKinnney. Wallkill is better balanced.

RONDOUT AT ONTEORA—The Ganders of Coach Chick Meehan have been a pleasant surprise and are favorites to win this one. However, Onteora has improved and with some good all-around play, could surprise.

HIGHLAND AT PINE BUSH—The home side looked great in winning its first two and then stubbed its feet twice. It should beat the visitors, who have only won once, an upset against Wallkill.

DCSL

Arlington	1	1
Lourdes	1	1
Saugerties	0	1
Roosevelt	0	2

ROOSEVELT AT SAUGERTIES—The Sawyers can finish as high as second and they must win this one to stand a chance. Roosevelt is winless in five starts but is dangerous. The Sawyers have been hot and cold. Their lost game was a real bad one.

LOURDES AT BEACON—There's not a club in the league which can touch the masterful Beaconites. Lourdes is good but Beacon is great. Look for a 26th straight victory for coach Tom Winterbottom and his boys.

ARLINGTON AT WAPPINGERS—The home side has been a big winner to date, bowing only to Poughkeepsie. Arlington hasn't shown much in the way of offense and should have a lot of trouble in this one.

Schedule Harness Racing on Ice at Sackett Lake

PLAN HARNESS RACING ON ICE: Attending a recent meeting that helped launch a charity ice harness racing and winter sports exhibition for the benefit of local non-profit hospitals in the Monticello area were a number of officials of the institutions. Planned for Sunday, February 9, at Sackett Lake, the exhibition is expected to attract many area residents. Serving on the policy committee for the event are Robert Selbst, administrator of Monticello Hospital; Arthur Thomas, administrator of the Liberty Maimonides Hospital; Sidney Sussman, a director of Monticello Hospital and chairman of the Board of Directors of Monticello Raceway; Charles Hughes, administrator of the Liberty Loomis Hospital, and Paul Killian a director of the Loomis Hospital and Monticello Raceway. Four Hospitals Will Share in Feb. 9 Program

BY ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Racing on ice, a popular sport in the Cats'kill Mountains many years ago, will be brought back—at least for one day.

Announcement of a mid-winter exhibition of harness racing on the ice was made yesterday by officials of the newly formed "Hospital Chest of Voluntary Non-Profit Hospitals" and co-sponsors of the affair — the Sullivan County Harness Racing Assn., Inc., operators of Monticello Raceway, and the Times-Herald Record, a daily newspaper from Middletown.

Sunday, Feb. 9 has been set as the date for the return of the once popular sport. This one day stand will bring harness racing back to the state well ahead of any other track for 1964.

Leon Greenberg, administrative vice-president of Monticello Raceway, volunteered details of the event at a press luncheon, held Thursday at the Concord Hotel, Kiamesha Lake.

In attendance were directors of the Monticello Hospital, Loomis and Maimonides Hospitals of Liberty and the Ellenville Veterans Hospital. They will share in the proceeds of the extravaganza.

All revenues, which will be derived by three different means, will be divided equally among the four hospitals. An admission charge, a souvenir program and food and beverage concessions will provide the revenue.

Assume Obligations

Greenberg emphasized that the Raceway will assume all obligations and will use its entire staff in an effort to promote this fund raising event.

"We are hoping for some national coverage, especially from television," Greenberg said.

Edward T. Parker of Sugar Loaf, Monticello's racing secretary, will handle the program, which will be held on Sackett Lake, located on the premises of the Laurels Country Club, about five minutes from Monticello Raceway.

Parker said that races will be held over a half-mile course, with each race covering about a quarter mile. Dashes will get under way from a near standing start as opposed to the conventional mobile starting gate system employed in the sport. Standard sulkies will also be the order of the day.

"The heats will not differ in many other ways," Parker added. "We'll employ the standard starting judges, timers and finish line judges. All in all we expect the program to be of top quality," he concluded.

Quarter-Mile Races

"Due to lack of proper facilities for warming up the horses, the heats will be contested at the quarter-mile distance Parker explained. "However, if we can come up with four or five horses in top condition we will attempt to schedule a feature dash at a longer distance, possibly a half mile."

Horses will wear a special winterized racing shoe.

Monticello regulars, who are putting their pacers and trotters through cold weather training within a short distance of the track, are expected to participate. They include Jim Grundy, Art Koch, Wayne Burris and the Manzi brothers. In addition, many others will probably take part.

Plan Six Races

It is hoped that six races will be run with five horses competing in each race. In order for the track to be considered safe, a minimum of 20 inches of thickness will have to be allowed for the ice.

Sidney Sussman, chairman of the board of directors of the Raceway, told of early winter harness racing in the area. He said it thrived many years ago.

In addition to the racing, it is planned to feature several popular winter exhibitions, including ice boat racing, skating, barrel jumping, etc. Several guest stars are also expected to attend, making it an entertaining afternoon.

It is hoped that this first annual event will raise about $10,000 for the four hospitals. In case of inclement weather, the program will be postponed until the following Sunday.

Sonny-Cassius Bout May Have Name Undercard

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Middleweight champion Joey Giardello's attorney and heavyweight champion Sonny Liston's adviser are discussing the possibility of matching Giardello in a nontitle semiwindup to the Liston-Cassius Clay title bout in Miami Feb. 25, it was learned today.

An unimpeachable source said Giardello's attorney, Mike Delcollo, met with Liston's adviser, Jack Nilon, Thursday in a preliminary discussion. No firm offer was made. Several opponents for Giardello were mentioned, including Florentino Fernandez.

Komives Loses, Regains Scoring Lead in College

NEW YORK (AP) — Howard Komives hasn't had a thing to say about it, but in the space of two weeks the Bowling Green star has lost his major college basketball scoring lead and regained it.

Komives, a 6-foot-1 back court man, has scored 35.5 points per game, good enough to lead the point race through games of Dec. 28, the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau said today.

Meet in Uneasy Peace

NCAA Parley to Tackle Truce, Recruiting Code

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association heads into its 52th annual convention facing its biggest challenge ever and shackled by an agreed-to dictum that says "thou shalt not."

Affiliates of the mammoth, complex organization started their meetings today with the parent organization very much in evidence—unofficially — but standing by until the group starts its official convention next Monday.

The challenge and the dictum both involve the temporary truce with the Amateur Athletic Union over their struggle concerning the sanctioning and accreditation of amateur meets and athletes throughout the country.

The squabble threatened to wreck the United States' team for the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo until Gen. Douglas MacArthur, at the request of former President Kennedy, stepped in and forged an agreement between the warring parties to cease fire until after the Olympics.

Will Observe Truce

Both groups agreed to abide by the agreement and the NCAA through Executive Director Walters Byers, says it will observe the truce in its convention.

"A number of organizations plan reports and we may have some action," Byers said, "but nothing to disturb the truce."

Aside from the in-fighting involving the AAU, the major developments were expected to concern reports and recommendations by the NCAA Council and the Football Rules Committee.

The Council, executive ruling body of the organization, is expected to consider and rule on a number of alleged violations of the recruiting code. It has the power, among other things, to suspend from membership a school found to be violating the code.

The Football Rules Committee has circulated a questionaire concerning the controversial substitution rule used this year for the first time. Results of the questionaire may be made public, but the Committee recommendation may be withheld for some tim.

DAYTON, Ohio—(NEA)—All the big bowling business isn't done by the professionals. The Varsity Lanes in Dayton runs the biggest industrial tournament in the world. In 1963 the bowling center played host to 4,712 teams, with prize money topping $96,000. In 1964 an anticipated 6,000 teams will roll for between $112,000 and $125,000 guaranteed prize money.

Bullets in TV'd Win Over Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Terry Dischinger and the Baltimore Bullets scored a coast-to-coast bullseye Thursday night at the expense of the re-run New York Knickerbockers as the National Basketball Association tapped off its series of nationally-televised games.

The NBA's return to national television after a two-year layoff might have been staged more dramatically at Dayton, Ohio, where the Cincinnati Royals squeezed by the Detroit Pistons 112-111, or at San Francisco where Bob Pettit led the St. Louis Hawks to a 111-106 verdict over the Warriors. But Dischinger's near-perfect marksmanship in Baltimore's 124-109 video romp over the Knickerbockers was a living room smash in its own right.

The Bullets' nifty forward scored 25 of his game - high 36 points in the second half and personally nipped New York's repeated comeback bids. Dischinger hit 7-for-7 in the third period, 9-for-11 in the half and 13-for-18 in the game. The Knicks, who trailed by 14 at intermission, four times closed the gap to six points in the final quarter.

In Dayton, Detroit's Bob Ferry wasn't complaining about the lack of television exposure. Ferry, star of the Pistons' overtime victory against San Francisco Monday, wore the goat's horns this time. Detroit led the Royals, 111-110, with 14 seconds to play and had possession when Ferry's in - bounds pass was picked off by Cincinnati's Tom Hawkins, who fed Wayne Embry for the winning basket.

Ferraro Invited To Instructional School by Yanks

Mike Ferraro has been invited to attend the early instructional school of the New York Yankees, slated to begin Feb. 17 at Hollywood, Florida. The invitation was made by Yankees manager Yogi Berra through the office of farm director John H. Johnson.

Though voluntary attendance is optional, Ferraro said he will attend the school. The players will stay at the Midtown Hotel and will have their own meal service.

The school is designed to accelerate the progress of Yankee farmhands. Ferraro, signed as a bonus player in 1962, spent a full season in the Yankee farm system last year and led his club in several departments.

He's a graduate of Kingston High and was an All-DUSO performer in basketball and baseball.

NBA East, West All Star Teams Meet on Jan. 14

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association coaches completed the East and West teams which meet in the NBA's 14th annual All-Star game at Boston Jan. 14 by selecting two Detroit players and one each from New York and Philadelphia to the squads Thursday.

The coaches' poll tabbed Bailey Howell and Don Ohl of the Pistons, the Knickerbockers' Tom Gola and the 76ers' Chet Walker. They join 16 players selected last week by NBA writers and broadcasters.

Red Auerbach of Boston will coach the East, which holds an 8-5 edge in All-Star victories. Los Angeles Coach Freddy Schaus will lead the West.

The Celtics' Bill Russell and Baltimore's Walt Bellamy were the only unanimous picks in last week's poll. Bob Pettit of St. Louis was named for the 10th straight year while Walker, New York's Len Chappell and Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas will be appearing for the first time.

Torres in Title Go Tonight vs. Jose Gonzales

NEW YORK (AP)—Jose Torres and Jose Gonzalez, a couple of boxers from the sunny Caribbean, meet here in the frigid north tonight for the middleweight championship of Puerto Rico.

That may seem odd. But stranger still is the fact that Torres, the champion, is guaranteeing Gonzalez $10,000 and is gambling the television 10-rounder will draw about 8,000 fans to Madison Square Garden. The fight is rated a toss-up.

If 8,000 show up, Torres will collect some cash for the lumps he will receive and a possible prestige victory over his ranking opponent.

To make the $10,000 guarantee, Torres is turning over his $5,000 share of the TV receipts to Gonzalez, who will get $5,000 for his end of the video money.

Torres, for his end, will receive 50 per cent of the net gate. Some of the Garden gates have grossed no more than $6,000 or $7,000.

Split With D'Amato

The 27-year-old Torres, determined to make his bid for recognition against ranking fighters, has broken with his manager, cautious Cus D'Amato. D'Amato, who managed former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, and refuses to do business with the Garden.

Torres has a 27-1-1 record. The lone loss was a fifth round knockout by Florentino Fernandez in San Juan, P.R., last May 26.

Gonzalez, 23, has a 26-8-1 record. He is ranked ninth among the contenders while Torres is unranked.

The bout will be telecast nationally by ABC-TV. Starting time is 10 p.m., EST.

Morris Praises YAT, But Says Bears Would Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Linebacker Larry Morris, most valuable player in Chicago's National Football League title victory over New York, thinks a lot of Giant quarterback Y. A. Tittle but believes Tittle's injury wasn't the difference in the game.

"I think we would have beaten them with or without Tittle," Morris said Thursday. "But I admire him for coming back to play. That's a tough injury for a quarterback because he throws off his left foot."

Morris spoke at a luncheon where he received a new car for having been selected MVP by Sport Magazine. He explained how Tittle's left knee was injured.

"My helmet hit his left kneecap as he threw the ball," the linebacker said.

Revival, Not a Wake

If Television Drops Boxing, Old Friends Will Pick It Up

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA)—A lot of people at first seemed to believe that the American Broadcasting Company dealt professional boxing a death blow when the network announced it had no plans to continue weekly shows next season.

They practically held a wake for prize fighting. People have been holding wakes for the rowdy old sport regularly since long before John L. Sullivan's days. They've found it a hardy business.

With the news that Madison Square Garden in New York no longer will be paid $1,225,000 a year to flood the country with 50 weekly shows, the prophets of doom gnashing their teeth at the wailing wall are in the wrong place. They should be celebrating a revival.

If television drops beak-busting the public, including its old friends, will pick it up.

"It's the best thing that has happened to boxing since Joe Louis first came around in the middle 1930s," said Jack Dempsey, signing autographs at his Broadway restaurant. "How did promoters expect to sell tickets and give their show away free in homes and saloons at the same time? The hard core of fight fans remained away in droves when four shows were telecast weekly.

Small Clubs Folded

"The source of talent supply was destroyed as nearly all small clubs folded. With boxing off the air, small clubs with new promoters will bob up throughout the country. Shortly it again should be like it was when I was a kid and Hardy K. Downing promoted and refereed 17,000 fights in Salt Lake. If a fighter didn't fight he was thrown out of the ring.

"In recent years there have not been enough places for kids to fight. New clubs and promoters will develop fighters, create new customers and bring back the old."

Nat Fleischer, veteran publisher of Ring Magazine, concurred.

"In the early 1930s when boxing was at its peak," recalled Fleischer, the game's historian, "there were 26 clubs running weekly shows in New York State alone. There were considerably more than 100 clubs operating regularly in the United States. Now there are less than 25."

Shows Did Well

Harry Markson, director of boxing at Madison Square Garden, pointed to more recent fights which did well at the Garden without television swag. Cassius Clay and Doug Jones sold out for $103,000 gate during the newspaper strike. Joey Archer and Rubin Carter drew $38,000.

A show Markson didn't promote, the middleweight title match between Joey Giardello and Dick Tiger, grossed $90,000 in Atlantic City with everything against it.

The way Markson talked made you wonder why the Garden sold out to television in the first place.

Dewey Fragetta, the international booker, reminded that boxing is booming everywhere in the world except in this country.

"The reason is," said Fragetta, "that there either is no television or it is used to promote boxing."

Boxing may be down, but as Wilson Mizner remarked when told that Stanley Ketchel was dead, "Start counting. He'll get up."

Garden May Set Up Own Program For Friday Nights

NEW YORK (AP) — There may be weekly network television of boxing even if the American Broadcasting Co. drops the weekly Friday night show.

There's a possibility that Madison Square Garden, which holds the contract for television's Fight of the Week, may set up its own independent network and continue with the boxing program. The National Basketball Association has done it this season and other groups have signed up individual stations to form their own networks for certain types of shows.

ABC recently announced it was dropping the fight program this year. It may be done

By APril 1

Although the Gar-den has a contract throught September. CBS and NBC, the other major networks, carried boxing for a long time before dropping the sport.

The sponsoring Gillette Co., which has bankrolled boxing telecasts since 1943 has said it would like to continue the program.

Passing Duel Seems Certain In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A possible repeat of the George Mira-Jack Concannon duel of Miami's North-South game was put in the hopper today. The two ace passers were named for the starting duties in the 15th annual Senior Bowl football game Saturday.

Concannon, of Boston College, passed and ran the North team to a 14-0 lead at Miami. But Mira took charge and passed the South to a 23-14 come-from-behind victory.

Mira, the University of Miami whiz the past three years, completed 27 of 42 passes for 336 yards, all records for the game. His passes were good for two touchdowns and he set up a third.

Concannon finished the game with 12 completions out of 25, good for 366 yards.

Topnotch Reserves

Backing up Concannon for North Coach George Wilson of the Detroit Lions in Saturday's game will be Dick Shiner of Maryland and Bill Munson of Utah State, both topnotch passers themselves.

South Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys tabbed Larry Rakestraw of Georgia, star of the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, and All America Billy Lothridge of Georgia Tech for quarterback duty in relief of Mira.

Lothridge also has been picked as a safety man on the defensive unit.

The South has won nine of the 14 Senior Bowl games and the North has taken five.

The game will be nationally televised with an area within 100 miles of Mobile blacked out. A near sellout is expected in 40,605 capacity Ladd Stadium. Kickoff is at 1 p.m., CST.

West Virginia Missing Hoop Stars, 6-6 Record

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It never should have happened to West Virinia, especially with the Mountaineer basketball team helping the state celebrate its 100th birthday.

But it did, and West Virginia distinctly shows the effects. The effects, that is, of playing without a Rod Hundley, a Jerry West or a Rod Thorn.

This is the first season in 10 that the Mountaineers don't have one of those stars or one of similar ability. The results so far: a 6-6 record following the latest loss, a 65-57 upset at home by weak Furman Thursday night.

The start is West Virginia's worst since the 1953-54 season. Not too coincidentally, that was the season before Hundley started playing varsity basketball. West followed Hundley and himself was followed by Thorn, who graduated last year.

None of the nation's top 10 teams were scheduled on the light basketball night.

Packers Meet Browns in NFL Playoffs Sunday

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The hard-running Green Bay Packers are drilling to cope with a budding doctor of philosophy's passes and the Cleveland Browns' offense.

The future PH. D. (in mathematics) is Frank Ryan, who hopes to complete work for the doctorate at Rice next summer. Ryan completed 135 forwards for 2,026 yards and threw 25 touchdown passes in the regular National Football League season.

The teams will meet Sunday in the Playoff Bowl playoff, traditional for the runners-up in each of the league's two divisions.

Kickoff time is 2 p.m. EST and the telecast of the game will be blacked out locally. Promoters are hoping for a 50,000 crowd.

Gillman Rates Charger Defense As Good as Any

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Coach Sid Gillman firmly believes his San Diego Chargers will run into "about as good a defense as there is in professional football" when they play the Boston Patriots for the American Football League championship Sunday.

"They talk about the defenses of the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants. But that Boston defense is about equal to any," Gillman said today.

The Chargers, nevertheless, are favored by about six points.

Gillman's estimate of Boston's defensive strength is not likely to be endorsed by acclamation in National Football League circles. But, so far as it pertains to the AFL, his finding is unassailable.

The Patriots ranked first in the league in total defense, allowing an average of 265.3 yards per game. They were first in rushing defense with an average of 79.1 yards allowed, and fourth in pass defense—only 6.2 yards behind the leader—with an average of 186.2 yards allowed.

Things. Change

The Chargers flattened the Patriots 50-17 in a pre-season game and barely beat them twice, 17-13 and 7-6, during the regular season. Gillman was asked to explain the high score of the pre-season game.

"They don't play much of a pattern in pre-season games," he said. "They play you about as simply as you could hope they would. But when the bell rings things change a little bit."

Gillman said trying to get a good running game going will not be San Diego's only problem Sunday. "We've got to run a little and we've got to be able to throw," he said. "And if any phase of our game suffers, we'll suffer.

Says Patriot Coach Mike Holovak: "They aren't going to run."

This will be the third title game for the Chargers. They lost one to Houston in 1960, when they were still in Los Angeles, and another to Houston in 1941.

The Patriots won their first Eastern Division title by defeating Buffalo in a playoff Dec. 28.

Paul Underhill Signs With Bills

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Paul Underhill, University of Missouri halfback - fullback, has been signed by the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

The 6-foot, 214-pounder was drafted seventh by the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, was a "future" choice of the Bills in 1962. At that time, he had one season of college eligibility remaining.

Underhill was among the country's top 50 collegiate rushers this season, averaging 4.24 yards a carry and gaining a total of 462 yards on 109 attempts in 10 games.

Torres in Title Go Tonight vs. Jose Gonzales

NEW YORK (AP)—Jose Torres and Jose Gonzalez, a couple of boxers from the sunny Caribbean, meet here in the frigid north tonight for the middleweight championship of Puerto Rico.

That may seem odd. But stranger still is the fact that Torres, the champion, is guaranteeing Gonzalez $10,000 and is gambling the television 10-rounder will draw about 8,000 fans to Madison Square Garden. The fight is rated a toss-up.

If 8,000 show up, Torres will collect some cash for the lumps he will receive and a possible prestige victory over his ranking opponent.

To make the $10,000 guarantee, Torres is turning over his $5,000 share of the TV receipts to Gonzalez, who will get $5,000 for his end of the video money.

Torres, for his end, will receive 50 per cent of the net gate. Some of the Garden gates have grossed no more than $6,000 or $7,000.

Split With D'Amato

The 27-year-old Torres, determined to make his bid for recognition against ranking fighters, has broken with his manager, cautious Cus D'Amato. D'Amato, who managed former heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson, and refuses to do business with the Garden.

Torres has a 27-1-1 record. The lone loss was a fifth round knockout by Florentino Fernandez in San Juan, P.R., last May 26.

Gonzalez, 23, has a 26-8-1 record. He is ranked ninth among the contenders while Torres is unranked.

The bout will be telecast nationally by ABC-TV. Starting time is 10 p.m., EST.

Morris Praises YAT, But Says Bears Would Win

NEW YORK (AP) — Linebacker Larry Morris, most valuable player in Chicago's National Football League title victory over New York, thinks a lot of Giant quarterback Y. A. Tittle but believes Tittle's injury wasn't the difference in the game.

"I think we would have beaten them with or without Tittle," Morris said Thursday. "But I admire him for coming back to play. That's a tough injury for a quarterback because he throws off his left foot."

Morris spoke at a luncheon where he received a new car for having been selected MVP by Sport Magazine. He explained how Tittle's left knee was injured.

"My helmet hit his left kneecap as he threw the ball," the linebacker said.

Revival, Not a Wake

If Television Drops Boxing, Old Friends Will Pick It Up

By HARRY GRAYSON
Sports Editor
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK (NEA)—A lot of people at first seemed to believe that the American Broadcasting Company dealt professional boxing a death blow when the network announced it had no plans to continue weekly shows next season.

They practically held a wake for prize fighting. People have been holding wakes for the rowdy old sport regularly since long before John L. Sullivan's days. They've found it a hardy business.

With the news that Madison Square Garden in New York no longer will be paid $1,225,000 a year to flood the country with 50 weekly shows, the prophets of doom gnashing their teeth at the wailing wall are in the wrong place. They should be celebrating a revival.

If television drops beak-busting the public, including its old friends, will pick it up.

"It's the best thing that has happened to boxing since Joe Louis first came around in the middle 1930s," said Jack Dempsey, signing autographs at his Broadway restaurant. "How did promoters expect to sell tickets and give their show away free in homes and saloons at the same time? The hard core of fight fans remained away in droves when four shows were telecast weekly.

Small Clubs Folded

"The source of talent supply was destroyed as nearly all small clubs folded. With boxing off the air, small clubs with new promoters will bob up throughout the country. Shortly it again should be like it was when I was a kid and Hardy K. Downing promoted and refereed 17,000 fights in Salt Lake. If a fighter didn't fight he was thrown out of the ring.

"In recent years there have not been enough places for kids to fight. New clubs and promoters will develop fighters, create new customers and bring back the old."

Nat Fleischer, veteran publisher of Ring Magazine, concurred.

"In the early 1930s when boxing was at its peak," recalled Fleischer, the game's historian, "there were 26 clubs running weekly shows in New York State alone. There were considerably more than 100 clubs operating regularly in the United States. Now there are less than 25."

Shows Did Well

Harry Markson, director of boxing at Madison Square Garden, pointed to more recent fights which did well at the Garden without television swag. Cassius Clay and Doug Jones sold out for $103,000 gate during the newspaper strike. Joey Archer and Rubin Carter drew $38,000.

A show Markson didn't promote, the middleweight title match between Joey Giardello and Dick Tiger, grossed $90,000 in Atlantic City with everything against it.

The way Markson talked made you wonder why the Garden sold out to television in the first place.

Dewey Fragetta, the international booker, reminded that boxing is booming everywhere in the world except in this country.

"The reason is," said Fragetta, "that there either is no television or it is used to promote boxing."

Boxing may be down, but as Wilson Mizner remarked when told that Stanley Ketchel was dead, "Start counting. He'll get up."

Garden May Set Up Own Program For Friday Nights

NEW YORK (AP) — There may be weekly network television of boxing even if the American Broadcasting Co. drops the weekly Friday night show.

There's a possibility that Madison Square Garden, which holds the contract for television's Fight of the Week, may set up its own independent network and continue with the boxing program. The National Basketball Association has done it this season and other groups have signed up individual stations to form their own networks for certain types of shows.

ABC recently announced it was dropping the fight program this year. It may be done

By APril 1

Although the Gar-den has a contract throught September, CBS and NBC, the other major networks, carried boxing for a long time before dropping the sport.

The sponsoring Gillette Co., which has bankrolled boxing telecasts since 1943 has said it would like to continue the program.

Garden officials stressed that the formation of an independent network was only in the talking stage.

Passing Duel Seems Certain In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A possible repeat of the George Mira-Jack Concannon duel of Miami's North-South game was put in the hopper today. The two ace passers were named for the starting duties in the 15th annual Senior Bowl football game Saturday.

Concannon, of Boston College, passed and ran the North team to a 14-0 lead at Miami. But Mira took charge and passed the South to a 23-14 come-from-behind victory.

Mira, the University of Miami whiz the past three years, completed 27 of 42 passes for 336 yards, all records for the game. His passes were good for two touchdowns and he set up a third.

Concannon finished the game with 12 completions out of 25, good for 366 yards.

Topnotch Reserves

Backing up Concannon for North Coach George Wilson of the Detroit Lions in Saturday's game will be Dick Shiner of Maryland and Bill Munson of Utah State, both topnotch passers themselves.

South Coach Tom Landry of the Dallas Cowboys tabbed Larry Rakestraw of Georgia, star of the Blue-Gray game at Montgomery, and All America Billy Lothridge of Georgia Tech for quarterback duty in relief of Mira.

Lothridge also has been picked as a safety man on the defensive unit.

The South has won nine of the 14 Senior Bowl games and the North has taken five.

The game will be nationally televised with an area within 100 miles of Mobile blacked out. A near sellout is expected in 40,605 capacity Ladd Stadium. Kickoff is at 1 p.m., CST.

West Virginia Missing Hoop Stars, 6-6 Record

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

It never should have happened to West Virinia, especially with the Mountaineer basketball team helping the state celebrate its 100th birthday.

But it did, and West Virginia distinctly shows the effects. The effects, that is, of playing without a Rod Hundley, a Jerry West or a Rod Thorn.

This is the first season in 10 that the Mountaineers don't have one of those stars or one of similar ability. The results so far: a 6-6 record following the latest loss, a 65-57 upset at home by weak Furman Thursday night.

The start is West Virginia's worst since the 1953-54 season. Not too coincidentally, that was the season before Hundley started playing varsity basketball. West followed Hundley and himself was followed by Thorn, who graduated last year.

None of the nation's top 10 teams were scheduled on the light basketball night.

Packers Meet Browns in NFL Playoffs Sunday

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The hard-running Green Bay Packers are drilling to cope with a budding doctor of philosophy's passes and the Cleveland Browns' offense.

The future PH. D. (in mathematics) is Frank Ryan, who hopes to complete work for the doctorate at Rice next summer. Ryan completed 135 forwards for 2,026 yards and threw 25 touchdown passes in the regular National Football League season.

The teams will meet Sunday in the Playoff Bowl playoff, traditional for the runners-up in each of the league's two divisions.

Kickoff time is 2 p.m. EST and the telecast of the game will be blacked out locally. Promoters are hoping for a 50,000 crowd.

Gillman Rates Charger Defense As Good as Any

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Coach Sid Gillman firmly believes his San Diego Chargers will run into "about as good a defense as there is in professional football" when they play the Boston Patriots for the American Football League championship Sunday.

"They talk about the defenses of the Chicago Bears and the Green Bay Packers and the New York Giants. But that Boston defense is about equal to any," Gillman said today.

The Chargers, nevertheless, are favored by about six points.

Gillman's estimate of Boston's defensive strength is not likely to be endorsed by acclamation in National Football League circles. But, so far as it pertains to the AFL, his finding is unassailable.

The Patriots ranked first in the league in total defense, allowing an average of 265.3 yards per game. They were first in rushing defense with an average of 79.1 yards allowed, and fourth in pass defense—only 6.2 yards behind the leader—with an average of 186.2 yards allowed.

Things Change

The Chargers flattened the Patriots 50-17 in a pre-season game and barely beat them twice, 17-13 and 7-6, during the regular season. Gillman was asked to explain the high score of the pre-season game.

"They don't play much of a pattern in pre-season games," he said. "They play you about as simply as you could hope they would. But when the bell rings things change a little bit."

Gillman said trying to get a good running game going will not be San Diego's only problem Sunday. "We've got to run a little and we've got to be able to throw," he said. "And if any phase of our game suffers, we'll suffer.

Says Patriot Coach Mike Holovak: "They aren't going to run."

This will be the third title game for the Chargers. They lost one to Houston in 1960, when they were still in Los Angeles, and another to Houston in 1941.

The Patriots won their first Eastern Division title by defeating Buffalo in a playoff Dec. 28.

Paul Underhill Signs With Bills

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Paul Underhill, University of Missouri halfback - fullback, has been signed by the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League.

The 6-foot, 214-pounder was drafted seventh by the Chicago Bears of the National Football League, was a "future" choice of the Bills in 1962. At that time, he had one season of college eligibility remaining.

Underhill was among the country's top 50 collegiate rushers this season, averaging 4.24 yards a carry and gaining a total of 462 yards on 109 attempts in 10 games.

Unlikely Berlin Wall Visits Will Get Extra Time

BERLIN (AP)—East German officials accepted applications from West Berliners to cross the Berlin wall for the last time today. It appeared unlikely that an agreement to extend the visits to East Berlin relatives could be negotiated before the Christmas - New Year holiday arrangement ends at midnight Sunday.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt conferred Thursday with officials of his government and West German Vice Chancellor Erich Mende in preparation for negotiations with the Esst Germans to keep the wall open. But there was no indication when the negotiations would begin or what demands the Communists would make.

The official East German news agency, ADN, said that up to this morning 1,282,000 permits had been issued for the one-day visits by West Berliners that began Dec. 19. That is considerably more than the actual number of visitors. Many go through the wall several times.

Rules Out Hudson Plan to Fill in 11-Acre Section

A proposed plan by the city of Hudson to fill in an 11-acre city owned tract of land in the south bay area for industrial sites has been ruled out. Universal-Atlas Cement Company said technical reasons rule out the city's plan for filling in south bay. Experience has shown that silt from the river bottom, which it was proposed to dredge from the river bottom, does not stabilze and after a time becomes useless. Surface draining is not reliable and also railroad operation in the area would be hampered.

Mayor Samuel T. Wheeler has expressed great disappointment over the report. For the past two years his administration had been working to have south bay and the 11-acres city owned tract of land filled in by the U. S. Army Engineers using Hudson River fill. It has been suggested the city raise its 11-acre tract through a selective dumping type of fill. This would be accomplished only at enormous cost, Mayor Wheeler said.

Borgnine Still On Cloud Nine, Cast Makes Plans

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ernest Borgnine reports that his "McHale's Navy" buddies have his wedding to Ethel Merman all planned.

Spirits Soaring

Borgnine returned to the television series this week after his surprise announcement in New York that he and Miss Merman will marry in July. He reported the cast's plans for the event:

"Joe Flynn will give the bride away, Billy Sands and Fuji (Yoshio Yoda) will be bridesmaids, Gavin McLeod will be the ringbearer and Gary Vinson will stand outside the church and cry."

Ernie is naturally ebullient, and since the engagement his spirits have soared.

"She's so vivacious, so marvelous, so—well, I just get carried away when I think about her," he said.

His divorce from Mexican actress Katy Jurado isn't final until June, and there have been reports that he might seek quicker freedom.

Prepared to Wait

"I don't think so," he said, "although Miss Katy Jurado has been very nice to offer to get a Mexican divorce to speed things up. Ethel and I are not in that much of a hurry.

"Both of us realize it's a wait, and we're prepared for it. She has commitments, such as a singing engagement at the Talk of the Town in London starting Feb. 18. I won't be finished with the TV series season until the end of March.

"We know we belong together and we're willing to make the best of it."

The romance was a cyclonic affair, befitting both their personalities. Ernie took another date to a Hollywood party a month ago and heard Miss Merman sing. His reaction: "Holy cow, she's fabulous!" He met her and told her so, also how much his daughter had liked her in "It's A Mad (4) World."

A few days later the hosts of the party, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shribman, asked Ernie if he would like to bring Miss Merman along on a dinner date. Would he!

They had four dates, then Ernie flew to New York the day after Christmas and popped the question at her apartment. Her reply: "I thought you'd never ask."

She is coming here this weekend, and they will make further plans. One matter seems settled: They will make their home here.

Plans in Motion For '64 Pageant

As most shiver amid snow and cold, the 12-member Board of Pageant, Inc. is at work planning the Miss New York State Pageant. The 1964 Pageant will be held in Kingston on July 9, 10 and 11.

This will be the sixth consecutive year that New York's official preliminary to the Miss America will be held at Kingston. This year's Miss New York State will represent the entire state, including New York City.

The pageant here is co-sponsored by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Work on the pageant really never stops. As soon as one pageant is over, work is begun for the next year. The work on the Miss New York State Pageant is done entirely by volunteers. Throughout the winter months the groundwork is laid by the 12 members of Pageant, Inc. Six are representatives of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, and six represent the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In Spring, the "Old Standbys", eager volunteers from throughout the area, begin to take over. By Pageant Week, well over 100 citizens are involved in making the Miss New York State Pageant a success.

"It is surprising how big a job volunteers can do when they work together. It is equally surprising how eager the community is to serve. Kingston area business, industry, and government can annually be counted on to lend their support," a spokesman said.

LL Umpire Job Rated Top Test For Ex-Convicts

VACAVILLE, Calif. (AP) — If a convict can survive as a Little League umpire, he has a good chance of readjusting to society.

That's the thinking behind a program at the California Department of Corrections facility here, which is experimenting with a one-year program to prepare convicted violent criminals for parole by testing them in a variety of demanding and stressful jobs.

Umpiring Little League games is part of the stress.

"There's nothing tougher," says program director Werner J. Einstadter. "A Little League umpire hasn't got a friend, no matter what decision he makes. He can't win either way."

Unless he holds his temper and wins parole.

Cleric Says Gifts To Oswald Family Fine Opporunity

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. K. Owen White of Houston, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, says gifts to the family of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald "would be a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate the fact that our faith is warm and personal."

Dr. White's plea was published Thursday by the Standard, official newspaper of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. He is pastor of Houston's First Baptist Church.

The Oswald family "not only must face life with a stigma they did not bring on themselves, but they must do it without many relatives or friends on whom they can depend for help" Dr. White said.

The Standard said about $30,000 has been contributed to Oswald's family in contrast to nearly one-half million dollars donated to the family of slain Dallas Policeman J.D. Tippit, killed shortly after Kennedy's assassination. Oswald, charged with both the Tippit and Kennedy slayings, was shot to death by Dallas night club operator Jack Ruby.

Unlikely Berlin Wall Visits Will Get Extra Time

BERLIN (AP)—East German officials accepted applications from West Berliners to cross the Berlin wall for the last time today. It appeared unlikely that an agreement to extend the visits to East Berlin relatives could be negotiated before the Christmas - New Year holiday arrangement ends at midnight Sunday.

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt conferred Thursday with officials of his government and West German Vice Chancellor Erich Mende in preparation for negotiations with the Esst Germans to keep the wall open. But there was no indication when the negotiations would begin or what demands the Communists would make.

The official East German news agency, ADN, said that up to this morning 1,282,000 permits had been issued for the one-day visits by West Berliners that began Dec. 19. That is considerably more than the actual number of visitors. Many go through the wall several times.

Rules Out Hudson Plan to Fill in 11-Acre Section

A proposed plan by the city of Hudson to fill in an 11-acre city owned tract of land in the south bay area for industrial sites has been ruled out. Universal-Atlas Cement Company said technical reasons rule out the city's plan for filling in south bay. Experience has shown that silt from the river bottom, which it was proposed to dredge from the river bottom, does not stabilze and after a time becomes useless. Surface draining is not reliable and also railroad operation in the area would be hampered.

Mayor Samuel T. Wheeler has expressed great disappointment over the report. For the past two years his administration had been working to have south bay and the 11-acres city owned tract of land filled in by the U. S. Army Engineers using Hudson River fill. It has been suggested the city raise its 11-acre tract through a selective dumping type of fill. This would be accomplished only at enormous cost, Mayor Wheeler said.

Roads Ran Down

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—County prison officials, who use prisoners to maintain the highways, were hit by a labor shortage this summer. It seems most trial court judges were away on vacation and not enough new prisoners were being sentenced to make up for those being let out with sentences completed. The county work gang was cut almost in half.

Borgnine Still On Cloud Nine, Cast Makes Plans

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ernest Borgnine reports that his "McHale's Navy" buddies have his wedding to Ethel Merman all planned.

Spirits Soaring

Borgnine returned to the television series this week after his surprise announcement in New York that he and Miss Merman will marry in July. He reported the cast's plans for the event:

"Joe Flynn will give the bride away, Billy Sands and Fuji (Yoshio Yoda) will be bridesmaids, Gavin McLeod will be the ringbearer and Gary Vinson will stand outside the church and cry."

Ernie is naturally ebullient, and since the engagement his spirits have soared.

"She's so vivacious, so marvelous, so—well, I just get carried away when I think about her," he said.

His divorce from Mexican actress Katy Jurado isn't final until June, and there have been reports that he might seek quicker freedom.

Prepared to Wait

"I don't think so," he said, "although Miss Katy Jurado has been very nice to offer to get a Mexican divorce to speed things up. Ethel and I are not in that much of a hurry.

"Both of us realize it's a wait, and we're prepared for it. She has commitments, such as a singing engagement at the Talk of the Town in London starting Feb. 18. I won't be finished with the TV series season until the end of March.

"We know we belong together and we're willing to make the best of it."

The romance was a cyclonic affair, befitting both their personalities. Ernie took another date to a Hollywood party a month ago and heard Miss Merman sing. His reaction: "Holy cow, she's fabulous!" He met her and told her so, also how much his daughter had liked her in "It's A Mad (4) World."

A few days later the hosts of the party, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Shribman, asked Ernie if he would like to bring Miss Merman along on a dinner date. Would he!

They had four dates, then Ernie flew to New York the day after Christmas and popped the question at her apartment. Her reply: "I thought you'd never ask."

She is coming here this weekend, and they will make further plans. One matter seems settled: They will make their home here.

Plans in Motion For '64 Pageant

As most shiver amid snow and cold, the 12-member Board of Pageant, Inc. is at work planning the Miss New York State Pageant. The 1964 Pageant will be held in Kingston on July 9, 10 and 11.

This will be the sixth consecutive year that New York's official preliminary to the Miss America will be held at Kingston. This year's Miss New York State will represent the entire state, including New York City.

The pageant here is co-sponsored by the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce and the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Work on the pageant really never stops. As soon as one pageant is over, work is begun for the next year. The work on the Miss New York State Pageant is done entirely by volunteers. Throughout the winter months the groundwork is laid by the 12 members of Pageant, Inc. Six are representatives of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, and six represent the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

In Spring, the "Old Standbys", eager volunteers from throughout the area, begin to take over. By Pageant Week, well over 100 citizens are involved in making the Miss New York State Pageant a success.

"It is surprising how big a job volunteers can do when they work together. It is equally surprising how eager the community is to serve. Kingston area business, industry, and government can annually be counted on to lend their support," a spokesman said.

Johnson to Name Woman to Job on Consumer Matters

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., (AP)—President Johnson plans to name Asst. Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson to a newly created post as presidential assistant on consumer matters.

Experienced as homemaker, teacher, union official and subcabinet officer, Mrs. Peterson already is the highest ranking woman in government.

She and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz have an appointment to see the President on department budget matters at the LBJ Ranch today.

It is understood President Johnson feels it is important to have someone in the White House paying individual attention to consumer problems and representing consumer interests, with the ability to get the President's ear on these matters.

The President is known to have high regard for Mrs. Peterson, 56. A native of Provo, Utah, she was named an assistant secretary of labor by President John F. Kennedy on Aug. 17, 1961. She also is vice chairman of the President's Commission on the Status of Women, which Kennedy set up in an effort to end discrimination against women.

During his 1960 presidential campaign, Kennedy promised to name an adviser on consumer matters. He never did, although he set up a Consumer Advisory Council.

Best Guess Is That

Romney Is Likely To Seek Another Term as Governor

By GENE SCHROEDER

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney, whose national image has had the ups and downs of a political roller-coaster, doesn't count himself out of the national picture.

But Romney is not referring to speculation that he might be the 1964 Republican presidential nominee. The governor has steadfastly maintained that he is not a candidate and will not become one.

"I'm concerned about the national picture," Romney said in an interview. "And properly so, because after all, what happens nationally has an important bearing on what happens to Michigan."

Romney, Michigan's first Republican governor in 14 years, has not announced whether he will run for re-election.

Best guess among most Lansing observers is that he will try for at least one more two-year term, despite his occasional expressions of distaste for politics. He is a former president of American Motors.

Romney's political stock soared last spring with adoption of the new State Constitution, which he helped to write as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention.

Romney lists its adoption as the No. 1 achievement of his year-old administration.

But his leadership image suffered a severe blow this fall when the Republican-dominated Legislature failed to adopt the fiscal reform program for the state, frequently beset by financial troubles although now enjoying a booming economy.

The governor's fisal program was keyed to a controversial state income tax on both individuals and corporations.

Romney said that despite the failure of the reform, legislature achievement under his regime has been high.

One of these, he said, is the reapportionment of Michigan's congressional seats. The state acquired a 19th congressman last year, but the seat has been filled on an at-large basis.

Johnson to Name Woman to Job on Consumer Matters

JOHNSON CITY, Tex., (AP)— President Johnson plans to name Asst. Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson to a newly created post as presidential assistant on consumer matters.

Experienced as homemaker, teacher, union official and subcabinet officer, Mrs. Peterson already is the highest ranking woman in government.

She and Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz have an appointment to see the President on department budget matters at the LBJ Ranch today.

It is understood President Johnson feels it is important to have someone in the White House paying individual attention to consumer problems and representing consumer interests, with the ability to get the President's ear on these matters.

The President is known to have high regard for Mrs. Peterson, 56. A native of Provo, Utah, she was named an assistant secretary of labor by President John F. Kennedy on Aug. 17, 1961. She also is vice chairman of the President's Commission on the Status of Women, which Kennedy set up in an effort to end discrimination against women.

During his 1960 presidential campaign, Kennedy promised to name an adviser on consumer matters. He never did, although he set up a Consumer Advisory Council.

Best Guess Is That

Romney Is Likely To Seek Another Term as Governor

By GENE SCHROEDER

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Gov. George Romney, whose national image has had the ups and downs of a political roller-coaster, doesn't count himself out of the national picture.

But Romney is not referring to speculation that he might be the 1964 Republican presidential nominee. The governor has steadfastly maintained that he is not a candidate and will not become one.

"I'm concerned about the national picture," Romney said in an interview. "And properly so, because after all, what happens nationally has an important bearing on what happens to Michigan."

Romney, Michigan's first Republican governor in 14 years, has not announced whether he will run for re-election.

Best guess among most Lansing observers is that he will try for at least one more two-year term, despite his occasional expressions of distaste for politics. He is a former president of American Motors.

Romney's political stock soared last spring with adoption of the new State Constitution, which he helped to write as a delegate to the Constitutional Convention.

Romney lists its adoption as the No. 1 achievement of his year-old administration.

But his leadership image suffered a severe blow this fall when the Republican-dominated Legislature failed to adopt the fiscal reform program for the state, frequently beset by financial troubles although now enjoying a booming economy.

The governor's fisal program was keyed to a controversial state income tax on both individuals and corporations.

Romney said that despite the failure of the reform, legislature achievement under his regime has been high.

One of these, he said, is the reapportionment of Michigan's congressional seats. The state acquired a 19th congressman last year, but the seat has been filled on an at-large basis.

Wide Areas Get Relief as Warm Trend Develops

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's weather pattern showed a welcome warming trend across most areas today, bringing relief to wide sections in the South and East hit by severe snow and ice storms earlier this week.

The Weather Bureau reported no severe cold or heavy snow. Light snow fell in the northern Appalachians and central Rockies and light rain splashed areas along the Washington coast.

Strong wind swept the central part of the country as a dry cold front moved eastward along a line from Wisconsin to northwestern Texas. Early morning temperatures ranged from the 50s along the Mexican border to the 20s in mountain areas in the east and to the teens in mountain sections in the west.

Although readings were generally above freezing in most other areas, a pocket of cold air spread into parts of the Southeast and the mercury dipped to 27 in Cross City, Fla.

Trio Is Charged With Six Counts In Sinatra Case

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — A federal grand jury — after hearing testimony which reportedly included that of Frank Sinatra Jr. — dealt swiftly and impartially with three men accused of kidnaping him.

All three were charged with six counts of kidnaping, conspiracy, placing ransom calls, and possession of ransom money.

No quarter was shown John William Irwin, 42, first of the trio arrested, who was reported to have helped the FBI after having his own brother turn him in.

In fact, it was disclosed, the FBI didn't need Irwin's help to crack the case.

U.S. Atty. Francis Whelan, who announced the indictments, said that the matter was all but settled when Irwin was arrested Dec. 13 near San Diego.

The grand jury concluded its hearing on the case Thursday with the presentation of a true bill against the three men — Irwin, Barry Worthington Keenan and Clyde Joseph Amsler, each 23.

The three defendants will be arraigned Monday.

Youth Charged With Theft of Special Radio

An alert Town of Poughkeepsie police detective on Thursday took into custody a 17-year-old youth on a charge of grand larceny second degree involving the alleged theft of a special "Seebee" two-way radio.

Det. Lieut. Richard Hellman said the radio was special built with special microphone and other attachments, and it was the only one known to have been in use in Dutchess County area. The radio reportedly was taken on Nov. 26 from a parked car owned by Burtis Vleming, a former Poughkeepsie city patrolman and presently a security officer at the Montgomery Ward Store, South Road.

Lieut. Hellman said Detective Sgt. David Cundy, a friend of Vleming, who had assisted in installing the two-way radio in Vleming's car, was on patrol yesterday when he picked up a broadcast in which the speaker was describing the radio he was using to transmit calls. Cundy recognized the radio as the one stolen from Vleming's car. The sergeant obtained sufficient information "over the air" and later went to the home of Richard Leonard Whiten Jr., 17, of 67 Vassar Road.

Police found the radio and after questioning Whiten, the youth was booked for grand larceny. The wholesale value of the radio was $135.

Whiten was arraigned last night before Town Justice of the Peace George C. Dietz. He was ordered held in lieu of $500 for hearing Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Signals Raise Hope for 9 on Downed Airplane

HONOLULU (AP) — A "Gibson Girl" transmitter with an hour-glass figure raised the hopes of searchers today as they combed the Pacific Ocean for the crew of a downed cargo plane.

Nine men aboard the missing C124 aircraft — eight Air Force men and a sailor — were believed adrift somewhere in a massive expanse of water, hundreds of miles from the nearest island.

A portable radio transmitter named because of its shape, the "Gibson Girl" transmitted distress signals which narrowed down the search area to an "L" shaped expanse of the Pacific roughly 750 nautical miles west of Hawaii.

The signals — strong on one occasion Thursday night when they were picked up by an inbound military Air Transport Service C124 Globemaster — led searchers to believe that at least some of the plane's occupants were alive.

The transmitter must be hand-cranked so that the distress signal can be given out.

About 500,000 children are victims of accidental poisoning annually, Public Health Service records reveal.

McCormack Next in Line

Speaker Gives Views on Issues

EDITOR's NOTE—John W. McCormack, speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, became the first in succession to the presidency with the death of John F. Kennedy. Here are his views on some world issues, as expressed in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press.

By HOLCOMB B. NOBLE
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP)—House Speaker John W. McCormack says that as long as the Soviet Union adheres to its "policy of subversion" the United States must maintain an alert and powerful military force.

He said the nation must not expect any quick or easy end to the cold war but must continue to be strong both militarily and spiritually if it is to combat Communist aggression.

Won't Step Down

In an interview with The Associated Press, he also expressed his thoughts on the proposed tax cut, the recent fight for the passage of the foreign aid bill, and civil rights.

After the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, McCormack, as speaker of the House, became first in succession to the presidency in the event of the death of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

McCormack, tall and slender at 72, was quick to scowl at mention of suggestions by some critics that he resign because of his age. He said he is in good health and has no intention of resigning.

On foreign policy, McCormack said that at this time his thinking would not differ from that of President Johnson, who he said has expressed an interest in keeping him fully informed on security and foreign affairs.

Favors E-W Talks

He favors continued East-West negotiations and a continued U.S. foreign aid program as affirmative steps to achieving world peace.

"Still," McCormack said, "those who live in a dream world of hope, no matter how honest the view, might be reckless in the world of today."

He then mentioned the congressional battle last month that preceded passage of the 1963 foreign aid bill.

He said the program is becoming harder to get through Congress and will become more so unless there is an "awakening of public opinion to the needs and importance of foreign assistance."

The speaker called the civil rights bill the most important piece of legislation before the Congress, more important than the tax cut bill "because it involves a moral question."

Drivers Are Unhurt In Rt. 9W Crash

The drivers of two cars escaped injury and there was minor damage when cars operated by Gerard Mennella, 23, of 8 East Bridge Street, Saugerties, and Pauline Castiglione, 34, of Sunset Park, were in collision at 1:20 a. m. today.

Both cars were going north on 9W on Albany Avenue Extension when the Menella car pulled out to pass the Castiglione car. At the same time another unidentified car attempted to pass the Mennella car and the operator of the Mennella car pulled back in line, striking the Castiglione car.

The accident was investigated by Deputy Sheriffs Silas Countryman and Calvert Harvey.

Nikita Hunts, Rests in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev went into seclusion in northern Poland today to hunt and rest.

He was accompanied by Poland's top leaders. Diplomats speculated that some talks on problems facing the Communist world might take place.

So far the Soviet permier's visit was shaping up as a repeat of one almost a year ago. Khrushchev conferred then with Polish Communist chiefs but devoted most of his time to hunting and recreation.

Khrushchev arrived in Warsaw Thursday night. There was no official word on the length of his stay. Last year he remained three days.

The visit was billed as unofficial and no public functions were announced.

The Soviet premier's last official visit to Poland was in 1959. He has come to Poland to hunt almost every winter since 1956.

Wide Areas Get Relief as Warm Trend Develops

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's weather pattern showed a welcome warming trend across most areas today, bringing relief to wide sections in the South and East hit by severe snow and ice storms earlier this week.

The Weather Bureau reported no severe cold or heavy snow. Light snow fell in the northern Appalachians and central Rockies and light rain splashed areas along the Washington coast.

Strong wind swept the central part of the country as a dry cold front moved eastward along a line from Wisconsin to northwestern Texas. Early morning temperatures ranged from the 50s along the Mexican border to the 20s in mountain areas in the east and to the teens in mountain sections in the west.

Although readings were generally above freezing in most other areas, a pocket of cold air spread into parts of the Southeast and the mercury dipped to 27 in Cross City, Fla.

Trio Is Charged With Six Counts In Sinatra Case

LOS ANGELES, (AP) — A federal grand jury — after hearing testimony which reportedly included that of Frank Sinatra Jr. — dealt swiftly and impartially with three men accused of kidnaping him.

All three were charged with six counts of kidnaping, conspiracy, placing ransom calls, and possession of ransom money.

No quarter was shown John William Irwin, 42, first of the trio arrested, who was reported to have helped the FBI after having his own brother turn him in.

In fact, it was disclosed, the FBI didn't need Irwin's help to crack the case.

U.S. Atty. Francis Whelan, who announced the indictments, said that the matter was all but settled when Irwin was arrested Dec. 13 near San Diego.

The grand jury concluded its hearing on the case Thursday with the presentation of a true bill against the three men — Irwin, Barry Worthington Keenan and Clyde Joseph Amsler, each 23.

The three defendants will be arraigned Monday.

Youth Charged With Theft of Special Radio

An alert Town of Poughkeepsie police detective on Thursday took into custody a 17-year-old youth on a charge of grand larceny second degree involving the alleged theft of a special "Seebee" two-way radio.

Det. Lieut. Richard Hellman said the radio was special built with special microphone and other attachments, and it was the only one known to have been in use in Dutchess County area. The radio reportedly was taken on Nov. 26 from a parked car owned by Burtis Vleming, a former Poughkeepsie city patrolman and presently a security officer at the Montgomery Ward Store, South Road.

Lieut. Hellman said Detective Sgt. David Cundy, a friend of Vleming, who had assisted in installing the two-way radio in Vleming's car, was on patrol yesterday when he picked up a broadcast in which the speaker was describing the radio he was using to transmit calls. Cundy recognized the radio as the one stolen from Vleming's car. The sergeant obtained sufficient information "over the air" and later went to the home of Richard Leonard Whiten Jr., 17, of 67 Vassar Road.

Police found the radio and after questioning Whiten, the youth was booked for grand larceny. The wholesale value of the radio was $135.

Whiten was arraigned last night before Town Justice of the Peace George C. Dietz. He was ordered held in lieu of $500 for hearing Tuesday at 10 a. m.

Signals Raise Hope for 9 on Downed Airplane

HONOLULU (AP) — A "Gibson Girl" transmitter with an hour-glass figure raised the hopes of searchers today as they combed the Pacific Ocean for the crew of a downed cargo plane.

Nine men aboard the missing C124 aircraft — eight Air Force men and a sailor — were believed adrift somewhere in a massive expanse of water, hundreds of miles from the nearest island.

A portable radio transmitter named because of its shape, the "Gibson Girl" transmitted distress signals which narrowed down the search area to an "L" shaped expanse of the Pacific roughly 750 nautical miles west of Hawaii.

The signals — strong on one occasion Thursday night when they were picked up by an inbound military Air Transport Service C124 Globemaster — led searchers to believe that at least some of the plane's occupants were alive.

The transmitter must be hand-cranked so that the distress signal can be given out.

About 500,000 children are victims of accidental poisoning annually, Public Health Service records reveal.

McCormack Next in Line

Speaker Gives Views on Issues

EDITOR'S NOTE—John W. McCormack, speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives, became the first in succession to the presidency with the death of John F. Kennedy. Here are his views on some world issues, as expressed in an exclusive interview with The Associated Press.

By HOLCOMB B. NOBLE
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP)—House Speaker John W. McCormack says that as long as the Soviet Union adheres to its "policy of subversion" the United States must maintain an alert and powerful military force.

He said the nation must not expect any quick or easy end to the cold war but must continue to be strong both militarily and spiritually if it is to combat Communist aggression.

Won't Step Down

In an interview with The Associated Press, he also expressed his thoughts on the proposed tax cut, the recent fight for the passage of the foreign aid bill, and civil rights.

After the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, McCormack, as speaker of the House, became first in succession to the presidency in the event of the death of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

McCormack, tall and slender at 72, was quick to scowl at mention of suggestions by some critics that he resign because of his age. He said he is in good health and has no intention of resigning.

On foreign policy, McCormack said that at this time his thinking would not differ from that of President Johnson, who he said has expressed an interest in keeping him fully informed on security and foreign affairs.

Favors E-W Talks

He favors continued East-West negotiations and a continued U.S. foreign aid program as affirmative steps to achieving world peace.

"Still," McCormack said, "those who live in a dream world of hope, no matter how honest the view, might be reckless in the world of today."

He then mentioned the congressional battle last month that preceded passage of the 1963 foreign aid bill.

He said the program is becoming harder to get through Congress and will become more so unless there is an "awakening of public opinion to the needs and importance of foreign assistance."

The speaker called the civil rights bill the most important piece of legislation before the Congress, more important than the tax cut bill "because it involves a moral question."

Drivers Are Unhurt In Rt. 9W Crash

The drivers of two cars escaped injury and there was minor damage when cars operated by Gerard Mennella, 23, of 8 East Bridge Street, Saugerties, and Pauline Castiglione, 34, of Sunset Park, were in collision at 1:20 a. m. today.

Both cars were going north on 9W on Albany Avenue Extension when the Menella car pulled out to pass the Castiglione car. At the same time another unidentified car attempted to pass the Mennella car and the operator of the Mennella car pulled back in line, striking the Castiglione car.

The accident was investigated by Deputy Sheriffs Silas Countryman and Calvert Harvey.

Nikita Hunts, Rests in Poland

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev went into seclusion in northern Poland today to hunt and rest.

He was accompanied by Poland's top leaders. Diplomats speculated that some talks on problems facing the Communist world might take place.

So far the Soviet permier's visit was shaping up as a repeat of one almost a year ago. Khrushchev conferred then with Polish Communist chiefs but devoted most of his time to hunting and recreation.

Khrushchev arrived in Warsaw Thursday night. There was no official word on the length of his stay. Last year he remained three days.

The visit was billed as unofficial and no public functions were announced.

The Soviet premier's last official visit to Poland was in 1959. He has come to Poland to hunt almost every winter since 1956.
